If these reverse and forward stock splits are approved, Webco will no longer be required to file annual and periodic reports or make other filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission that are applicable to public companies, and its stock will no longer be listed on the American Stock Exchange.

PROXY STATEMENT
FOR SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS
TO BE HELD ON _____, 2004

The Board of Directors of Webco Industries, Inc., an Oklahoma corporation (the Company or Webco), is providing this proxy statement to its stockholders to solicit their vote for use at a Special Meeting of Stockholders (the Special Meeting or the Meeting) to be held on _____, 2004. The Special Meeting will be held at the offices of Webco, 9101 West 21st Street, Sand Springs, Oklahoma, at 11:00 a.m., central time. This proxy statement and the accompanying proxy card are being mailed on or about _____, 2004, to stockholders of record as of _____, 2004.

At the Special Meeting, stockholders will vote on a proposal to amend Webco's Certificate of Incorporation to effect, as determined by the Board of Directors in its discretion, one of five alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations (each having a net effect of a one-for-10 reverse split). As permitted under Oklahoma law, stockholders whose shares are converted into less than one share in the reverse split (because they had fewer shares than the reverse split ratio at the effective time of the reverse split) will receive a cash payment from Webco in the amount of $4.75, without interest, for each share of common stock, par value $.01 per share (the Common Stock), they held immediately before the reverse split. Stockholders who own more than one share after the reverse split will receive one share for every 10 shares they owned prior to the reverse split and for each fractional share they would otherwise receive as a result of the forward split, stockholders will receive a cash payment in the amount of $4.75, without interest, per pre-reverse-split share in lieu of a fractional share. The reverse stock split and forward stock split to be effected by the amendment to our Certificate of Incorporation, the cash payments to stockholders and other related matters are referred to in this proxy statement as the Transaction.

After the Transaction, Webco anticipates that it will have fewer than 300 stockholders of record. As a result, Webco will no longer be required to file annual and periodic reports or make other filings under the federal securities laws that are applicable to public companies. Additionally, the Common Stock will no longer be listed on the American Stock Exchange.

Neither the Securities and Exchange Commission nor any state securities commission has approved or disapproved of the Transaction, passed upon the merits or fairness of the Transaction or passed upon the adequacy or accuracy of the disclosure in this document. Any representation to the contrary is a criminal offense.

FORWARD LOOKING STATEMENTS

Certain statements in this proxy statement, including statements preceded by, or predicated upon the words anticipates, appears, believes, expects, estimated, hopes, plans, should, would or similar words constitute forward-looking statements. Such forward-looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other important factors that could cause the actual results, performance or achievements of Webco or industry results to differ materially from any future results, performance or achievements expressed or implied herein. Such risks, uncertainties and factors include, among others: general economic and business conditions, competition from imports, changes in manufacturing technology, banking environment, monetary policy, raw material costs and availability, industry capacity, domestic competition, loss of significant customers and customer work stoppages, customer claims, technical and data processing capabilities, insurance costs and availability, and the number of record holders after the Transaction.

SUMMARY TERM SHEET FOR REVERSE/FORWARD STOCK SPLIT TRANSACTION

The following summary briefly describes the proposed Transaction. While this summary describes what Webco believes are the most material terms and features of the Transaction, stockholders should read the entire proxy statement and the documents incorporated in this proxy statement by reference before voting. As used in this proxy statement, Transaction refers to the reverse/forward stock split to be effected by the amendment of our Certificate of Incorporation, together with the related cash payments to stockholders and other related matters.

Summary of the Transaction

The Board of Directors has authorized, and recommends that stockholders approve, an amendment to Webco's Certificate of Incorporation to effect, as determined by the Board of Directors in its discretion, one of the following five alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations:

a reverse one-for-200 stock split followed immediately by a forward 20-for-one stock split of the Common Stock;

a reverse one-for-500 stock split followed immediately by a forward 50-for-one stock split of the Common Stock;

a reverse one-for-1,000 stock split followed immediately by a forward 100-for-one stock split of the Common Stock;

a reverse one-for-1,500 stock split followed immediately by a forward 150-for-one stock split of the Common Stock; and

a reverse one-for-2,000 stock split followed immediately by a forward 200-for-one stock split of the Common Stock.

IN THE FOLLOWING DISCUSSIONS, THE TERMS MINIMUM NUMBER AND FORWARD NUMBER MEAN: 200 AND 20, RESPECTIVELY, IF THE ONE-FOR-200 REVERSE/20-FOR-ONE FORWARD SPLIT IS IMPLEMENTED; 500 AND 50, RESPECTIVELY, IF THE ONE-FOR-500 REVERSE/50-FOR-ONE FORWARD SPLIT IS IMPLEMENTED; 1,000 AND 100, RESPECTIVELY, IF THE ONE-FOR-1,000 REVERSE/100-FOR-ONE FORWARD SPLIT IS IMPLEMENTED; 1,500 AND 150, RESPECTIVELY, IF THE ONE-FOR-1,500 REVERSE/150-FOR-ONE FORWARD SPLIT IS IMPLEMENTED; AND 2,000 AND 200, RESPECTIVELY, IF THE ONE-FOR-2,000 REVERSE/200-FOR-ONE FORWARD SPLIT IS IMPLEMENTED.

Each of these five alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations is comprised of a reverse stock split whereby each Minimum Number of shares of Common Stock held of record by a stockholder at the effective time of the reverse split will be converted into one share of Common Stock, followed immediately by a forward stock split whereby each share of Common Stock outstanding upon consummation of the reverse split will be converted into the Forward Number of shares of Common Stock. As permitted under Oklahoma law, shares of Common Stock that would be converted into less than one share of Common Stock in the reverse split will instead be converted into the right to receive a cash payment as described below. However, if a stockholder of record holds the Minimum Number or more shares of Common Stock in his or her account at the effective time of the reverse split, only fractional shares remaining after the forward split will be cashed out such that at the end of the Transaction, each such holder will have a whole number of shares.

