PART I

Item 1. Business.

Circuit City Stores, Inc. was incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Virginia in 1949. Its corporate headquarters are located at 9950 Mayland Drive, Richmond, Va. Its retail operations consist of Circuit City Superstores and mall-based Circuit City Express stores. The Company has a finance operation including a wholly owned credit card bank, First North American National Bank, that provides consumer revolving credit.

The company's Web site address is www.circuitcity.com. The company makes available, free of charge through its Web site, its Annual Report on Form 10-K, quarterly reports or Form 10-Q, current reports on Form 8-K and any amendments to those reports as soon as practicable after filing or furnishing the material with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Capital Structure. From February 7, 1997, to October 1, 2002, the common stock of Circuit City Stores, Inc. consisted of two common stock series that were intended to reflect the performance of the company's two businesses. The Circuit City Group common stock was intended to reflect the performance of the Circuit City consumer electronics stores and related operations and the shares of CarMax Group common stock reserved for the Circuit City Group or for issuance to holders of Circuit City Group common stock. The CarMax Group common stock was intended to reflect the performance of the CarMax auto superstores and related operations.

Effective October 1, 2002, the CarMax auto superstore business was separated from the Circuit City consumer electronics business through a tax-free transaction in which CarMax, Inc., formerly a wholly owned subsidiary of Circuit City Stores, Inc., became an independent, separately traded public company. Following the separation, the Circuit City Group common stock was renamed Circuit City common stock. See "Discontinued Operations" below for additional information.

General. Circuit City is a leading national retailer of brand-name consumer electronics, personal computers and entertainment software. It sells:

- o video equipment, including televisions, digital satellite systems, DVD players, video cassette recorders, camcorders and cameras;

Edgar Filing: CIRCUIT CITY STORES INC - Form 10-K

- o audio equipment, including home and portable audio systems;
- o mobile electronics, including car audio, video and security systems;
- o home office products, including personal computers, printers, peripherals, software and facsimile machines;
- o entertainment software, including video games, DVD movies and music; and
- o other consumer electronics products, including wireless phones, corded and cordless phones and accessories.

Merchandise lines vary by location based on store size and market characteristics. Most merchandise is supplied directly to the stores by regional warehouse distribution facilities.

Prior to fiscal year 2002, Circuit City sold major appliances. In fiscal year 2001, the company exited the major appliance category and expanded its selection of key consumer electronics and home office products in all Circuit City Superstores. See "Appliance Exit" below for additional information.

Through Digital Video Express, 75 percent of which was owned by the company, Circuit City developed a new digital video system for watching movies at home. Divx was primarily engaged in the business of licensing this technology and replicating and distributing specially encrypted DVDs at wholesale. Circuit City was allocated 100 percent of Divx's losses from Divx's inception. The Divx business was discontinued in fiscal 2000. See "Discontinued Operations" below for additional information.

Expansion and Revitalization. At April 30, 2003, Circuit City operated 626 retail locations throughout the United States. Circuit City has established its presence in virtually all of the nation's top 100 markets and, therefore, contemplates only limited geographic expansion. However, the company expects to add to the existing store base as attractive market opportunities arise. In fiscal 2004, Circuit City expects to open approximately eight new Circuit City Superstores.

Recognizing the continual evolution of consumer shopping preferences, three years ago the company created a new store design in-step with today's consumer, but also flexible enough to meet future demands. New stores have a brighter, more contemporary look and an open, easily navigable floor plan conducive to browsing. The company has improved product adjacencies so that customers can not only better compare features and benefits across product categories, but also can shop for related accessories and peripherals in convenient proximity. Shopping carts, baskets and cash register checkouts at the front of the store create a comfortable shopping environment for the growing level of take-with products in the stores. Standardized fixtures accommodate more take-with selections and provide greater flexibility to adapt to future changes in Circuit City's product categories.

At the same time, the company has focused on opportunities to upgrade and improve the existing store base. In the last three years, the company conducted several remodeling tests and developed a framework for evaluating store sites and determining the optimal upgrade approach. In fiscal 2003, the company conducted the first large-scale phase of the remodeling initiative with a remodeled video department and full-store lighting upgrade installed in 299

Edgar Filing: CIRCUIT CITY STORES INC - Form 10-K

Superstores, including 79 stores that had been newly constructed or fully remodeled in the last three years. The video department remodel allows the company to better showcase this category as consumer interest in digital televisions and other new display technologies, including flat panel plasma and LCD televisions, continues to rise. Based on the favorable returns on full-store remodels, the company plans to continue the multi-year remodeling program, adapting more locations to the buying patterns of consumers and supporting the new store operating model. Full remodeling of approximately five stores and the installation of new fixtures in approximately 200 stores is planned for fiscal 2004. The new fixtures will help make more products available on the sales floor for customers, create better adjacencies and expand product assortments in some stores. The new fixtures also should further support the company's simplified store operating model and give the company greater flexibility to shift merchandise displays within the store as new products and technologies are introduced.

