Dear Shareholder,

We are writing on behalf of the Verizon Board of Directors to ask you to support the Board's positions on the various shareholder proposals contained in this year's proxy statement. There are six shareholder proposals on the ballot that the Board does not believe are in the interests of our shareholders and therefore recommends that you vote against them.

Vote Against Items 4, 5, and 6, which would impose rigid constraints on Verizon's approach to certain governance matters:

Item 4 on the ballot requests that Verizon amend its bylaws to allow shareholders who together own at least 10% of Verizon's stock to call a special meeting. The Board believes that Verizon's bylaws already provide for a meaningful special meeting right—any individual shareholder who owns at least 10%, or multiple shareholders who together own at least 25% of Verizon's stock, may call a special meeting. We have carefully considered this issue and believe that these ownership thresholds strike the proper balance between this important shareholder right and the interests of Verizon and its shareholders in the prudent use of corporate resources given the burden and cost of conducting a special meeting.

Item 5 on the ballot would require Verizon to undertake additional disclosure obligations concerning its lobbying activities and expenditures. Verizon fully complies with all disclosure obligations imposed by federal, state and local laws relating to its lobbying activities and files all required lobbying reports. In addition, the company's lobbying activities are subject to robust internal controls, including oversight by the Corporate Governance and Policy Committee of the Board of Directors. For these reasons, we believe additional disclosures are unnecessary.

Item 6 on the ballot requests that the Board adopt a policy requiring our Chairman to be an independent Director. The Board firmly believes that it would be unwise to adopt any policy that rigidly prescribes our leadership structure and hinders the Board's ability to fashion a structure that we believe will be most effective given a particular set of facts and circumstances. Verizon operates in a dynamic and highly competitive industry. It is therefore essential that the Board retain the flexibility to regularly evaluate and, if necessary, change our leadership structure in order to remain highly effective and efficient in response to this dynamic environment.

Vote Against Items 7, 8, and 9, which are overly prescriptive and fail to align with the objectives of Verizon's executive compensation program:

Item 7 on the ballot asks Verizon to report on the feasibility of integrating cyber security and data privacy metrics into compensation performance measures of its senior executives. The Board believes that inserting the proposed metrics into senior executive compensation plans would not have the desired effect of preventing data breaches. Rather, it is the Board's rigorous and consistent oversight of these important risks, and Verizon's robust cyber security and data privacy programs that will be more effective in preventing security incidents.

Item 8 on the ballot requests that Verizon amend its existing claw back policies to remove the requirement of personal fault and provide that mere conduct - rather than willful misconduct - resulting in significant reputational or financial harm to Verizon would be sufficient to trigger the policies' application. The Board believes that the company's existing claw back policies strike the proper balance between empowering executives to exercise the business judgment necessary to deliver shareholder value, on the one hand, and discouraging wrongdoing and grossly negligent behavior that causes Verizon significant reputational or financial harm on the other hand. The proposal also would require public disclosure of the Board's deliberations concerning the application of the claw back policies. The Board believes that mandating disclosure of its deliberations with respect to specific decisions to claw back compensation would increase the litigation and reputational risks and have a potential chilling effect on the Board's deliberations.

Item 9 on the ballot requests that the Board adopt a policy that would prohibit the payment of so-called above-market earnings on the non-tax-qualified retirement savings or deferred income account balances of senior executive officers. The Board notes that, while Securities and Exchange Commission rules require the disclosure of certain compensation that in the rules is described as above-market earnings, the investment option that is the focus of this proposal is an index of corporate bond rates published by Moody's Investor Services, Inc., so the returns are entirely reflective of, and do not constitute a premium above, today's market for loans to large corporations like Verizon. In addition, because the return on this investment option is lower than that offered by other investment options, it does not increase the expense of retirement programs.

Thank you for your consideration of our recommendations on these items. You can find additional discussion of these proposals and our views on pages 62-70 of Verizon's 2018 Proxy Statement. Through our long-standing investor outreach efforts, we have had a robust exchange of ideas with many of you that have helped us hone best-in-class, shareholder-friendly governance and executive compensation practices. We appreciate our ongoing dialogue with you and look forward to continued engagement.

Sincerely,
