Under the terms of Mr. Belluzzo's Resignation Agreement, the Company agreed that Mr. Belluzzo's bonus under the Company's Partner Bonus Plan for fiscal 2002 would be $350,000, but that he would not be entitled to any bonus for fiscal 2003. As part of the Resignation Agreement, it was agreed that pursuant to the terms of an agreement entered into prior to Mr. Belluzzo's appointment as President and Chief Operating Officer, he would retain a $15,000,000 advance made to him in December 2000, in exchange for cancellation of certain options granted to Mr. Belluzzo during his employment with the Company. REPORT OF THE MICROSOFT CORPORATION BOARD OF DIRECTORS COMPENSATION COMMITTEE

Microsoft's compensation philosophy is to provide employees with an above-average overall compensation package and the opportunity to earn very competitive compensation over the long-term through a pay-for-performance approach. The compensation plans are intended to promote outstanding employee performance by offering high-performing employees larger compensation rewards.

The Company's cash compensation policies provide a base salary that is above the average of industry pay levels and offer bonuses that reward superior performance. Microsoft employees also participate in a broad-based stock option program. The program is structured to promote excellent performance over an employee's career through the opportunity for increased compensation that increases commensurate with the Company's long-term performance.

The Company's compensation policy for officers, while similar to that for other employees, is oriented toward rewarding excellence, leadership and outstanding long-term company performance.

Officers of the Company are paid salaries that are comparable to base salaries paid by competitors in the computer and other relevant industries. Officers participate in an Executive Bonus Plan which offers the opportunity to earn an annual bonus of up to 100% of base salary based upon individually established performance goals. Officers are also eligible to receive stock option grants, which are intended to incent officers to help the Company realize its fullest potential by offering the opportunity for significant additional compensation through gains from long-term stock appreciation. Stock option grants are based on various factors relating to the responsibilities of the individual officers and their expected future contributions.

As noted above, the Company's compensation policy is primarily based upon the practice of pay-for-performance. Section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code imposes a limitation on the deductibility of nonperformance-based compensation in excess of $1 million paid to Named Executive Officers. The Committee currently believes that the Company should be able to continue to manage its executive compensation program for Named Executive Officers so as to preserve the related federal income tax deductions, although individual exceptions may occur.

The Compensation Committee of the Board of Directors (comprised entirely of independent directors) reviews officer salaries, bonuses, and compensation programs. The Committee approves stock option grants and reviews stock option programs for all employees. The Committee also annually reviews and approves the compensation of Steven A. Ballmer, Chief Executive Officer, and William H. Gates III, the Chairman of the Board and Chief Software Architect.

The compensation of Messrs. Ballmer and Gates reflects their status as significant shareholders of the Company. Their salary rates are below competitive levels elsewhere in industry and they do not participate in the Company's stock option program. They are eligible for an annual bonus of up to 100% of their salary based on corporate revenue and profit goals, which are reviewed by the Compensation Committee. As the leaders of the Company they are focused on building long-term success, and as significant shareholders in the Company their overall compensation is tied directly to sustained increases in the Company's value.

REPORT OF THE MICROSOFT CORPORATION BOARD OF DIRECTORS AUDIT COMMITTEE

The primary purpose of the Audit Committee is to assist the Board of Directors in its general oversight of the Company's financial reporting process, and is more fully described in its charter which the Committee has adopted and is included as Exhibit I to this proxy statement. The Committee reviews the charter on an annual basis. The Committee annually reviews the NASD standard of independence for audit committees and at its most recent review determined that the Committee meets that standard.

Management is responsible for the preparation, presentation, and integrity of the Company's financial statements, accounting and financial reporting principles, internal controls, and procedures designed to ensure compliance with accounting standards, applicable laws, and regulations. The Company's independent auditors, Deloitte & Touche LLP, are responsible for performing an independent audit of the consolidated financial statements and expressing an opinion on the conformity of those financial statements with generally accepted accounting principles.