Webco is submitting to its stockholders a proposal to amend the Certificate of Incorporation to effect one of the five alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations described above, and the Board in its discretion may elect to effect any one (but not more than one) of these five combinations that are approved by the requisite vote of the stockholders of Webco. The Board will also have the discretion to determine if and when to effect any of these reverse/forward stock split combinations that are approved by the stockholders and reserves the right to abandon the Transaction even if it is approved by the stockholders (see Reservation of Rights on page 7). Webco expects that, if stockholders approve and the Board elects to implement the Transaction, it would be consummated within 30 days after the date of the Special Meeting upon the filing of the necessary amendment to Webco's Certificate of Incorporation with the Secretary of State of the State of Oklahoma. If the Board determines to implement any of the five alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations approved by the stockholders, as soon as practicable after the effectiveness of the reverse/forward stock split, Webco will publicly announce in a press release and post on its website at <http://www.webcoindustries.com> which of the approved alternative combinations the Board has elected to effect. The form of proposed amendment to Webco's Certificate of Incorporation necessary to effect the Transaction is set forth under Proposal to Amend Webco's Certificate of Incorporation Proposed Language Amending Webco's Certificate of Incorporation Reverse/Forward Split Amendment beginning on page 15.

Webco believes that the Transaction will result in its having fewer than 300 record holders of Common Stock, and therefore Webco will be eligible to terminate registration of the Common Stock under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, or the 1934 Act, which will terminate Webco's obligation to file annual and periodic reports and make other filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission that are applicable to public companies and will result in Webco no longer being considered a public company. This will result in significant cost savings and other benefits, as outlined below in Special Factors Purpose of and Reasons for the Transaction beginning on page 16. Our Common Stock will no longer be listed on the American Stock Exchange; however, we believe that a market for the Common Stock may be available through the Pink Sheets, LLC.

Effects of the Transaction.

The Board is soliciting stockholder approval for an amendment to Webco's Certificate of Incorporation to effect, as determined by the Board of Directors in its discretion, one of the five alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations. The availability of five alternatives will provide the Board with the flexibility to implement the Transaction and ensure that Webco's objectives are met. In determining which one of the alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations to implement, if any, following stockholder approval of the amendment to the Certificate of Incorporation, the Board will consider factors such as: (1) the approximate number of record holders that would remain after the Transaction; (2) the availability and cost of funds required to make the cash payments to stockholders who have the right to receive cash pursuant to the Transaction and the terms of any arrangements that Webco may enter into to raise those funds; (3) the Board's determination as to which of the alternative transactions would result in the greatest overall reduction in Webco's administrative and other costs; (4) considerations related to preserving Webco's status as a private company; and (5) considerations related to supporting continued liquidity of its shares on the Pink Sheets after deregistration under the 1934 Act and delisting from the American Stock Exchange.

If approved by the stockholders and implemented by the Board, the Transaction will become effective on such date as may be determined by the Board.

If the Transaction is completed, the following will occur:

Stockholders who own less than the Minimum Number of shares before the Transaction will receive a cash payment in the amount of $4.75 per pre-reverse split share in exchange for their shares of Common Stock and will no longer have any interest in Webco.

Stockholders who own exactly the Minimum Number of shares before the Transaction will receive one share for every 10 shares they owned prior to the Transaction.

Stockholders who own more than the Minimum Number of shares before the Transaction will receive one share for every 10 shares they owned prior to the Transaction (after giving effect to the reverse and forward splits); for fractional shares remaining after the forward split, they will receive a cash payment in the amount of $4.75 per pre-reverse split share; and they will continue to have an interest in Webco to the extent of their remaining whole shares.

Webco expects to have fewer than 300 record holders of Common Stock and, therefore, will be eligible to terminate registration of the Common Stock with the Securities and Exchange Commission, which will terminate our obligation to continue filing annual and periodic reports and make other filings under the federal securities laws that are applicable to public companies, and we will no longer be considered a public company.

Our Common Stock will no longer be listed on the American Stock Exchange.

Due to the expressed intention of one of our directors to resign upon the occurrence of the Transaction, the number of directors of Webco will be reduced to five immediately after the Transaction; F. William Weber, Dana S. Weber, Jack D. McCarthy, Kenneth E. Case and Christopher L. Kowalski are expected to continue as directors of Webco.

The number of shares subject to currently outstanding options and the corresponding exercise prices will be adjusted in accordance with the terms of Webco's option plan to give effect to the Transaction. Any options for fewer than the Minimum Number will become a right to receive a cash payment in the amount of $4.75 per pre-reverse split share, irrespective of vesting status, less the exercise price, and will result in the elimination of any rights to acquire fractional shares; if the value of this right is $0 or less, the options will be cancelled. Any options for more than the Minimum Number will be adjusted so that the holder will have 1/10th as many options at 10 times the exercise price. The vesting schedule related to options still in effect after the Transaction will remain unchanged.

In addition, based on estimates of record ownership of shares of Common Stock, the number of shares outstanding and other information as of June 28, 2004, and assuming that the Minimum Number is 2,000 shares, the Transaction will have the effects set forth below:

420,000 fractional shares will be cashed out.

We estimate that the number of Webco's stockholders of record will be reduced from approximately 343 to approximately 64, and we estimate that the number of outstanding shares of Common Stock will decrease by approximately 6% from 7,081,723 shares to approximately 6,660,000 shares on a pre-reverse split basis (666,000 on a post-Transaction basis).

We estimate that the number of beneficial stockholders will be reduced from approximately 1,481 to 247, as a result of the Transaction.

Options to purchase 222,000 shares of Common Stock will be cancelled or cashed out at a cost of approximately $60,000.

The percentage ownership of Common Stock beneficially owned by the executive officers and directors of Webco as a group will increase from 54% to approximately 57% and the percentage ownership of Common Stock beneficially owned by F. William Weber, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer, Dana S. Weber, Vice Chairman of the Board and Chief Operating Officer, and their family members will increase from 48% to 50% of the outstanding shares.

If the Transaction had occurred on April 30, 2004, stockholders' equity as of that date would have been reduced from approximately $54,299,000 on an historical basis to approximately $51,194,000 on a pro forma basis.

If the Transaction had occurred on April 30, 2004, the book value per share of Common Stock as of that date would have increased from $7.67 per share on an historical basis to approximately $76.87 per share on a pro forma basis.

