ANGLOGOLD ASHANTI AND TRANS-SIBERIAN GOLD AGREE TO EXTEND DEADLINE

AngloGold Ashanti Limited ("AngloGold Ashanti") and Trans-Siberian Gold plc ("TSG") have agreed to extend the deadline for AngloGold Ashanti's second subscription of new ordinary shares in TSG ("the second subscription") pursuant to the subscription agreement signed in June 2004 ("the subscription agreement") from 31 December 2004 to 15 April 2005. The extension has been agreed because the condition in the subscription agreement relating to the financing of TSG's Asacha project, located in Kamchatka, Far East Russia, will not be satisfied by 31 December 2004. AngloGold Ashanti currently has a 17.5% equity interest in TSG that would increase to 29.9% with the second subscription.

TSG has also agreed with AngloGold Ashanti that the second subscription is now also conditional on a revised implementation plan, which will include clearly defined capital estimates and project schedules, as well as a financing plan for the Asacha project, being unanimously agreed by the TSG Board, as well as any regulatory filings or amendments to regulatory filings, which are necessary in the Russian Federation for this revised implementation plan for the Asacha project, having been made. The second subscription will however not be conditional upon TSG entering into a binding agreement to finance the development of the Asacha project. Other than these changes in relation to the second subscription, the subscription agreement shall continue in full force and effect.

TSG has announced that it is undertaking a review of the capital cost estimates of the Asacha project. TSG has further announced that recent increases in the cost of fuel, steel and labour in Russia, and higher international freight costs, combined with the strengthening of the rouble, especially against the US dollar, are expected to lead to a material rise in the capital cost of the project, above the estimate of the bankable feasibility study completed in February 2004.

Richard Duffy, AngloGold Ashanti's Executive Officer responsible for Business Development and a non-executive director of TSG, comments: "Whilst we are concerned that the capital costs of the Asacha project have increased, and there may be a delay in the implementation of the project, we remain committed to our investment in TSG. We will continue to make resources available to TSG through our Technical Consultancy Agreement and are confident that TSG will determine a satisfactory way forward with Asacha."
