RE: Merger Agreement with Texas Pacific Group

Today, Aleris International, Inc. entered into a definitive agreement to be acquired by Texas Pacific Group (TPG) for $52.50 per share in a transaction valued at $3.3 billion. We expect to close the transaction early in 2007, subject to stockholder and mandatory regulatory approvals. I believe this is a winning situation for all concerned - our investors, our customers, our suppliers and our employees.

Our Board of Directors supports the agreement and will urge stockholders to approve the proposal. We do not expect the transaction to affect the financial flexibility we need to execute our strategic plan. TPG, a leading private investment firm with more than $30 billion in assets, is excited about Aleris' future and growth prospects.

The change in ownership means that, once the transaction is complete, Aleris will be a privately held company rather than one whose stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Our global headquarters will remain in Beachwood. We will continue to operate as we have been - with a focus on achieving excellent results, maintaining a sense of urgency and driving to improve every aspect of our business. Our management team remains unchanged and our corporate structure, benefits, programs and everything else that makes Aleris a great company to work for are unchanged.

TPG is an organization that maintains a strong commitment to excellence. TPG's portfolio includes well-known companies such as Burger King, J. Crew, Seagate Technology, MGM, Punch Taverns, TIM Hellas Telecommunications, Debenhams Limited, Findexa Limited, Lenovo and Eutelsat S.A.

I know that a change at this level can seem disconcerting, but I firmly believe that we can help orchestrate a smooth transition, and that this transaction will provide new opportunities for our company going forward. For more information about TPG, visit their website at www.texaspacificgroup.com.
