Section 2 Financial Information

Item 2.06 Material Impairments.

As of December 22, 2014, the Board of Directors of Allegiant Travel Company (the “Company”) approved a non-cash impairment charge of approximately $43.2 million to the Company’s fleet of six Boeing 757 aircraft, engines and related assets. The non-cash impairment charge resulted from a recent review of the value of the Company’s Boeing 757 assets. The review was based on factors such as our ability or intent to operate fleet types through their estimated useful lives, potential changes to fleet residual values based on changes in market conditions for used aircraft, spare engines and parts and potential changes to our scheduled revenue network based on competition trends and operational performance. The Company concluded that the carrying value of these aircraft and related assets is no longer fully recoverable when compared to the estimated remaining future undiscounted cash flows from these assets. We will record this impairment charge in fourth quarter 2014. After estimated tax effect, the effect of the impairment charge on net income is expected to be approximately $27.2 million. No portion of the impairment charge will result in future cash expenditures.