Where trade areas have shifted away from a store site, the company has chosen to strategically relocate the store to a more vibrant and convenient location. Circuit City relocated 11 Superstores in fiscal 2003. The company has been especially pleased with the performance of relocated stores and intends to accelerate the relocation activities, relocating 18 Superstores to 22 Superstores in fiscal 2004. The company expects to accelerate the relocation pace with a target of 50 relocations, depending upon real estate availability, in fiscal 2005.

At April 30, 2003, 103 Superstores, or 17 percent of the 611 Superstores had been fully remodeled, relocated or newly constructed within the last three years.

Merchandising. Each Circuit City store location follows detailed operating procedures and merchandising programs. Included are procedures for inventory maintenance, customer relations, store administration, merchandise display, store security and the demonstration and sale of products. Most merchandise is supplied directly to the stores from one of Circuit City's seven automated distribution centers, which are strategically located around the country, and from a centrally located automated software entertainment distribution center. Circuit City uses a centralized buying organization. The central buying staff reduces costs by purchasing in large volumes and structuring a sound basic merchandising program. To improve the company's competitive position, Circuit City has initiated an effort to source more product directly from overseas manufacturers. The primary purposes of direct importing are to lower product acquisition costs and to increase product differentiation. Circuit City's merchandising strategy emphasizes a broad selection of products, including the industry's newest technologies, and a wide range of prices. Merchandise mix and displays are controlled centrally to help ensure a high level of consistency among the stores. Merchandise pricing can vary by market to reflect local competitive conditions.

Suppliers. During fiscal 2003, Circuit City's 10 largest suppliers accounted for approximately 59 percent of merchandise purchased. Circuit City's major suppliers include Sony Corporation; Hewlett Packard; Panasonic; Thomson Multimedia, Inc.; JVC Company of America; Toshiba; Hitachi America LTD; Apex Digital, Inc.; eMachines, Inc. and Universal Music and Video Distribution. Brand-name advertised products are sold by all Circuit City retail locations. In fiscal 2003, the company created alliances with key manufacturers to provide unique product offerings not available at other big-box retailers. For example, Circuit City has teamed with Sharper Image Corporation to put the "best of Sharper Image products" on the shelves and has partnered with Sharp Systems of America to be the exclusive national retailer for their award-winning Actius line of ultra-thin laptop computers. Circuit City has no significant long-term contracts for the purchase of merchandise.

Edgar Filing: CIRCUIT CITY STORES INC - Form 10-K

Advertising. Circuit City's business relies on considerable amounts of advertising to maintain high levels of consumer awareness. Advertising expenditures from continuing operations were 3.5 percent of net sales and operating revenues in fiscal 2003, 3.8 percent in fiscal 2002 and 4.1 percent in fiscal 2001. Circuit City uses multi-page newspaper advertisements, network and cable television advertising, magazine advertising, direct mail and interactive media. The multi-page newspaper advertisements provide an extensive presentation of the range of consumer electronics products sold at Circuit City stores and generally feature products at highly competitive prices. Circuit City is generally one of the largest newspaper advertisers in markets that it serves. Television and magazine advertising generally features the company's low price guarantee, called Price Match Plus, but focuses on differentiating elements in the service offer such as the "no-hassle" return policy, freedom from restocking fees and the Web site's Express Pickup feature.

Competition. The consumer electronics industry is highly competitive. Circuit City's competitors include large specialty, discount or warehouse retailers as well as local, regional and Internet-based retailers. As part of its competitive strategy, Circuit City offers what it believes to be highly competitive prices on the merchandise stocked in its stores and offered on its Web site. But the company also offers a low-price guarantee, called Price Match Plus. Under this guarantee, for every product that Circuit City sells, with some restrictions, the company will meet any advertised price from a local store stocking the same new item. In most cases, if a customer finds a lower advertised price, including Circuit City's own sale price, within 30 days, then Circuit City will refund the difference plus 10 percent of the difference to the customer. Customers who order on the Web, but pick up their product at the store using the Express Pickup feature, automatically receive the lower of the Web price or the in-store price.