The Committee has reviewed and discussed the audited financial statements of the Company for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2002 with the Company's management and has discussed with Deloitte & Touche LLP the matters required to be discussed by Statement on Auditing Standards Board Standard No. 61, as amended, Communication with Audit Committees. In addition, Deloitte & Touche LLP has provided the Audit Committee with the written disclosures and the letter required by the Independence Standards Board Standard No. 1, Independence Discussions with Audit Committees, and the Audit Committee has discussed with Deloitte & Touche LLP their independence.

Based on these reviews and discussions, the Audit Committee recommended to the Board of Directors that the audited financial statements be included in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2002, for filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

FEES PAID TO DELOITTE & TOUCHE LLP

The audit committee retained Deloitte & Touche LLP as the company's independent auditors to audit the Company's financial statements for fiscal 2002. The aggregate fees billed by Deloitte & Touche LLP include fees for the following services rendered during fiscal 2002:

Audit Fees totaling $5.03 million, which included fees for the review and examination of Microsoft's consolidated financial statements, quarterly reviews of interim financial statements, and consultations on accounting matters related to the financial statements.

All Other Fees totaling $16.39 million, which consisted of $12.65 million in audit-related services including statutory audits of foreign domiciled subsidiaries, software licensee related audits, and audits of benefit plans, joint ventures, and partnerships, $0.52 million in tax services, and $3.22 million in other services including a variety of benchmarking and business process improvement projects conducted for individual business units. Deloitte & Touche was not engaged to provide any internal audit or accounting record keeping services.

Financial Information Systems Design and Implementation Fees. Deloitte & Touche was not engaged to perform any services involving financial information systems design and implementation.

The Audit Committee has concluded the provision of the non-audit services listed as All Other Fees above is compatible with maintaining the independence of Deloitte & Touche LLP.

2. PROPOSAL FOR APPROVAL OF THE 2003 EMPLOYEE STOCK PURCHASE PLAN

At the meeting, the shareholders will be requested to approve the 2003 Employee Stock Purchase Plan (the Purchase Plan) which is an amendment and restatement of the Company's 1997 Employee Stock Purchase Plan. The 1997 Plan would expire on December 31, 2002 if the Purchase Plan is not approved. The Board recommends approval of the Purchase Plan in order to allow the Company to continue to offer its employees the ability to invest in the Company's common stock at an attractive price. A copy of the Purchase Plan may be obtained upon written request to the Company's Investor Relations Department at One Microsoft Way, Redmond, Washington 98052.

DESCRIPTION OF THE PLAN

The Purchase Plan, if approved by the shareholders, will establish sub-plans designed to permit the purchase of Company stock either in a Statutory Plan, intended to satisfy the requirements of Section 423 of the Internal Revenue Code, or in a Non-Statutory Plan. Except as modified by the Purchase Plan administrative committee in the case of a Non-Statutory Plan, the Purchase Plan will allow all employees of companies that have been designated to participate in the Purchase Plan, other than employees whose customary employment is for not more than five months a year, to authorize payroll deductions at any whole percentage rate from 1% to 15% of cash performance-based pay (including overtime or performance bonuses, but excluding certain other types of bonuses such as relocation and sign-on bonuses) to be applied toward the purchase of the Company's common stock. There will be 100 million shares of common stock reserved for issuance under the Purchase Plan. As of September 9, 2002, there were approximately 50,469 employees eligible to participate in the Purchase Plan. The Purchase Plan will terminate on December 31, 2012, or earlier at the discretion of the Board or in the event all shares reserved under the plan have been purchased.

Separate six-month offerings commence on January 1 and July 1 of each year. No employee may purchase more than 1,000 shares of stock during any single offering.

An employee must authorize a payroll deduction before the start of an offering in order to participate in that offering. On the last business day of the offering, the employee will be deemed to have exercised the option to purchase as many shares as the employee's payroll deduction will allow at the option price. The option price is 85% of the lesser of (i) the fair market value of the stock on the first business day of the offering, or (ii) the fair market value of the stock on the last business day of the offering. The closing price of the Company's common stock as reported on the Nasdaq Stock Market on September 9, 2002 was $48.70.