The total cash required for the Transaction is estimated at $5,230,000, including the cost to repurchase fractional shares, cash out options, pay the costs of the Transaction and make loans to certain officers and employees to replace currently outstanding loans from third parties to such officers.

If the Transaction had occurred on August 1, 2003, net income per share of Common Stock (including non-recurring income and expenses) for the nine months ended April 30, 2004, would have increased from $0.44 on an historical basis (both basic and fully diluted) to $4.80 (basic) and $4.29 (fully-diluted) on a pro forma basis.

For a description of the provisions regarding the treatment of shares held in street name, see Proposal to Amend Webco's Certificate of Incorporation Effect of the Transaction on Stockholders beginning on page 13. See also Special Factors beginning on page 16. Shares held in street name are shares held in a stock brokerage account or by a bank or other nominee.

The Reasons for and Benefits of the Transaction

If approved, the Transaction will enable Webco to terminate its registration under the 1934 Act and to terminate its obligation to file annual and periodic reports and make other filings under the federal securities laws that are applicable to public companies. Webco will thereafter be considered a private company.

The reasons for the Transaction include the following:

Webco believes that the governance requirements of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, along with the current environment for public companies, will increase the cost and difficulty of retaining and recruiting qualified and experienced members of its Board of Directors.

Webco believes that the legal and liability costs and risks of being public are substantial and increasing.

Webco believes that current and foreseeable market conditions limit opportunities for sustained and significant revenue and net income growth. Specifically: (a) we believe that organic growth of our business will be gradual but limited due to the maturity of the industry in which we compete; (b) we are unaware of any attractive merger or acquisition opportunities in our industry; (c) we believe that overcapacity in the marketplace will continue to challenge margins and net income; and (d) increasing expenses of being public due to regulatory requirements will adversely affect future profitability and cash flow. These beliefs are notwithstanding the current market environment for our products which, as a result of the lack of availability of steel, has resulted in what we believe are unsustainably high short-term earnings.

Webco believes that our characteristics (low market capitalization and relatively low return on assets or equity), the characteristics of our Common Stock (low price, limited trading volume, no dividend and no analyst coverage), as well as the general volatility of our industry, have had and will continue to have a negative effect on our long-term stock price.

Webco believes that the characteristics of our Common Stock discussed above do not allow us to use stock as a currency for acquisition opportunities or to generate additional capital for other strategic opportunities.

Webco believes that most investors expect their investment in a public stock to be relatively liquid and to be able to move their funds in and out of stocks quickly and easily without facing a significant negative impact on the value of the stock. These dynamics do not exist today for our Common Stock.

Table of Contents

Webco believes that the disclosures that we are required to make as a public company put us at a competitive disadvantage to our mostly non-public competitors. We believe that we will benefit from no longer having to place this information into the public domain.

Benefits of the Transaction are expected to include the following:

Eliminating the current cost of being public of approximately $330,000 per year, including: eliminating the costs of compliance with the listing requirements of the American Stock Exchange; reducing the audit costs associated with complying with securities filing requirements; reducing director and officer insurance premiums by decreasing the risks associated with being a public company; reducing the fees and costs associated with our outside directors; and reducing the direct and indirect costs of administering stockholder accounts and responding to stockholder inquiries;

Avoiding the cost of compliance with Sarbanes-Oxley in 2005, including Section 404 internal control certification costs, of approximately $735,000 (which, when combined with the current cost of being public described above, will approximate $1,065,000) for fiscal year 2005;

Avoiding the cost of Sarbanes-Oxley compliance beyond 2005, including Section 404 internal control certification costs, of approximately $570,000 per year (which, when combined with the current cost of being public described above, will approximate $900,000) for fiscal years 2006 and beyond;

Reducing the substantial time that management and other employees spend preparing and reviewing the periodic reports required of publicly-traded companies and managing stockholder relations and communications, thus enabling them to devote more of their time and energy to our strategy and operations;

Affording stockholders holding fewer shares than the Minimum Number the opportunity to receive cash for their shares without having to pay brokerage commissions and other transaction costs; and

Increasing management's flexibility to consider and initiate actions that may produce long-term benefits and growth without the pressure and expectation to produce quarterly earnings per share growth.

See Special Factors Purpose of and Reasons for the Transaction beginning on page 16.

Disadvantages of the Transaction

Disadvantages of the Transaction are as follows:

Webco's working capital and assets will be decreased and indebtedness increased, to fund the purchase of fractional shares, option buy outs and the other costs of the Transaction, including extending loans to certain officers and employees of Webco, as described below under Interests of Webco's Directors and Executive Officers in the Transaction on page 8;

The limited ability that Webco has to raise capital in the public securities markets or to use our stock as an acquisition currency will be effectively eliminated;

Remaining stockholders may experience reduced liquidity for their shares of Common Stock, even if the Common Stock trades on the Pink Sheets, and this reduced liquidity may adversely affect the market price of the Common Stock;

Edgar Filing: WEBCO INDUSTRIES INC - Form PRE 14A

Less public information about Webco will be required or available after the Transaction (see Special Factors Purpose of and Reasons For the Transaction beginning on page 16); and Stockholders who are cashed out will be unable to participate in any future operating results of Webco unless they buy stock after the Transaction.

Board Determination of the Fairness of the Transaction

A Special Committee of independent directors appointed by the Board to consider the Transaction and the Board have determined that the Transaction is fair to the stockholders and unanimously recommend that stockholders vote FOR the proposed amendment to Webco's Certificate of Incorporation in order to effect the Transaction.

The determination of the Special Committee and the Board is based on a number of procedural and substantive factors, including the following:

Procedural Factors:

The Special Committee was established with sole power to make the decision to recommend the Transaction; and the Special Committee's membership consists entirely of independent directors to represent the interests of Webco's minority stockholders.

The Special Committee retained its own independent financial advisor and legal counsel.

Webco retained its own financial advisor and legal counsel.

The stockholders will have an opportunity to make changes to their ownership before the effective date of the Transaction so that they can increase, divide or otherwise adjust their existing holdings prior to the effective date, in order to retain some or all of their shares or to receive cash for some or all of their shares.

The Special Committee negotiated extensively with Webco and thoroughly deliberated and evaluated the net one-for-10 reverse/forward stock split combinations, with the result that the payment to Webco's cashed-out holders was increased from $4.00 to $4.75 per pre-split share.

