ANNOUNCEMENT IN RELATION TO FUEL HEDGING ACTIVITIES

This announcement is made by China Eastern Airlines Corporation Limited pursuant to Rule 13.09 of the Rules Governing the Listing of Securities on The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited.

On 27 February 2009, China Eastern Airlines Corporation Limited (the "Company") issued an announcement in relation to its fuel hedging activities setting out a sensitivity analysis conducted on the fair value of its fuel hedging contracts as of 31 December 2009.

Since the first half of 2009, the international oil price continued to fluctuate with an upward trend. The closing price of the West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude oil on the New York Mercantile Exchange on 30 June 2009 was US$69.89 per barrel, representing an increase of 56.70% compared to the price of US$44.60 per barrel on 31 December 2008, which is beyond the scope of oil price fluctuation as specified in the Company's announcement dated 27 February 2009. It is expected that the oil price movement in the futures market, volatility rate of oil price, convergence rates and other parameters adopted in evaluating the fair value of the fuel hedging contracts have changed due to the changes in market conditions.

In order to disclose the impact of the change in oil price on the fair value loss/gain arising from the fuel hedging activities of the Company in 2009, at the request of the Shanghai Stock Exchange, the Company sets out below again the sensitivity analysis of the fair value of the fuel hedging contracts as of 31 December 2009, which is based on the major parameters adopted by the Company in evaluating the fair value of the fuel hedging contracts as of 30 June 2009, conducted in accordance with the amount and prices of the contracts of the Company as of 30 June 2009 and after taking into consideration the impact of actual settlement of the fuel hedging contracts for the second half of 2009:

Change in WTI closing price as compared to that as of 30 June 2009 and corresponding price (US$ per barrel)	Decrease in the book fair value as of 31 December 2009 as compared to that as of 31 December 2008 (in RMB million)
30% (90.86)	6,263
20% (83.87)	5,865
10% (76.88)	5,382
-10% (62.90)	4,053
-20% (55.91)	3,126
-30% (48.92)	2,039

Investors are reminded that the above sensitive analysis is based on the assumption of the forward fuel price curve of the futures market and volatility rate of fuel price, etc, as adopted by the Company in evaluating the fair value of the fuel hedging contracts as at 30 June 2009, and also taking into account the decrease in the rest of the contacting period. Therefore, it is likely that the projection may, to a certain extent, be different from the actual situation on 31 December 2009. Accordingly, the actual fair value of fuel hedging contracts on 31 December 2009 may differ from the results of the above analysis. As at 30 June 2009, the amount of the change in the fair value of the fuel hedging contracts of the Company, after deducting the actual settlement, has an impact as to approximately RMB2,740 million (unaudited) on the profit of the interim report of the Company. For final financial information of the Company, please refer to the relevant periodic financial reports of the Company.

Shanghai Securities News and China Securities Journal are the designated press of the Company for information and any information published by the Company in the said press shall prevail. Investors are advised to be cautious and take note of the risk associated with the investment.