An employee may withdraw from an offering at any time before the first day of the last month of the offering period. Upon withdrawal, the amount in the employee's account will be refunded. An employee may suspend participation in an offering at any time before the first day of the last month of the offering period by reducing his or her payroll deduction percentage election to 0% for the remainder of the offering. In such a case, the amount accumulated in the employee's account prior to the suspension is not refunded, but is used to purchase shares as described in the preceding paragraph. An employee who has withdrawn from or suspended participation in an offering may not again participate in the Purchase Plan until the next offering commences.

No employee shall be permitted to purchase any shares under the Purchase Plan if such employee, immediately after such purchase, owns shares possessing five percent or more of the total combined voting power or value of all classes of stock of the Company or its parent or subsidiary corporations. The fair market value of all shares purchased by an employee under the Purchase Plan during any calendar year may not exceed $25,000.

Because the purchase of shares under the Purchase Plan is discretionary with all eligible employees, the amount of shares which would have been distributable during fiscal 2002 to all employees, or to groups of employees, or to any particular employee of the Company had the Purchase Plan been in effect during the year are not determinable.

The Board of Directors may at any time amend or terminate the Purchase Plan, provided that no employee's existing rights under any offering already commenced may be adversely affected thereby. No amendment may be made to the Purchase Plan without prior approval of the shareholders of the Company if such amendment would increase the number of shares reserved thereunder or materially modify the eligibility requirements.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES RELATING TO THE PURCHASE PLAN

The following discussion, which has been prepared by the law firm of Preston Gates & Ellis LLP, counsel to the Company, is a summary of the general U.S. federal income tax rules applicable to purchases offered by the Company and certain of its designated subsidiaries under the Statutory Plan, which is a sub-plan of the Purchase Plan. Employees should consult their own tax advisors since a taxpayer's particular situation may be such that some variation of the rules described below will apply.

The Statutory Plan and the right of participants to make purchases thereunder are intended to qualify under the provisions of Section 421 and 423 of the Internal Revenue Code. Under those provisions, no income will be taxable to a participant at the time of grant of the option or purchase of shares. However, a participant may become liable for tax upon dispositions of shares acquired under the Statutory Plan, and the tax consequences will depend on how long a participant has held the shares prior to disposition.

If the shares are disposed of (a) at least two years after the date of the beginning of the offering period and (b) at least one year after the stock is purchased in accordance with the Purchase Plan (or if the employee dies while holding the shares), the following tax consequences will apply. The lesser of (a) the excess of fair market value of the shares at the time of such disposition over the purchase price of the shares (the option price), or (b) the excess of the fair market value of the shares at the time the option was granted over the option price (which option price will be computed as of the offering date) will be taxed as ordinary income to the participant. Any further gain upon disposition generally will be taxed at long-term capital gain rates. If the shares are sold and the sales price is less than the option price, there is no ordinary income and the participant has a long-term capital loss equal to the difference. If an employee holds the shares for the holding periods described above, no deduction in respect of the disposition of such shares will be allowed to the Company.

If the shares are sold or disposed of (including by way of gift) before the expiration of either the two year or the one year holding periods described above, the following tax consequences will apply. The amount by which the fair market value of the shares on the date the option is exercised (which is the last business day of the offering period and which is hereafter referred to as the termination date) exceeds the option price will be taxed as ordinary income to the participant. This excess will constitute ordinary income in the year of sale or other disposition even if no gain is realized on the sale or a gratuitous transfer of the shares is made. The balance of any gain will be taxed as capital gain and will qualify for long-term capital gain treatment if the shares have been held for more than one year following the exercise of the option. If the shares are sold for an amount that is less than their fair market value as of the termination date, the participant recognizes ordinary income equal to the excess of the fair market value of the shares on the termination date over the option price, and the participant may recognize a capital loss equal to the difference between the sales price and the value of such shares on the termination date. The Company, in the event of an early disposition, will be allowed a deduction for federal income tax purposes equal to the ordinary income realized by the disposing employee.