The Transaction will be effected in accordance with applicable requirements under Oklahoma law.

Substantive Factors:

Based on the Special Committee's determination that the Transaction is in the best interest of Webco, and that the cash price of $4.75 per pre-split share to be paid to holders of less than one share of Common Stock (post-reverse split) and to holders of fractional shares (post-forward split) is fair, the Special Committee recommended the Transaction.

The terms of the Transaction, including the cash payment to holders of less than one share of Common Stock (post-reverse split) and to holders of fractional shares (post-forward split) in the amount of $4.75 per pre-split share, resulted from arms-length negotiations between Webco and the Special Committee.

The Board believes that the Transaction is the superior transaction for Webco and its stockholders as compared to the feasible alternatives considered.

The Special Committee's financial advisor, Hoak Breedlove Wesneski & Co., has rendered its opinion that the cash price of $4.75 per pre-Transaction share is fair to Webco's cashed-out stockholders from a financial point of view.

The Board believes that the forward split will result in a per-share price that will enhance the possibility for continued liquidity and trading on the Pink Sheets.

Table of Contents

As of June 28, 2004, Webco's directors and executive officers owned approximately 51% of the outstanding shares of Common Stock that would be entitled to vote at the Special Meeting. If Webco's directors and executive officers exercised options they hold prior to the Special Meeting (and no other options were exercised), they would own approximately 54% of the outstanding shares of Common Stock entitled to vote at the Special Meeting. See Security Ownership of Certain Beneficial Owners beginning on page 53. Webco's directors and executive officers have advised Webco that they intend to vote all of their shares of Common Stock in favor of the Transaction. Accordingly, it is likely that the Transaction will be approved by stockholders at the Meeting. Other than the expressed intent of directors and executive officers to vote their shares for the proposal, we have not obtained any assurances or agreements from any of our stockholders as to how they will vote on the proposal.

Please read Special Factors Recommendation of the Board; Fairness of the Transaction beginning on page 26 and Special Factors Interests of Webco's Directors and Executive Officers in the Transaction beginning on page 30.

Fairness Opinion of Financial Advisor

On July 23, 2004, Hoak Breedlove Wesneski & Co., the financial advisor to the Special Committee, delivered to the Special Committee and the Board of Directors its opinion to the effect that, as of the date of such opinion and based upon and subject to the matters stated in the opinion, the cash consideration to be paid in the proposed Transaction is fair, from a financial point of view, to Webco's stockholders receiving such payments. This opinion considered Webco's financial history, Webco's most recently filed Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended April 30, 2004, as amended, Webco's expectations for the quarter and year ending July 31, 2004, and management's financial projections through fiscal year 2008. The full text of the written opinion of Hoak Breedlove, which sets forth the assumptions made, matters considered and limitations on the review undertaken, is attached as Appendix A to this proxy statement. You should read the opinion carefully in its entirety, along with the discussion under Special Factors Opinion and Report of the Financial Advisor beginning on page 31.

The opinion of Hoak Breedlove is directed to the Special Committee and the Board of Directors, addresses only the fairness to holders of the Common Stock from a financial point of view of the cash consideration to be paid in the proposed Transaction, and does not constitute a recommendation to any stockholder as to how such stockholder should vote at the Special Meeting.

Conditions to the Completion of the Transaction

The completion of the Transaction depends upon: the approval of the proposed amendment to Webco's Certificate of Incorporation that will implement the Transaction by the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Common Stock; the confirmation by Webco that the funds are available to pay for the fractional shares; and the selection of one of the five alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations by the Board. Stockholders holding sufficient shares to approve the amendment have already indicated that they intend to vote in favor of the amendment. Once the proposed amendment to the Certificate of Incorporation has been approved by stockholders at the Meeting, and assuming that sufficient funds are available and that the Board of Directors selects one of the five alternative reverse/forward split combinations, we will file the amendment to our Certificate of Incorporation with the Secretary of State of the State of Oklahoma and thereby effect the reverse/forward stock split. For more information about the alternative reverse/forward split combinations, please see Summary of the Transaction beginning on page 1.

Reservation of Rights

The Board reserves the right to abandon the Transaction without further action by our stockholders at any time before the filing of the necessary amendment to our Certificate of Incorporation with the Oklahoma Secretary of State, even if the Transaction has been authorized by our stockholders at the Special Meeting. By voting in favor of the Transaction, stockholders are also expressly authorizing us to determine not to proceed with the Transaction if the Board should so decide. See Proposal to Amend Webco's Certificate of Incorporation Reservation of Rights beginning on page 16.

Source of Funds; Financing of the Transaction

Based on estimates of record ownership of shares of Common Stock, the number of shares outstanding and other information as of June 28, 2004, and assuming that the Minimum Number is 2,000 shares, we estimate that the total funds required to pay the consideration to stockholders entitled to receive cash for their shares, to cash out options, to make loans to certain of our executive officers and employees to replace existing loans that they have with third party lenders and to pay the other costs of the Transaction, will be approximately $5,230,000. We intend to fund this requirement using available cash and amounts available under our loan agreement, which is being renegotiated. We are currently conducting negotiations with potential lending sources and believe that we will be successful in obtaining financing necessary to fund the Transaction. It is our current plan in any such refinancing to increase our revolving credit facility from $38 million to $50 million, to increase our term loan from $10.1 million (as of April 30, 2004) to $18.0 million and to extend the maturity date of the loan to October 31, 2009. There can be no assurance that Webco will be successful consummating any such financing on these terms or at all. See "Special Factors - Source of Funds; Financing of the Transaction" on page 38.

Interests of Webco's Directors and Executive Officers in the Transaction

In considering the recommendation of the Board of Directors with respect to the Transaction, stockholders should be aware that Webco's executive officers and directors have interests in the Transaction that are in addition to, or different from, our stockholders generally. These interests may create potential conflicts of interest and include the following:

Each executive officer and each member of the Board of Directors holds shares or vested options in excess of the Minimum Number and will, therefore, retain shares of Common Stock or options to purchase Common Stock after the Transaction.

