Bruce A. Williamson
Chairman, President and CEO
Dynegy Inc.

Dear Bruce:

It was a pleasure speaking with you today regarding a potential credit facility to be provided to Dynegy by my affiliated companies. During our conversation you asked me why I was willing to provide such a facility, given that my companies are not banks that typically provide such financing.

As you know, we are very significant Dynegy stockholders. Your proxy materials suggest certain short term risks concerning liquidity and potential credit facility defaults, if the proposed Dynegy/Blackstone transaction is not approved by stockholders. We are skeptical that those risks exist, but more importantly we do not want to see shareholders railroaded into a financially ill-conceived transaction because of what we consider to be unfounded fears. To put the concerns raised by management to rest once and for all, we would be willing to provide a credit facility (the "Icahn Credit Facility") on the same terms as the existing Dynegy credit facility. However, we would change covenants as provided below so that there can be absolutely no question concerning short term liquidity that might cause certain shareholders to worry and vote for the proposed Blackstone transaction:

Edgar Filing: DYNEGY INC. - Form SC 13D/A

1. Asset Sales: The Icahn Credit Facility will permit the sale by Dynegy of up to $1.5 billion dollars of assets without any prepayment requirement.
2. Interest Rate: The interest rate on the Icahn Credit Facility will be 5 basis points less than the interest rate on the existing Dynegy credit facility.
3. Elimination of Maintenance Covenants: The Icahn Credit Facility will eliminate all financial maintenance covenants.
4. Fees: The Icahn Credit Facility will include a commitment of 1 percent and a funding fee of 1 percent (together, the "Fees"), plus expenses. However, the Icahn companies are willing to waive those Fees if Dynegy engages in a prompt, even handed, open marketing process for the entire company, immediately after the proposed Dynegy/Blackstone transaction is voted down. While we have not determined to do so, we reserve the right to be a bidder in this process. There would be no requirement on the part of the Dynegy Board to accept any bid that may materialize.

We are prepared to begin documentation on the above with Dynegy immediately. In addition, as we discussed today, we would also be willing to enter into immediate discussions with Dynegy for a long-term credit facility.

We look forward to your prompt response to this letter.

Very truly yours,

/s/ Carl C. Icahn
