United States Federal Income Taxation:

The notes should form part of a qualified reopening for U.S. federal income tax purposes and, therefore, should be treated as fungible with the November 2040 notes for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

<sup>1</sup> A rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold the securities, and may be subject to revision, suspension or withdrawal at any time by the assigning rating agencies.

The portion of the initial purchase price of the notes that is allocable to interest that has accrued prior to the issue date of the notes offered hereunder ( pre-issuance accrued interest ) should be subtracted from the purchase price of the notes. A portion of the first interest payment will be treated as a nontaxable return of the pre-issuance accrued interest and not as interest payable on the notes. U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisers concerning the U.S. federal income tax treatment of pre-issuance accrued interest.

For a description of other U.S. federal income tax considerations relating to the acquisition, ownership and disposition of the notes, U.S. Holders should read the section entitled Taxation United States Federal Income Taxation in the base prospectus.

The notes are offered as part of a reopening of a series of previously issued notes, as described above. The notes offered hereby will have the same terms as, and will be fungible with, the notes previously issued, but will be offered at a different offering price. Once issued, the notes offered hereby will become part of the same series as the notes previously issued.