Circuit City distinguishes its stores from the competition by offering a broad merchandise assortment and delivering higher customer service levels. For each major product category the company balances the assortment to include opening and mid-level price points along with fully featured, high-end technology items that carry higher prices. Product specialists, trained using comprehensive online training courses; convenient credit options; factory-authorized product repairs; home delivery and home installation; onsite installation centers for automotive electronics; and no-hassle exchange, no-lemon and no restocking fee policies all demonstrate Circuit City's strong commitment to customer service. Every Circuit City purchase, whether made at a store or on the company's Web site, can be returned or exchanged at any of the company's 600 plus stores, and Circuit City is the only national consumer electronics chain that does not charge restocking fees. The company also offers a comprehensive CityadvantageSM Protection Plan that provides product protection beyond the manufacturers' warranties. The Protection Plan options include a Replacement Protection Plan, which reimburses the customer via check or gift card for the original purchase price of defective electronics that are uneconomical to repair.

Customer Satisfaction. Circuit City conducts market research to monitor store operations and help ensure customer satisfaction. Market research techniques used include focus groups, online customer satisfaction surveys from BizRate.com, telephone interviews, exit interviews and "mystery shops," in which a professional mystery shopper acts as a customer to evaluate customer service performance. Quick feedback enables management to identify issues that need to be addressed, ensuring that store and individual performance remain focused on providing the highest possible level of customer service.

Edgar Filing: CIRCUIT CITY STORES INC - Form 10-K

Employees/Training. At April 30, 2003, the company had 39,432 hourly and salaried employees. In early February 2003, the company changed from a dual pay structure, which included both commission and hourly pay, for the sales force to a single hourly pay structure. Circuit City Superstores are staffed with:

- o sales support personnel such as customer service associates, product specialists and stockpersons;
- o a store director;
- o two or more sales managers; and
- o an operations manager or assistant store director.

None of these employees are subject to a collective bargaining agreement. Additional personnel may be employed during peak selling seasons.

Store Associates receive periodic training delivered by customized Web-based interactive courses, supported with in-store mentoring. Courses include product knowledge with an emphasis on new technology, customer service and store operations. Associates also receive online tutoring with links to vendor Web sites for additional resources. In fiscal 2003, Circuit City adopted a certification program for product specialists to establish minimum proficiency levels and measure each product specialist's product knowledge and customer service skills. Management training programs are designed to prepare future leaders and include Web-based training, in-store activities, online tutoring and classroom instruction.

Consumer Credit. The company's business is affected by consumer credit availability, which varies with a number of factors, including the state of the economy and the location of a particular store. In order to provide its customers with more credit options, in fiscal 1991, the company established FNANB, a federally chartered limited purpose credit card bank that is wholly owned by the company.

From 1990 to June 2002, FNANB issued a private-label credit card, which was a credit card that only could be used to purchase merchandise and services from the company. In June 2002, in connection with the launch of a co-branded Visa(R) credit card, FNANB stopped issuing new private-label credit accounts; however, existing private-label accounts remain in place. The co-branded Visa credit card, referred to as the Circuit City Plus(TM) card, bears both the Circuit City and Visa names and is accepted not only at the company's stores and www.circuitcity.com, but also worldwide wherever Visa credit cards are accepted. FNANB also issues Visa credit cards that do not bear the Circuit City name. These Visa credit cards and a small number of previously issued MasterCard(R) accounts are serviced through the bankcard portfolio by FNANB. FNANB's credit extension, customer service and collection operations are fully automated with state-of-the-art technology to maintain a high level of profitability and customer service. In fiscal 2003, approximately 18 percent of Circuit City's total sales were made through its private-label and Circuit City Plus credit cards and approximately 50 percent through third-party credit sources.

The receivables generated by FNANB's credit card programs are financed through asset securitization programs. For additional discussion of these programs, see "Off-Balance-Sheet Arrangements" on pages 26 and 27 and Note 6 to the consolidated financial statements on pages 38 and 39 of the company's 2003 Annual Report, which is incorporated in this item by reference.

Edgar Filing: CIRCUIT CITY STORES INC - Form 10-K

FNANB is regulated and supervised by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency. OCC regulations require, among other things, examination by the OCC of FNANB's underwriting policies and procedures and compliance with certain capital and earnings adequacy requirements. In addition, FNANB is required to comply with both state and federal consumer protection laws including the Equal Credit Opportunity Act, Fair Credit Reporting Act, Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, Truth-in-Lending Act and USA PATRIOT Act.