Currently, the Company is not required to withhold employment or income taxes upon the exercise of options under plans qualifying under Sections 421 and 423 of the Internal Revenue Code. However, the Internal Revenue Service may issue guidance in the future requiring the Company to withhold employment and/or income taxes upon the exercise of options under the Statutory Plan.

The Company may also permit purchases to be made under Non-Statutory Plans by employees of companies that do not participate in the Statutory Plan. The specific terms of such Non-Statutory Plans are not yet known, accordingly it is not possible to discuss with certainty the relevant tax consequences of these Non-Statutory Plans. The Non-Statutory Plans will be sub-plans of the Purchase Plan that are generally not intended to qualify under the provisions of Sections 421 and 423 of the Internal Revenue Code. Therefore, it is likely that at the time of the exercise of an option under a Non-Statutory Plan, an employee subject to tax under the Internal Revenue Code would recognize ordinary income equal to the excess of the fair market value of the stock on the date of exercise and the option price, the Company would be able to claim a tax deduction equal to this difference, and the Company would be required to withhold employment taxes and income tax at the time of the purchase.

3. SHAREHOLDER PROPOSAL NO. 1

WHEREAS: our company's business practices in China respect human and labor rights of workers. The eleven principles below were designed to commit a company to a widely accepted and thorough set of human and labor rights standards for China. RESOLVED: Stockholders request the Board of Directors to make all possible lawful efforts to implement and/or increase activity on each of the principles named above in the People's Republic of China.

SUPPORTING STATEMENT: As U.S. companies import more goods, consumer and shareholder concern is growing about working conditions in China that fall below basic standards of fair and humane treatment. We hope that our company can prove to be a leader in its industry and embrace these principles.

VOTE REQUIRED AND BOARD RECOMMENDATION

The affirmative vote of holders of a majority of the shares of common stock cast in person or by proxy at the meeting is required for approval of the proposal.

The Board recommends a vote against this proposal. The Company is committed to operating in full compliance with applicable laws in every country where it does business, including the People's Republic of China. The Company has in place business standards and compliance policies to promote compliance with the laws of the numerous countries in which the Company operates. These policies have proven effective and provide uniformity for the Company's worldwide operations, including its China operations. In addition, Microsoft maintains strong corporate policies designed to promote a healthy environment, prohibit harassment, and prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, age, gender, or national origin. The Company has also made significant investments in the Chinese software industry which have had a direct positive impact by creating career opportunities for numerous researchers and software engineers and creating employment and training opportunities for other individuals. Further, the Company believes that its efforts to foster the development of a local software industry in China should have a positive impact on the people of China by moving Chinese software development into the global market and towards global business practices. A vibrant software industry in China will also facilitate the development of local technologies that may enable improved access to information for its population.

As part of the Company's investment in the Chinese software industry, Microsoft has established a local Research & Development Center (with over 150 employees), Microsoft Research Asia and The Microsoft Global Technical Support Center in Shanghai. These three operations are key elements in facilitating knowledge transfer, skill development and employment opportunities in China. These activities helped contribute to Microsoft being voted one of the most respected companies in China in 2002 by The Economic Observer and Beijing University.

Microsoft Research Asia, based in Beijing and employing over 120 full time research staff and hosting over 200 visiting scientists annually, is a renowned research center employing local and international scientists working on important software research areas and technologies. Microsoft Research Asia has established programs to support basic research in Chinese academia and foster alliances with local universities and industry. These alliances have resulted in scholarships, visiting academic programs, the establishment of four joint computer laboratories in Chinese universities, joint research programs and the establishment of a post-doctoral center.

The Company recently has invested in two joint ventures in China - Zhongguancun Software company to develop enterprise and government software applications and industry solutions for Chinese and international markets and Shanghai Wicresoft Co. Ltd to offer the outsourcing of software services to multinational corporations and the development of proprietary applications for Chinese and international customers. Shanghai Wicresoft Co. Ltd today employs 400 people and is estimated to grow to approximately 700 people in the coming three years with a majority of those being employed coming from Chinese universities.