As a result of the Transaction, the stockholders who own of record on _____, 2004, more shares than the Minimum Number, such as Webco's executive officers and directors, will increase their percentage ownership interest in Webco as a result of the Transaction. For example, assuming the Transaction is implemented and the Minimum Number is 2,000 shares, and based on information and estimates of record ownership of shares of Common Stock as of June 28, 2004, the ownership percentage of our executive officers and directors, including vested options, will increase from 54% to 57% and the ownership percentage of Mr. Weber, Ms. Weber and their family, including vested options, will increase from 48% to 50% as a result of the reduction by an estimated 420,000 shares in the number of shares of our Common Stock outstanding.

After the deregistration of the Common Stock under the 1934 Act becomes effective, Webco intends to lend $1,500,000 to F. William Weber, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer, $180,000 to Dana S. Weber, Vice Chairman, President and Chief Operating Officer, $300,000 to David E. Boyer, Senior Vice President of Tubular Operations and Corporate Secretary, and $120,000 to other employees. Webco's loans to these officers will be used by them to repay currently outstanding loans with various financial institutions that are secured by shares of our Common Stock. These financial institutions have advised these persons that, following deregistration of our Common Stock, these shares will no longer be allowed as collateral. The Board and these officers have agreed that these loans will not be forgiven, that they will be personal obligations of these individuals and that they will be collateralized by Common Stock owned by them.

Kenneth E. Case, Jack D. McCarthy and Bradley S. Vetal, members of the Special Committee, will each receive compensation for serving on the Special Committee. In the case of Mr. McCarthy, Chairman of the Special Committee, such compensation will aggregate approximately $32,000 and, in the case of Messrs. Case and Vetal, will aggregate approximately $10,500 each.

According to a Schedule 13G dated February 16, 2004, Strong Capital Management, a principal stockholder of Webco, owned 1,976,998 shares, or 11.7%, of the outstanding common stock of Matrix Services Company. Bradley S. Vetal, a member of the Special Committee, is Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Matrix Services Company.

Table of Contents

The legal exposure for board members of public companies has increased significantly. While there are still significant controls, regulations and liabilities for directors and executive officers of private companies, the legal exposure for Webco's directors and executive officers will be greatly reduced after the Transaction.

Changes in Management and Post-Transaction Plans

Webco's executive officers will remain the same immediately following the Transaction; however, after the termination of the listing of shares of Common Stock on the American Stock Exchange and the deregistration of the Common Stock under the 1934 Act, we intend to decrease the size of Webco's board to five members due to the announced intention of Mr. Vetal to resign, with Ms. Weber and Messrs. Weber, McCarthy, Case and Kowalski remaining as directors. For more information about Webco's post-Transaction plans, see Special Factors Conduct of Webco's Business after the Transaction beginning on page 39.

No Dissenters or Appraisal Rights

Under the Oklahoma General Corporation Act and Webco's Certificate of Incorporation and Bylaws, Webco's stockholders are not entitled to dissenters' or appraisal rights.

Market Price of Common Stock

The last sale price of the Common Stock on May 28, 2004, the day before Webco announced its consideration of a going-private transaction, was $4.86 per share. The closing price of the Common Stock on June 25, 2004, the day before Webco announced the approval of this Transaction by the Special Committee and Board of Directors, was $4.08 per share. On _____, 2004 (the most recent practicable date prior to the printing of this proxy statement), the closing price of the Common Stock was $_____ per share. See Financial Information Market Prices of the Common Stock beginning on page 48.

Federal Income Tax Consequences

Generally, for stockholders who have fewer shares of Common Stock than the Minimum Number and for stockholders who have fractional shares after the forward split, the receipt of cash for fractional shares will be treated for tax purposes in the same manner as if the shares had been sold in the market for cash. As to stockholders who will remain stockholders of Webco following the Transaction, the tax consequences to those stockholders of the Transaction will depend on each stockholder's own unique situation. Accordingly, stockholders should consult their own tax advisor to determine the effect of the Transaction under applicable federal, state, local and foreign tax laws. See Special Factors Material Federal Income Tax Consequences beginning on page 39.

Selected Per Share Financial Information

The following table sets forth selected historical per share financial information for Webco and unaudited pro forma per share financial information for Webco giving effect to the Transaction as if it had been consummated as of the end of each period presented, in the case of book value per share information, and as of the beginning of the respective reporting periods, in the case of earnings per share information. The information presented below is derived from (i) the consolidated historical financial statements of Webco, including the related notes thereto, and (ii) the unaudited Pro Forma Consolidated Financial Statements, including the related assumptions, beginning on page 44. This table should be read together with the Selected Historical Financial Information beginning on page 42, the unaudited Pro Forma Consolidated Financial Statements and the related assumptions and footnotes beginning on page 44 and the consolidated financial statements of Webco and the notes thereto included in Webco's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended July 31, 2003, as amended, and Webco's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended April 30, 2004, as amended, which information is incorporated by reference in this proxy statement. As described in the assumptions to the unaudited Pro Forma Consolidated Financial Statements, the pro forma per share information assumes that 420,000 shares of Common Stock will be cashed out in connection with the Transaction, options to purchase 222,000 shares of Common Stock will be cancelled or cashed out at a cost of $60,000, and that the total cash required for the Transaction will be $5,230,000, including the cash paid for these shares and options, loans to be made to certain of our executive officers and employees to replace existing loans that they have with third party lenders and amounts required to pay the other costs of the Transaction. The pro forma information set forth below is not necessarily indicative of what Webco's financial position or results of operations actually would have been if the Transaction had been consummated as of the above referenced dates or of Webco's financial position or results of operations in the future.

THE SPECIAL MEETING

General

We are providing this proxy statement to our stockholders of record as of _____, 2004, along with a proxy card that our Board of Directors is soliciting for use at the Special Meeting of our stockholders to be held on _____, 2004, at 11:00 a.m., central time, at our offices at 9101 West 21st Street, Sand Springs, Oklahoma. At the Meeting, stockholders will vote upon a proposal to approve an amendment to our Certificate of Incorporation that will implement the Transaction, subject to the right of the Board to abandon the Transaction if it so determines.

Who Can Vote at the Meeting

Stockholders are entitled to vote their Common Stock if Webco's records show that such stockholders held their shares as of the record date, which is _____, 2004. On the record date, there were 7,081,723 shares of Common Stock outstanding, held by approximately _____ holders of record. Each share of Common Stock is entitled to one vote on each matter submitted at the Meeting.

