Company Secretary

Dave Illingworth retires as Chief Executive, succeeded by Olivier Bohuon

10 February 2011

Smith & Nephew plc (LSE: SN, NYSE: SNN), the global medical technology business, announced today that Dave Illingworth has decided to retire from the Company after nine years, four of those as Chief Executive Officer. Mr Illingworth will retire from the board at the close of the Annual General Meeting on 14th April 2011, staying on as an employee until the end of his notice period in August to assist Mr Bohuon with the transition.

Dave Illingworth, 57, joined Smith & Nephew in 2002 as President of the Orthopaedics business, he was promoted to Chief Operating Officer in 2006 and to Chief Executive in 2007. In his time as Chief Executive the company has achieved strong revenue growth, significant margin improvement and compound annual growth in EPSA of 13%.

Olivier Bohuon, 52, will join the Board on 1st April 2011 and will be appointed Chief Executive Officer on 14th April 2011, at the close of the Annual General Meeting. Olivier has had a highly successful career in the pharmaceutical industry. He joins the company from Pierre Fabre, where he was Chief Executive, having previously been the Executive Vice-President at Abbott Laboratories in charge of its Pharmaceuticals division, which had revenues of $16billion in 2009. He held a series of senior international roles at Abbott, who he joined in 2003, and was based in a number of locations, most recently in Chicago. Prior to Abbott he spent over 10 years at GlaxoSmithKline ultimately as Senior Vice President for European Commercial Operations - Pharmaceuticals. Olivier holds a doctorate from the University of Paris and an MBA from HEC.

John Buchanan, Chairman of Smith & Nephew, commented; "Our board is, of course, very sorry that Dave has decided to retire. In his nine years with Smith & Nephew Dave has made a major impact, with various distinctive achievements. As Chief Executive Officer he has created stronger platforms for growth despite the challenges of the external environment. He has made substantial contributions to shareholder value as today's results again demonstrate.

At the same time we are delighted to have someone of Olivier Bohuon's calibre to join us as Chief Executive Officer. His global experience in healthcare makes him highly qualified to take the company forward, building on the strong momentum of the group. The board looks forward to welcoming him to Smith & Nephew and working with him to drive the company in the next stage of global growth"

Dave Illingworth commented; "It has been a pleasure and a privilege to lead Smith & Nephew for the last four years and the decision to retire from Smith & Nephew was not an easy one for me. I feel very proud of what we as a team have achieved over the past few years. This is a great company, with great prospects in an industry which will continue to enjoy excellent long term growth. I wish all of Smith & Nephew and Olivier Bohuon continued success"

Olivier Bohuon commented: "I am delighted to join such a great company as Smith & Nephew with its undoubted future growth potential, its market leading positions and its great products - and its customers and employees. I am looking forward to working with the Board and the executive management team on the next phase of Smith & Nephew's growth as one of the industry leaders."

Olivier Bohuon is also director of Virbac Group and has no further disclosures under paragraph 9.6.13 (1) to 9.6.13 (6) of the Listing Rules.