The establishment of such joint ventures is essential in developing the local creation of intellectual property. Local ownership of intellectual property is critical in fostering ongoing efforts to protect both locally and foreign owned intellectual property, which the Company believes will ultimately lead to growth and diversification of the Chinese economy.

The Company's operations in China have also directly enabled the development of philanthropic programs to aid in the retraining of unskilled workers and the contribution of software to non-profit organizations. The main community affairs initiative sponsored by the Company is the IT Training for Laid-off Workers Program. Begun in 1999 in the Dalian Province in cooperation with the Local Labor Bureau, the program has trained 40 trainers to date with 70% of the re-skilled workers attaining employment as a result of the training. The Center in Dalian has the capacity to train 1200 workers per year and due to its success similar programs have been rolled out in Guangzhou and Shanghai, and will soon be launched in Chengdu.

In reviewing this proposal, the Board was mindful of the fact that it is virtually identical to proposals submitted by Mr. Harrington for consideration at the annual meeting for the last two years. On both occasions, the proposal has been rejected by the Company's shareholders by large margins. The Board does not believe there are any new facts or arguments presented by Mr. Harrington this year.

For these reasons, the Board believes that adoption of the proposal is not necessary or in the best interests of the Company and recommends a vote against the proposal.

4. SHAREHOLDER PROPOSAL NO. 2

Citizens Funds, 230 Commerce Way, Portsmouth, NH 03801, has notified the Company that it intends to submit the following proposal at this year's annual meeting

WHEREAS: It is imperative that investors have confidence in the integrity of the financial statements and the independence of the firm retained to audit those statements.

WHEREAS: The retention of accounting firms at companies for functions other than audit related services, where they serve as the independent auditor, can impair the independence of the auditor, either real or perceived.

RESOLVED: That the shareholders of Microsoft Corp. request the Board of Directors adopt a policy that, in the future, would cap the non-audit fees at 25% of aggregate fees for the firm that is retained as the Company's independent auditor.

SUPPORTING STATEMENT: Independent auditors are necessary to ensure the veracity of financial statements of public corporations, and to provide the investor with confidence that those financial statements are accurate and truthful. The Securities and Exchange Commission noted in Final Rule S7-13-00:

Independent auditors have an important public trust. Investors must be able to rely on issuers' financial statements. It is the auditor's opinion that furnishes investors with critical assurance that the financial statements have been subjected to a rigorous examination by an objective, impartial, and skilled professional, and that investors, therefore, can rely on them. If investors do not believe that an auditor is independent of a company, they will derive little confidence from the auditor's opinion and will be far less likely to invest in that public company's securities.

To maintain the trust of investors, it is important that the independent accounting firms retained by companies remain independent, and be perceived as independent. As accounting firms provide additional services to their audit clients, and the complexity of those relationships increases, the independence of those auditors is called into question, and may no longer be in the best interest of investors.

According to Microsoft Corp.'s 2001 proxy statement, of the total auditor fees paid to Deloitte & Touche LLP in the most recent year, 75.6% were for non-audit services. Microsoft paid $4,742,000 for audit services and $14,722,000 for non-audit services to the independent accountant.

We believe that this level of interconnectivity between audit and non-audit services creates a conflict of interest. As a result, we believe investor confidence in the Company's financial statements could be harmed. We do, however, recognize that the independent auditor of the Company may be in the best position to provide certain non-audit services to the Company. Therefore, it is submitted to the Board of Directors that, in the future, the non-audit fees be capped at 25% of aggregate fees for the firm that is retained as the Company's independent auditor.

VOTE REQUIRED AND BOARD RECOMMENDATION

The affirmative vote of holders of a majority of the shares of common stock cast in person or by proxy at the meeting is required for approval of the proposal.