Attending the Meeting

Holders whose shares of Common Stock are held by a broker, bank or other nominee (i.e., in street name or nominee name), will need proof of ownership to be admitted to the Meeting. A recent brokerage statement or letter from a bank or broker are examples of proof of ownership. Stockholders wishing to vote their shares of Common Stock held in street name in person at the Meeting must get a written proxy in their name from the broker, bank or other nominee that holds such stockholders' shares.

Vote Required

Approval of the proposal requires the affirmative vote of the holders of at least a majority of the outstanding shares of Common Stock entitled to vote. The proposal to amend Webco's Certificate of Incorporation is a non-discretionary item, meaning that brokerage firms cannot vote shares in their discretion on behalf of a client if the client has not given voting instructions. Accordingly, shares held in street name that have been designated by brokers on proxy appointment forms as not voted with respect to that proposal (broker non-vote shares) will not be counted as votes cast on the proposal. Shares with respect to which proxies have been marked as abstentions also will not be counted as votes cast on the proposal. If a stockholder does not vote his or her shares, it will have the same effect as a vote AGAINST the proposal. Abstentions and broker non-vote shares will have the same effect as votes against the proposal. Proxies will be provided to individual participants in Webco's 401(k) Stock Fund based on their allocation of shares in the plan. The trustee will vote shares on behalf of a 401(k) Plan participant who has invested in the Webco Common Stock fund if the participant has given voting instructions to the trustee. All participant directions will be kept confidential from Webco by the trustee. Unvoted shares will be voted according to the terms of the trust agreement for the 401(k) Plan, which provides that unvoted shares will be voted as directed by a designated fiduciary of the plan. Accordingly, the Board of Directors urges you to complete, date and sign the accompanying proxy appointment form and return it promptly in the enclosed postage-prepaid envelope.

A quorum will be present at the Meeting if a majority of the outstanding shares of Common Stock entitled to vote is represented at the Meeting in person or by proxy. Shares with respect to which a proxy have been marked as abstentions and broker non-vote shares will be treated as shares present for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present. In accordance with Oklahoma law and Webco's Bylaws relating to special meetings of stockholders, no other business may be presented at the Special Meeting other than matters incidental to the conduct of the Meeting.

Our directors and executive officers, all of whom have indicated to us that they intend to vote their shares for the proposal, owned an aggregate of 3,643,015 shares of Common Stock, representing 51% of our outstanding shares as of June 28, 2004. These directors and executive officers also have options that are presently exercisable that, if exercised prior to the record date, would result in these directors and executive officers owning an additional 367,900 shares of Common Stock, which would increase the directors and executive officers share of the Common Stock entitled to vote at the Meeting to 54%, assuming no other options are exercised. See Security Ownership of Certain Beneficial Owners beginning on page 53, and Special Factors Interests of Webco's Directors and Executive Officers in the Transaction beginning on page 30. Accordingly, it is likely that the Transaction will be approved by stockholders at the Meeting. Other than the expressed intent of directors and executive officers and the Weber family to vote their shares for the Transaction, we have not obtained any assurances or agreements from any of our stockholders as to how they will vote on the proposal.

Voting and Revocation of Proxies

The shares of Common Stock represented by properly completed proxies received at or before the time for the Meeting (or any adjournment) will be voted as directed by the respective stockholders unless the proxy appointments are revoked as described below. If no instructions are given, executed proxy cards will be voted FOR approval of the proposal.

Stockholders may revoke their proxies at any time before the vote is taken at the Meeting. To revoke a proxy, a stockholder must either: notify Webco's Corporate Secretary in writing at Webco's principal executive offices; submit a later dated proxy to Webco's Corporate Secretary; or attend the Meeting and vote his or her shares in person. A stockholder's attendance at the Meeting will not automatically revoke his proxy. A stockholder who holds his or her shares in street name should refer to the voting form provided by his or her broker for additional information regarding the voting of his or her shares.

Some brokers may allow a stockholder to deliver his or her voting instructions via the telephone or the Internet. Please see the voting instruction form from your broker. Stockholders whose shares are not registered in his or her name will need additional documentation from his or her nominee to vote the shares in person.

Solicitation of Proxies

Webco will pay the costs of soliciting proxies for the Special Meeting. Directors, officers and other employees of Webco or its subsidiaries may solicit proxies personally, by telephone or facsimile or otherwise. None of these people will receive any special compensation for solicitation activities. We will arrange with brokerage firms and other custodians, nominees and fiduciaries for the forwarding of solicitation material to the beneficial owners of stock held of record by such brokerage firms and other custodians, nominees and fiduciaries, and we will reimburse these record holders for their reasonable out-of-pocket expenses. We may consider retaining a proxy solicitation firm. If we do, we will bear all of the fees, costs and expenses.

Recommendation of the Board of Directors

The Board of Directors of Webco has approved the proposal to amend the Webco Certificate of Incorporation to effect, as determined by the Board of Directors in its discretion, one of the alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations. The Board of Directors unanimously recommends that Webco's stockholders vote FOR approval of the proposal. See Special Factors Interests of Webco's Directors and Executive Officers in the Transaction beginning on page 30.

PROPOSAL TO AMEND WEBCO'S CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

The following is a description of the material terms and effects of the Transaction. The text of the amendment is set forth below under Proposed Language Amending Webco's Certificate of Incorporation Reverse/Forward Split Amendment beginning on page 15, and is referred to in this proxy statement as the Reverse/Forward Split Amendment.

Subject to the Board's right to abandon the Transaction, as described below, the Board has unanimously adopted resolutions declaring the advisability of, and is herewith submitting to the stockholders for approval, an amendment to Webco's Certificate of Incorporation effecting a reverse/forward stock split of all shares of Common Stock issued as of 11:59 p.m. (central time) on the date the Reverse/Forward Split Amendment is filed with the Oklahoma Secretary of State. Pursuant to the Reverse/Forward Split Amendment, all shares of Common Stock, whether or not issued, will be divided on the effective date by the Minimum Number associated with the reverse/forward stock split combination selected by the Board and converted into the resulting number of shares of

Common Stock. Webco will make a cash payment in the amount of $4.75 (without interest) per pre-reverse split share in lieu of issuing less than one share that will result from the reverse split to stockholders of record. No cash will be paid for fractional shares if the stockholder of record will hold more than one share after the reverse split. For more information about the Minimum Number, see Summary Term Sheet for Reverse/Forward Stock Split Transaction Summary of the Transaction beginning on page 1.

