Towers Watson Comments On Proxy Advisor Recommendations Regarding Proposed Merger With Willis

6 November 2015

Transaction Creates a Leading, Integrated Global Advisory, Broking and Solutions Firm

Merger Expected to Create Approximately $4.7 Billion in Incremental Value for Shareholders

Company Recommends Shareholders Vote FOR the Proposed Transaction

ARLINGTON, Va. Towers Watson & Co. (NASDAQ: TW), a global professional services company, today issued the following statement in response to the recommendations issued by Institutional Shareholder Services Inc. (ISS) and Glass, Lewis & Co. (Glass Lewis) regarding the proposed merger of Towers Watson and Willis Group Holdings (NYSE:WSH).

We respectfully disagree with the conclusion reached by ISS and Glass Lewis. While clearly acknowledging the sound strategic rationale and synergy potential of the transaction, they focus on short-term trading, take a narrow view of relative value contribution and unduly discount the significant long-term value creation potential of the proposed merger with Willis.

The transaction is expected to deliver an estimated $4.7 billion in incremental value for shareholders through clearly-identified cost, tax and revenue synergies. In addition, the combination is expected to result in projected Cash Net Income accretion to Towers Watson shareholders of over 25% for calendar year 2016, increasing to 45% for calendar year 2018. Based on our proven track record of delivering substantial shareholder value through transformative transactions, we are confident that bringing these two companies together will drive growth and generate significant shareholder value.

We firmly believe that the combination with Willis is in the best interest of our shareholders and remain committed to successfully completing the transaction. The Towers Watson Board of Directors continues to recommend that shareholders vote for the proposed transaction at the upcoming special meeting.

Towers Watson noted that ISS acknowledges there are significant strategic and financial benefits to a combination of the two companies^[1]:

[T]he potential long-term benefits of the deal appear compelling

[A] combined entity would benefit from certain factors, including cost synergies and the potential revenue opportunity of better mating Towers' healthcare exchange with Willis' distribution network.

[I]ntegrating the [exchange] product with a powerful distribution system is more critical than a backward-looking analysis of growth rates can convey.

Similarly, Glass Lewis noted^[2]:

[W]e believe the strategic rationale underpinning the proposed merger is sound. We believe the merger would enhance the overall competitive position of the companies, improve their ability to serve a broader range of clients, create an extensive offering of products and solutions and establish a stronger platform for growth and future investments.

[W]e recognize the strategic merit of the merger and the potential to achieve greater financial performance than either company could on its own in the long term

[W]e also acknowledge that Towers Watson management has a track record of delivering shareholder value following a transformative transaction.

In our opinion, the proposed merger is the result of a thorough review of strategic alternatives. Towers Watson's evaluation of a potential combination with Willis involved various members of management, independent directors and external business, financial and legal advisors, all of whom assessed aspects of the potential value creation opportunities, the cultural compatibility and the strategic and financial implications of the proposed transaction.

Towers Watson will hold a special meeting of its stockholders to vote on the proposed merger with Willis at 8:00 a.m. local time on November 18, 2015 at the Royal Palm South Beach, 1545 Collins Avenue, Miami Beach, FL 33139. Towers Watson stockholders of record as of the close of business on October 1, 2015 will be entitled to vote at the Towers Watson special meeting.

Investors with questions about the transaction or how to vote their shares may contact the Company's proxy solicitor, MacKenzie Partners Inc., toll-free at 800-322-2885. Additional information on how to vote is available at www.willisandtowerswatson.mergerannouncement.com.