The Board recommends a vote against this proposal for the following reasons:

The Board and management recognize the important role that auditor independence plays in ensuring the integrity of the Company's financial statements and protecting the interests of investors. The Audit Committee of the Board takes its responsibility for assuring the independence of the Company's auditors seriously. The Audit Committee has taken measures to ensure that any engagement of the Company's auditors for non-audit services is consistent with the maintenance of auditor independence. In its evaluation of auditor independence the Audit Committee considers many factors, including the level of services the Company's auditors provide that do not relate to the audit of the financial statements. The Audit Committee and the Board believe that, under certain circumstances, hiring the Company's independent auditors to perform non-audit services is in the best interests of the Company and its shareholders. Frequently, non-audit services are so integrally related to the audit that retaining the Company's auditor to provide those services results in significant cost savings to the Company and higher quality advice. The proposal does not clearly define non-audit services. The Board believes that a significant portion of the non-audit fees, as reported in the proxy statement, are for important services which support and enhance the audit of the financial statements. Restricting the level of such audit-related services could result in increased cost to the Company in the future without enhancing auditor independence. As noted elsewhere in this proxy statement, the Company paid $16.39 million in Other fees in fiscal 2002 to its current auditors Deloitte & Touche LLP. The SEC regulations governing the disclosure of auditor fees in the proxy statement adopt a narrow definition of audit services so that audit-related services traditionally performed by a company's outside auditor are excluded from the audit fees category and must be reported in one of the other categories. Fees in the All Other Fees category include the following:

$12.65 million audit-related services. These services included statutory audits of foreign domiciled subsidiaries, software licensee related audits, and audits of benefit plans, joint ventures and partnerships. The domestic laws of many of Microsoft's foreign subsidiaries require that an audit of the subsidiary be performed annually. It is efficient that the Company's principal external auditor perform this work, which is complementary to and consistent with subsidiary-related work performed to support the annual audit. Deloitte & Touche LLP also audits payments by certain software licensees (OEM and volume licensing customers) to verify compliance with the payment terms of the license agreements.

$3.22 million miscellaneous projects. These services included a variety of benchmarking and business process improvement projects conducted for individual business units. It is important to note that Deloitte & Touche was not engaged to perform consulting involving financial information systems design and implementation.

The Audit Committee and the Board believe the services described above were performed by the Company's auditors without jeopardizing auditor independence. The selection of Deloitte & Touche LLP to perform such services resulted in significant cost savings and higher quality service to the Company. It may be appropriate to use the Company's auditors to provide similar services in the future.

The Audit Committee and the Board also believe that the recently passed Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 (the Act) contains provisions that establish additional, required safeguards that promote auditor independence. The Act carefully distinguishes between non-audit services that raise conflict issues and those non-audit services that do not raise such issues, and specifically permits the latter without regard to a dollar limitation. The Company will comply with the provisions of the Act. The Board believes that compliance with the Act, Titles II and III of which specifically focuses on maintaining auditor independence, provides a significantly better approach to assuring auditor independence than the one described in the shareholder proposal. For example, the Act requires audit committee pre-approval of most non-audit services. Audit committee approvals of non-audit services must also be disclosed to investors.

Further, the new law prohibits an auditor from providing the following non-audit services:

- bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client;
- financial information systems design and implementation;
- appraisal or valuation services, fairness opinions, or contribution-in-kind reports;

actuarial services;
internal audit outsourcing services;
management functions or human resources;
broker or dealer, investment adviser, or investment banking services;
legal services and expert services unrelated to the audit; and any other service that the Board determines, by regulation, is impermissible.

Given the protective policies already in place and the policies that will be in place in light of the Act, the Company does not believe it is necessary to place arbitrary limitations on the Board or the Audit Committee. The Board believes adoption of this proposal is neither necessary nor in the best interests of the Company and recommends a vote against the proposal.

PROPOSALS OF SHAREHOLDERS FOR 2003 ANNUAL MEETING

To be considered for inclusion in next year's Proxy Statement, shareholder proposals must be received at Microsoft's principal executive offices no later than the close of business on May 28, 2003.