Immediately following the reverse split, all remaining shares will be multiplied by the Forward Number associated with the reverse/forward stock split combination selected by the Board and converted into the resulting number of shares of Common Stock. Webco will make a cash payment in the amount of $4.75 (without interest) per pre-reverse split share in lieu of issuing fractional shares that would result from the reverse/forward split to our remaining stockholders of record.

The Board will have the discretion to determine which reverse/forward stock split combination will be selected and when to effect the Transaction if it is approved by stockholders. The Board reserves the right to abandon the Transaction even if it is approved by the stockholders. (See Reservation of Rights beginning on page 16.) Webco expects that, if stockholders approve the proposal and the Board elects to implement the Transaction, the Transaction would be consummated within 30 days after the date of the Special Meeting. If the Board determines to implement the Transaction, as soon as practicable after the effectiveness of the reverse/forward stock split, we will publicly announce in a press release and post on our website at <http://www.webcoindustries.com> which of the five alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations was selected and that the Transaction was consummated.

Webco intends for the Transaction to treat beneficial stockholders holding Common Stock in street name through a nominee (such as a bank or broker) in the same manner as record stockholders whose shares are registered in their names. Nominees will be instructed to effect the Transaction for their beneficial holders. However, nominees will decide how to respond to this offer and they are not obligated to follow these procedures. Stockholders holding their shares in street name should contact their nominees if they have questions about how their nominee intends to respond to this offer or about their procedures.

Effect of the Transaction on Stockholders

In general, the net effect of the Transaction on the record holders of Common Stock will be as follows:

Stockholder as of Effective Date	Net Effect after Transaction
Record holders of 2,000 or more shares of Common Stock in a record account immediately prior to the reverse split.	Because the maximum reverse split ratio the Board could select is one-for-2,000, these record holders will receive shares of Common Stock equal to the number of shares held prior to the reverse split divided by 10. No cash payments will be made to these stockholders except to the extent of fractional shares to which they would be entitled following the forward split.
Record holders of less than 200 shares of Common Stock in a record account immediately prior to the reverse split.	Because the minimum reverse split ratio the Board could select is one-for-200, these record holders will be cashed out at a price of $4.75 per pre-reverse split share. These stockholders will not have to pay any commissions or other fees in connection with this cash out. Holders of these shares will not have any continuing equity interest in Webco.

Record holders of 200 or more but less than 2,000 shares of Common Stock in a record account immediately prior to the reverse split.

Because the Board of Directors of Webco will not make the final selection of the reverse split ratio until after the Meeting, these stockholders will not know whether they will receive shares or be cashed out until the reverse split ratio has been selected and announced. If they hold a number of shares equal to or greater than the reverse split ratio selected, they will be treated in a manner similar to the first example above. If they hold a number of shares less than the reverse split ratio selected, they will be treated in a manner similar to the second example above.

Any holder of record who desires to retain an equity interest in Webco after the effective date may ensure that they will do so by purchasing, prior to the effective date, a sufficient number of shares of Common Stock in the open market such that the total number of shares held by him or her in one record account immediately prior to the reverse split is equal to or greater than 2,000, the maximum reverse split ratio that our Board of Directors may select.

Conversely, any holder of record who wishes to be cashed out in the reverse split could, prior to the effective date, dispose of a sufficient number of shares to cause the number of shares held of record by such holder on the effective date to be less than 200 shares, the minimum reverse split ratio that our Board of Directors may select. A holder of record could also achieve this result by dividing shares beneficially owned by the holder among several record accounts such that fewer than 200 shares are held of record in each account. For example, a beneficial holder who holds 300 shares in street name with a broker could have the broker transfer 150 of the shares into the beneficial holder's own name so that, on the effective date, 150 shares are held by the beneficial holder directly of record and 150 shares are held of record in street name. Since the record holders would be different, both lots of 150 shares would be cashed out in the reverse split.

Similarly, if a stockholder beneficially owns a total of 3,000 shares or more, but holds them in different accounts of record so that each record account holds fewer than 2,000 shares, but the holder wishes to remain a stockholder after the reverse split, the stockholder could transfer all of the shares into one record account prior to the effective date.

Effect of the Transaction on Option Holders

Upon effectiveness of the reverse split, any options under Webco's 1994 Stock Incentive Plan for Employees and Non-Employee Directors that are less than the Minimum Number will become a right to receive $4.75 in cash less the exercise price of the pre-reverse split shares subject to the option, irrespective of vesting status, and the options will be cancelled. Upon effectiveness of the Transaction, any options that exceed the Minimum Number will have their number of shares and exercise prices adjusted to give effect to the one-for-10 combined reverse/forward split. The vesting schedule for any options still in effect after the Transaction will remain unchanged.

Effect of the Transaction on 401(k) Plan Participants

The trust under our 401(k) Plan will receive one share for every 10 shares held at the effective time, and will receive $4.75 per pre-split share for any fractional shares remaining after the forward split. As of June 28, 2004, there were 134,447 shares of Common Stock in the 401(k) Plan. If the Transaction is effected, our 401(k) Plan will be amended to provide that, upon a distribution of shares of Common Stock to a participant, the participant will have a one-time opportunity to sell such shares to Webco during the 90-day period commencing on the date of distribution, subject to limitations under our new loan agreement restricting our ability to repurchase shares of Common Stock.

Exchange of Stock Certificates

Stockholders should not send their stock certificates now. Stockholders should send them only after they have received a letter of transmittal from Webco. Letters of transmittal will be mailed as soon as practicable after the Transaction is complete.