Systems. Circuit City's in-store point-of-sale system maintains an online record of all transactions and allows management to track performance by region, store and individual sales counselor. The information gathered by the system supports automatic replenishment of in-store inventory from the regional distribution centers and is incorporated into product buying decisions. The POS system is interfaced with FNANB's credit approval system. The in-store POS system also is seamlessly integrated with the company's e-commerce Web site, www.circuitcity.com. This integration provides the capability for in-store pickup of merchandise ordered from the Internet and allows for in-store ordering of merchandise for shipment directly to the customer's home. In the stores, electronic signature capture for all credit card purchases, automatic printing of manufacturers' rebates, bar-code scanning for product returns and repairs, automatic price tag printing for price changes and computerized home delivery scheduling enhance Circuit City's customer service. These enhancements eliminate time-consuming administrative tasks for store Associates and reduce costs through smoother store-level execution. The POS system also is directly integrated with the registration systems of major Internet service providers such as America Online, CompuServe and MSN, allowing in-store registration with the interactive services to be completed in approximately five minutes. At in-store kiosks, the POS system also allows customers to sign up for high speed Internet service.

Circuit City's Customer Service Information System maintains an online history of customer purchases and enables sales counselors to better assist customers with purchases by ensuring that new products can be integrated with existing products in the home. This system also facilitates product returns and repairs.

The company also utilizes comprehensive, Web-based training systems to enhance the product knowledge of in-store Associates.

Circuit City Direct. Circuit City's direct-to-consumer online business continues to grow and provide:

- o extensive product selection, including more than 300,000 music and movie titles;
- o in-depth product and technology information features, such as convenient side-by-side comparisons; and
- o more than 75,000 customer ratings and reviews.

Customers have a choice of placing their orders directly on www.circuitcity.com or using 1-800-THE-CITY to place their orders over the phone. Internet customers can check near-time inventory at any Circuit City store, in addition to the in-stock availability for www.circuitcity.com. Delivery options include shipment to anywhere in the United States, Express Pickup at any of the more than 600 Circuit City stores and newly added convenient home delivery of TVs 24 inches and larger. Circuit City's customers also are able to order out-of-stock and line extension products when shopping at any Circuit City store, giving them access to a vastly expanded selection that can be shipped to anywhere in the United States. Products purchased through the Web site can be serviced through, exchanged at, or returned to any Circuit City Superstore location.

Edgar Filing: CIRCUIT CITY STORES INC - Form 10-K

In addition to Circuit City's own Web site, the company has partnered with Amazon.com to increase selection and convenience for Amazon's consumer electronics shoppers by providing immediate in-store pickup at Circuit City stores nationwide or shipping of thousands of electronics items to anywhere in the United States. In cases where Amazon.com and Circuit City offer the same electronics products, customers have the choice between traditional Amazon.com shipping options and immediate pickup from a nearby Circuit City Superstore. Items offered exclusively by Circuit City are available for either in-store pickup or shipment from Circuit City's distribution channel; merchandise offered exclusively by Amazon.com will be delivered from Amazon.com.

Distribution. As of April 30, 2003, Circuit City operated seven automated regional electronics distribution centers, each designed to serve stores within a 500-mile range. These centers use conveyor systems and laser bar-code scanners to reduce labor requirements, prevent inventory damage and maintain inventory control. Circuit City also operates one smaller distribution center that primarily handles larger non-conveyable electronics products. Circuit City believes that for most merchandise the use of the distribution centers enables it to distribute efficiently a broad selection of merchandise to its stores, reduce inventory requirements at individual stores, benefit from volume purchasing and maintain accounting control. Circuit City also operates an automated centralized entertainment software distribution center that serves all stores and an import consolidation center that supports our distribution network.

Service. Circuit City offers service and repairs for most of the merchandise it sells. The company also offers its comprehensive Cityadvantage Protection Plan, which provides protection beyond the standard manufacturers' warranties for computer products, home audio/video and mobile electronics. The plan includes:

- o terms up to five years,
- o a nationwide service network,
- o guaranteed repair or replacement,
- o a no-lemon guarantee,
- o in-home service options and

- o unlimited power surge coverage.

For some electronics, such as portable stereo systems, VCRs, telephones, video game systems, 35-mm cameras, fax machines and music keyboards, the Cityadvantage options include a Replacement Protection Plan. If a customer purchases an RPP, the customer can return defective merchandise during the plan period and receive a check or Circuit City gift card for the original purchase price of the merchandise.

Circuit City sells the Cityadvantage Protection Plan on behalf of unaffiliated third parties that are the primary obligors. Under these third-party warranty programs, Circuit City has no contractual liability to the customer. Certain third-party warranty sales are not permitted in a few states depending on the Protection Plan offered. In these states, Circuit City sells the applicable Cityadvantage Protection Plan for which the company is the primary obligor.