For any proposal that is not submitted for inclusion in next year's proxy statement (as described in the preceding paragraph) but is instead sought to be presented directly at next year's annual meeting, Securities and Exchange Commission rules permit management to vote proxies in its discretion if (a) the Company receives notice of the proposal before the close of business on August 11, 2003 and advises stockholders in next year's proxy statement about the nature of the matter and how management intends to vote on such matter, or (b) does not receive notice of the proposal prior to the close of business on August 11, 2003.

Notices of intention to present proposals at the 2003 annual meeting should be addressed to Deputy General Counsel, Finance and Operations, Microsoft Corporation, One Microsoft Way Redmond, Washington 98052. The Company reserves the right to reject, rule out of order, or take other appropriate action with respect to any proposal that does not comply with these and other applicable requirements.

SOLICITATION OF PROXIES

The Proxy accompanying this Proxy Statement is solicited by the Board of Directors of the Company. Proxies may be solicited by officers, directors, and regular supervisory and executive employees of the Company, none of whom will receive any additional compensation for their services. Also, Georgeson Shareholder Communications may solicit proxies at an approximate cost of $12,500 plus reasonable expenses. Such solicitations may be made personally or by mail, facsimile, telephone, telegraph, messenger, or via the Internet. The Company will pay persons holding shares of common stock in their names or in the names of nominees, but not owning such shares beneficially, such as brokerage houses, banks, and other fiduciaries, for the expense of forwarding solicitation materials to their principals. All of the costs of solicitation of proxies will be paid by the Company.

VOTING PROCEDURES

Tabulation of Votes: Votes cast by proxy or in person at the meeting will be tabulated by Mellon Investor Services, LLC.

Effect of an Abstention and Broker Non-Votes: A shareholder who abstains from voting on any or all proposals will be included in the number of shareholders present at the meeting for the purpose of determining the presence of a quorum. Abstentions and broker non-votes will not be counted either in favor of or against the election of the nominees or other proposals. Under the rules of the National Association of Securities Dealers, brokers holding stock for the accounts of their clients who have not been given specific voting instructions as to a matter by their clients may vote their clients' proxies in their own discretion.

AUDITORS

Representatives of Deloitte & Touche LLP, independent public auditors for the Company for fiscal 2002 and the current fiscal year, will be present at the annual meeting, will have an opportunity to make a statement, and will be available to respond to appropriate questions.

OTHER MATTERS

The Board of Directors does not intend to bring any other business before the meeting, and so far as is known to the Board, no matters are to be brought before the meeting except as specified in the notice of the meeting. In addition to the scheduled items of business, the meeting may consider shareholder proposals (including proposals omitted from the Proxy Statement and form of Proxy pursuant to the Proxy Rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission) and matters relating to the conduct of the meeting. As to any other business that may properly come before the meeting, it is intended that proxies will be voted in respect thereof in accordance with the judgment of the persons voting such proxies.

DATED: Redmond, Washington, September 25, 2002.

In discharging its oversight role, the Committee is empowered to investigate any matter brought to its attention, with full power to retain outside counsel or other experts for this purpose.

RESPONSIBILITIES

The Committee's specific responsibilities in carrying out its oversight role are delineated in the Audit Committee Responsibilities Checklist. The responsibilities checklist will be updated annually to reflect changes in regulatory requirements, authoritative guidance, and evolving oversight practices. As the compendium of Committee responsibilities, the most recently updated responsibilities checklist will be considered to be an addendum to this charter.

The Committee relies on the expertise and knowledge of management, the internal auditors, and the public accounting firm in carrying out its oversight responsibilities. Management of the company is responsible for determining the company's financial statements are complete, accurate, and in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The public accounting firm is responsible for auditing the company's financial statements. It is not the duty of the Committee to plan or conduct audits, to determine that the financial statements are complete and accurate and are in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, to conduct investigations, or to assure compliance with laws and regulations or the company's internal policies, procedures, and controls.
