August 2009

HSBC TRINKAUS REPORTS HIGHER OPERATING PROFIT IN FIRST HALF OF 2009 DESPITE DIFFICULT ECONOMIC ENVIRONMENT

Operating profit up 4.4 per cent to €105.9 million

Net interest income up 16.6 per cent to €73.8 million

Tier 1 ratio higher at 9.7 per cent

HSBC Trinkaus performed well in the first half of 2009 in the unprecedented economic environment. The bank s stable performance in the first half of the year contributed to a 4.4 per cent increase in operating profit, from €101.4 million for the six months to 30 June 2008 to €105.9 million.

The strengths shown by HSBC Trinkaus are clear to see in the current market situation. The bank s business model - clearly oriented towards high net worth individuals, corporate and institutional clients and supported by risk-aware trading operations - has proven to be successful in these uncertain times and will support the bank s future performance. In addition, as a member of the HSBC Group, the bank offers its clients the best of both worlds, namely the continuity, professionalism and individuality of a private bank together with the international service capacity and capital strength of a global financial services provider.

HSBC Trinkaus has not been completely immune to the market turmoil, however. Falling prices with respect to certain financial assets resulted in some further impairments. As a result, profit before tax declined by 9.1 per cent in the period from €101.2 million to €92.0 million. The return on equity before tax was 19.2 per cent for the first half of 2009, compared with 22.1 per cent in the first half of 2008. This compares favourably to other German banks. The bank s tier 1 ratio increased to 9.7 per cent at 30 June 2009 from 8.8 per cent at 31 December 2008. Overall, HSBC Trinkaus recorded good profitability and strong capital resources.

The results in detail

Net interest income was up 16.6 per cent in the period, to €73.8 million (six months ended 30 June 2008: €63.3 million). This increase is primarily due to expanded bond holdings in the banking book, where HSBC Trinkaus increased its exposure in high grade new issues. Partially offsetting this was a significant decline in the margin on deposit business as a result of the lower level of interest rates which could not be fully offset by a widening of the credit margin in the corporate loan book.

Net loan impairment and other credit risk provisions amounted to €0.1 million (six months ended 30 June 2008: €0.7 million). There was a net reversal of €0.9 million in the period with respect to individually assessed impairments.

However, an additional charge of €1.0 million was made to collectively assessed impairments reflecting the continued weakness in the economy. The bank s conservative stance is unchanged in relation to the assessment of default risks.

At €172.5 million, net fee income in the period was only slightly lower than the €178.6 million for the first half of 2008. Lower transaction-related securities commission, in particular in the equities business, was mainly responsible for this decline. In the real estate business HSBC Trinkaus benefited from the successful placement of a real estate fund.

There was a reduction in net trading income of 5.1 per cent in the period to €59.2 million (six months ended 30 June 2008: €62.4 million), essentially due to lower volumes of equity and equity/index derivatives trading. On the other hand, revenues from warrant transactions increased as a result of higher market shares. Significant spread widening in trading on interest products led to mark-to-market valuation losses in respect of bonds. However, due to its good liquidity position HSBC Trinkaus was able to more than compensate with a favourable performance in money market business leading to an increased contribution from interest rate trading. The bank also increased earnings from foreign exchange and reported higher gains on derivatives held in the banking book for hedging strategic positions.

Net other income/expenses of €11.5 million, compared with €2.0 million in the previous period, were influenced by one-off items. These included the successful placement of a real estate fund and the gain on the sale of a building in Luxembourg

. Income from financial assets was impacted by further impairments to equities, fund units and bonds which mainly occurred during the first quarter of 2009.

Tight cost discipline meant administrative expenses remained in line with last year at €204.9 million (six months ended 30 June 2008: €204.4 million). HSBC Trinkaus continued to invest in improving its IT systems. At 69.0 per cent, the cost:income ratio, a good indicator of success for the banking business, remains within the target range for the bank s business model of 65 per cent to 70 per cent.

Total assets declined by a moderate 4.9 per cent to €21.1 billion compared to the end of 2008. Customer deposits remain HSBC Trinkaus main source of financing reflecting the continued confidence its customers place in the bank s strength.

Segment reporting

Global Markets, Institutional Clients and Corporate Banking reported improved results compared to the previous year despite the uncertain global financial market and economic crisis. The Private Banking segment was not able to repeat its prior-year performance under these conditions. The impact of the financial market crisis mainly resulted in the losses being reported by the bank coming from financial assets held in the bank

The Institutional Clients segment was particularly successful compared to the previous year in issuing as well as the distribution and trading of fixed-interest securities. This more than compensated for the loss of revenues in the asset management and equities business. The Corporate Banking segment succeeded in increasing net fee income primarily from foreign exchange transactions and investment banking but also from the origination and placement of bonds compared to the previous year. There was a significant reduction in net interest income from corporate clients sight deposits due to lower margins reflecting the interest rate cuts made by the European Central Bank, despite a strong increase in volumes. However, this was compensated for by increased net interest income in the lending business due to higher margins. In the Global Markets segment, the reduction of revenues in equity derivatives trading due to the market environment was more than offset by money market and foreign exchange transactions in the Treasury business. On the other hand, within the Private Banking business, higher revenues in the real estate business only partly made up for the major decline in revenues in the securities business as a result of the restraint shown by many investors in the difficult market conditions.

Outlook

The overall economic environment will remain a challenge for HSBC Trinkaus and the entire sector for the foreseeable future. HSBC Trinkaus is well positioned to take advantage should opportunities arise in the current market situation. This is due to its conservative stance within the framework of a proven business model, the clear orientation to its target groups and its integration into HSBC

s financially strong and profitable global network. The bank believes it is well prepared for the months ahead.

Challenges will arise, in particular in the corporate business, in the second half of the year. HSBC Trinkaus continues to focus on the bank s credit book. Conditional on the bank not experiencing major credit losses in its lending business, a solid, albeit slightly lower operating profit is forecast for 2009 compared with 2008. The pressures resulting from valuations on financial assets should ease slightly as a result of the government measures introduced to stabilise the capital markets.

The trust clients place in the bank is an important factor of its success. HSBC Trinkaus therefore aims to expand its market share in clearly defined target groups -

private banking

corporate clients

and

institutional clients

- through 2009. The bank

s primary focus is to continue supporting its existing customer base, to weather these difficult times together, in partnership.
