ITEM 1.01 ENTRY INTO A MATERIAL DEFINITIVE AGREEMENT

On July 20, 2007, VoIP, Inc. (the “Company”) issued and sold promissory notes (the “Notes”) totaling $250,000 to three institutional investors, for a net purchase price of $200,000 in a private placement reflecting a 20% original issue discount. The Notes are not interest bearing.

The Notes are due at the earlier of any of the following events or dates:

1. August 20, 2007;
2. The Company’s closing and funding of a financing agreement that nets a minimum receipt of $1,000,000 cash; or
3. The Company’s first substantial receipt of cash related to revenue generated from a major new customer.

In the event that the Company fails to repay the Notes upon the occurrence of one of the above three conditions, the investors may, at their option, formally declare the Company to be in default thereunder. In that event, the Notes shall become immediately convertible in whole or in part, at the investors’ option, into shares of the Company’s common stock, par value $0.001 per share, at the conversion rate of the lesser of: (a) $0.08 per share; or (b) a 30% discount to the average of the closing market price of the Company’s common stock over the five trading days immediately preceding such conversion.

We claim an exemption from the registration requirements of the Act for the private placement of these securities pursuant to Section 4(2) of the Act and/or Regulation D promulgated thereunder since, among other things, the transaction did not involve a public offering, the investors were accredited investors and/or qualified institutional buyers, the investors had access to information about us and their investment, the investors took the securities for investment and not resale, and we took appropriate measures to restrict the transfer of the securities.
