ITEM 1.01. ENTRY INTO A MATERIAL DEFINITIVE AGREEMENT

Amendment to Collaborative Development Program Agreement with Toshiba and SanDisk

On March 28, 2012, we amended the collaborative development program (CDP) agreement that we had entered into with Toshiba and SanDisk in March 2010 to develop certain memory technologies and related materials.

As amended, the period for the initial term of development activities under the CDP will be extended through March 14, 2013. For such extended period, Toshiba and SanDisk will retain their exclusive collaboration license in the field of memory chips. We agreed in the amendment to provide Toshiba and SanDisk with services and resources in exchange for fees (which include fees for the services of our personal and for a subscription to our proprietary HPC platform and the license for the associated software for the extended development period).

In addition, we also amended the agreement to clarify the parties joint patent review process and to provide that certain patent filings related to the design of experiment shall be jointly owned by us, Toshiba and SanDisk. The amendment also specifies ownership of certain current patent applications among the parties .

The foregoing description of the amendment does not purport to be complete and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the amendment that will subsequently be filed as an exhibit to our Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q.
