Dear _____

I hope you saw the reports this morning about the merger of Duke Energy and Progress Energy. You may have seen some media speculation on this the past few days, so I apologize for not communicating sooner. Obviously, securities laws are strict on what companies can say versus what the media can report.

The new company, which will retain the name Duke Energy, will be the largest regulated utility company in the United States, based on expected enterprise value, market capitalization, number of regulated electric customers and generation capacity.

Progress Energy is highly regarded with a solid track record. Headquartered in Raleigh, N.C., Progress is a Fortune 500 energy company with nearly 22,000 megawatts of generation capacity and about $10 billion in annual revenues. Its operations include two major electric utilities that serve 3.1 million customers in the Carolinas and Florida.

From our perspective, this combination will make us a stronger company, with greater fuel, generation and geographic diversity. Our combined forces in the Carolinas should help us restore service quicker when storms and other severe weather happen. Our customers will certainly appreciate that.

In the Carolinas, we expect significant savings in the area of fuel and system dispatch. And, as we integrate the two companies, there will be additional savings from the consolidation of functions.

As you may have read, the new company will have its headquarters in Charlotte and substantial operations in Raleigh.

We expect the deal to be completed by the end of the year. The two companies will continue to operate separately during that time.

Hopefully, we will have a chance to talk further about this transaction in the coming months. However, feel free to contact me at any time if you have questions about this deal.

We will be working through many integration details in the upcoming months. I will share updates with you as our plans progress.

This is major news for our company, and it is also very exciting. It positions Duke Energy for long-term success. As always, I appreciate your support.

Cautionary Statements Regarding Forward-Looking Information

This document contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Forward-looking statements are typically identified by words or phrases such as may, will, anticipate, estimate, expect, project, intend, believe, target, forecast, and other words and terms of similar meaning. Forward-looking statements involve estimates, expectations, projections, goals, forecasts, assumptions, risks and uncertainties. Duke Energy cautions readers that any forward-looking statement is not a guarantee of future performance and that actual results could differ materially from those contained in the forward-looking statement. Such forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements about the benefits of the proposed merger involving Duke Energy and Progress Energy, including future financial and operating results, Duke Energy's or Progress Energy's plans, objectives, expectations and intentions, the expected timing of completion of the transaction, and other statements that are not historical facts. Important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those indicated by such forward-looking statements include risks and uncertainties relating to: the ability to obtain the requisite Duke Energy and Progress Energy shareholder approvals; the risk that Progress Energy or Duke Energy may be unable to obtain governmental and regulatory approvals required for the merger, or required governmental and regulatory approvals may delay the merger or result in the imposition of conditions that could cause the parties to abandon the merger; the risk that a condition to closing of the merger may not be satisfied; the timing to consummate the proposed merger; the risk that the businesses will not be integrated successfully; the risk that the cost savings and any other synergies from the transaction may not be fully realized or may take longer to realize than expected; disruption from the transaction making it more difficult to maintain relationships with customers, employees or suppliers; the diversion of management time on merger-related issues; general worldwide economic conditions and related uncertainties; the effect of changes in governmental regulations; and other factors we discuss or refer to in the Risk Factors section of our most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. These risks, as well as other risks associated with the merger, will be more fully discussed in the joint proxy statement/prospectus that will be included in the Registration Statement on Form S-4 that will be filed with the SEC in connection with the merger. Additional risks and uncertainties are identified and discussed in Progress Energy's and Duke Energy's reports filed with the SEC and available at the SEC's website at www.sec.gov. Each forward-looking statement speaks only as of the date of the particular statement and neither Duke Energy nor Progress Energy undertakes any obligation to update or revise its forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