Edgar Filing: CIRCUIT CITY STORES INC - Form 10-K

As of April 30, 2003, Circuit City had 15 regional factory-authorized repair facilities. To meet customer needs, merchandise that requires service or repair usually is moved by truck from the stores to the nearest regional service facility and is returned to the store for customer pickup after repair. Circuit City also has in-home technicians who service large items not conveniently carried to the store.

Seasonality. Like many retail businesses, Circuit City's sales are greater in the fourth quarter of the fiscal year than in other periods of the fiscal year because of holiday buying patterns. A corresponding pre-season inventory build-up is associated with this sales volume. This increased sales volume results in a lower ratio of fixed costs to sales and a higher ratio of net earnings to sales in the fourth fiscal quarter. Circuit City's net sales and operating revenues from continuing operations for the fourth fiscal quarter, which includes the holiday season, were $3.19 billion in fiscal 2003, $3.36 billion in fiscal 2002 and $3.15 billion in fiscal 2001. Fourth quarter sales represented approximately 32 percent of net sales and operating revenues in fiscal 2003, 35 percent in fiscal 2002 and 31 percent in fiscal 2001.

Appliance Exit. In the second quarter of fiscal 2001, the company began to exit the major appliance category and expand its selection of key consumer electronics and home office products in all Circuit City Superstores. This process was completed in November 2000. To exit the appliance business, the company closed eight distribution centers and eight service centers. The company leases the majority of these closed properties. While the company has subleased some of these properties, it continues the process of marketing the remaining properties to be subleased.

In fiscal 2001, the company recorded appliance exit costs of $30.0 million. In the fourth quarter of fiscal 2002, the company recorded additional lease termination costs of $10.0 million to reflect the changes in the rental market for these leased properties. In fiscal 2003, the company made payments, net of accretion expense, of $5.9 million for lease termination costs. The appliance exit cost liability was $13.8 million at February 28, 2003, and $19.7 million at February 28, 2002.

Discontinued Operations. (A) CarMax: On September 10, 2002, the company's shareholders approved the separation of the CarMax auto superstore business from Circuit City Stores, Inc. and the company's board of directors authorized the redemption of the company's CarMax Group common stock and the distribution of CarMax, Inc. common stock to effect the separation. On October 1, 2002, the separation was effective and CarMax, Inc. became an independent, separately traded public company. Each outstanding share of CarMax Group common stock was redeemed in exchange for one share of CarMax, Inc. common stock. In addition, each holder of Circuit City Group common stock received as a tax-free distribution 0.313879 of a share of CarMax, Inc. common stock for each share of Circuit City Group common stock owned as of September 16, 2002, the record date for the distribution. Following the separation, the Circuit City Group common stock was renamed Circuit City common stock. All CarMax results prior to the separation date are presented as results from discontinued operations on the consolidated statements of earnings. The company recorded no gain or loss as a result of the separation.

With the separation, CarMax paid a special dividend of $28.4 million to Circuit City Stores, Inc. in recognition of the company's continuing contingent liability on leases related to 23 CarMax locations. Net earnings from the discontinued CarMax operations were $64.5 million for fiscal 2003, representing CarMax results for the seven months prior to the separation date. Net earnings from discontinued operations were $90.8 million in fiscal

Edgar Filing: CIRCUIT CITY STORES INC - Form 10-K

2002 and $45.6 million in fiscal 2001. Reflected on the consolidated balance sheet at February 28, 2002, were total assets of discontinued CarMax operations of $720.2 million and total liabilities of discontinued CarMax operations of $234.7 million. Discontinued operations related to CarMax have been segregated on the consolidated statements of cash flows.

(B) DIVX: On June 16, 1999, Digital Video Express announced that it would cease marketing the Divx home video system and discontinue operations. For fiscal 2003, 2002 and 2001, the discontinued Divx operations had no impact on the net earnings of the company. As of February 28, 2003, entities comprising the discontinued Divx operations have been dissolved. The remaining Divx liabilities, totaling $8.0 million, have been assumed by the company and are included on the consolidated balance sheet at February 28, 2003.

Item 2. Properties.

At April 30, 2003, the company's Circuit City retail operations were conducted in 626 locations, including 611 Superstores and 15 mall-based Circuit City Express Stores.

Of the stores open at April 30, 2003, the company owns three stores and leases the remaining stores.

Of the company's 10 distribution centers, nine are leased. The company owns a 388,000-square-foot consumer electronics distribution center in Doswell, Va., which has been financed with Industrial Development Revenue Bonds. For information with respect to these bonds, see Note 9 to the consolidated financial statements on page 40 of the company's 2003 Annual Report, which is incorporated in this item by reference.