Promptly following the consummation of the reverse/forward stock split, Webco will send letters of transmittal to all stockholders of record. The letter of transmittal is for use in transmitting Common Stock certificates to Webco's transfer agent. Upon proper completion and execution of a letter of transmittal and return thereof to the transfer agent, together with stock certificates, the stockholder will receive a new stock certificate and/or cash in the amount to which the holder is entitled as a result of the Transaction. After the Transaction and until surrendered, each outstanding certificate held by a stockholder of record who held shares in any increment of less than the Minimum Number immediately prior to the Transaction will be deemed for all purposes to represent only the right to receive the amount of cash to which the holder is entitled pursuant to the Transaction. Webco will make payment of such amounts upon submission of a proper claim, subject to applicable escheat laws. See Special Factors Dissenters Rights; Escheat Laws beginning on page 42.

In connection with the Transaction, the Common Stock will be identified by a new CUSIP number, which will appear on all certificates representing shares of Common Stock issued after the effective date. After the effective date, each certificate representing shares of Common Stock that were outstanding prior to the effective date and that were held by a stockholder of record of more shares than the Minimum Number immediately prior to the Transaction, until surrendered and exchanged for a new certificate, will be deemed for all corporate purposes to evidence ownership of 1/10th of the number of shares set forth on the face of the certificate, rounded down to the nearest whole share, plus the right to receive the amount of cash to which the holder is entitled pursuant to the Transaction. Any stockholder desiring to receive a new certificate bearing the new CUSIP number can do so at any time after the effective date in accordance with instructions set forth in the transmittal letter or otherwise by contacting the transfer agent as set forth in the transmittal letter for surrendering his or her old certificates. After the effective date, an old certificate presented to the exchange agent in settlement of a trade will be exchanged for a new certificate bearing the new CUSIP number.

All amounts payable to stockholders will be subject to applicable state laws relating to abandoned property. No service charges or brokerage commissions will be payable by stockholders in connection with the Transaction. Webco will not pay any interest on any cash amounts payable to its stockholders as a result of the Transaction.

The shares reacquired by Webco in the Transaction will be adjusted in proportion to the one-for-10 net reverse split, and the adjusted shares will be cancelled and thereafter be authorized but unissued shares of Common Stock.

Proposed Language Amending Webco's Certificate of Incorporation Reverse/Forward Split Amendment

The following is the text of a new paragraph in Article 3 of Webco's Certificate of Incorporation, substantially as it is proposed to be amended by the Reverse/Forward Split Amendment:

Effective at 11:59 p.m. (the Effective Time) on the date of filing of Articles of Amendment with the Secretary of State of the State of Oklahoma setting forth this Amendment (the Effective Date), each [Two Hundred (200), Five Hundred (500), One Thousand (1,000), One Thousand Five Hundred (1,500), or Two Thousand (2,000)] shares of authorized Common Stock of Webco, whether or not issued, immediately prior to the Effective Time shall automatically be reclassified and changed into one share of Common Stock (a New Reverse Split Share). Each holder of record of shares of Common Stock so reclassified and changed shall at the Effective Time automatically become the record owner of the number of New Reverse Split Shares as shall result from such reclassification and change. Each such record holder shall be entitled to receive, upon the surrender of the certificate or certificates representing the shares of Common Stock so reclassified and changed, at the office of the transfer agent of Webco in such form and accompanied by such documents, if any, as may be prescribed by the transfer agent of Webco, a new certificate or certificates representing the number of New Reverse Split Shares of which he or she is the record owner after giving effect to the provisions of this Article 3. Webco shall not issue fractional New Reverse Split Shares unless the holder thereof is entitled to receive at least one full share. Stockholders entitled to receive fractional New Reverse Split Shares but who are not also entitled to receive at least one full share shall receive cash in lieu of the fractional shares equal to the product of (a) the number of shares of the Common Stock held by such holder immediately prior to the Effective Time which have not been classified into a whole New Reverse Split Share, multiplied by (b) $4.75.

Effective immediately after the Effective Time, on the Effective Date, each share of authorized Common Stock of Webco, whether or not issued, at the Effective Time (giving effect to the prior paragraph) shall automatically be reclassified and changed into [Twenty (20), Fifty (50), One Hundred (100), One Hundred Fifty (150), or Two Hundred (200)] shares of Common Stock (New Forward Split Shares). Each holder of record of shares of Common Stock so reclassified and changed shall immediately after the Effective Time automatically become the record owner of the number of New Forward Split Shares as shall result from such reclassification and change. Each such record holder shall be entitled to receive, upon the surrender of the certificate or certificates representing the shares of Common Stock so reclassified and changed, at the office of the transfer agent of Webco in such form and accompanied by such documents, if any, as may be prescribed by the transfer agent of Webco, a new certificate or certificates representing the number of New Forward Split Shares of which he or she is the record owner after giving effect to the provisions of this Article 3. Webco shall not issue fractional New Forward Split Shares. Stockholders entitled to receive fractional New Forward Split Shares shall receive cash in lieu of the fractional shares equal to the product of (a) the number of fractional shares that would be received as a result of the forward split contemplated by this paragraph, multiplied by (b) $47.50.

The first paragraph above will give effect to the reverse split by changing, reclassifying and dividing old shares of authorized Common Stock by the Minimum Number selected on the terms described above into resulting new shares of Common Stock. The second paragraph above will give effect to the forward split by changing, reclassifying and multiplying each new share of authorized Common Stock following the reverse split by the Forward Number selected on the terms described above into resulting final shares of Common Stock.

Reservation of Rights

The Board reserves the right to decide, in its discretion, which one of the alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations presented will be adopted or to abandon the Transaction after a stockholder vote and before the Reverse/Forward Split Amendment is filed even if the proposal is approved by stockholders. The Board believes that it is prudent to recognize that, between the date of this proxy statement and the date that the Reverse Forward Split Amendment is filed, circumstances could change such that it might not be appropriate, economic or desirable to effect the amendment at that time. The Board has not set any specific criteria for determining whether the Transaction will be effected. The Board will make its decision based on its business judgment at a time deemed appropriate and based on then existing facts and circumstances. If the Board decides to abandon the Transaction after the Special Meeting and before the date that the Reverse/Forward Split Amendment is filed, Webco will notify its stockholders of such decision promptly by issuing a press release and posting the decision on its website at <http://www.webcoindustries.com>.

SPECIAL FACTORS

Purpose of and Reasons for the Transaction

The primary purpose of the Transaction is to reduce the number of Webco's stockholders of record to fewer than 300, thereby enabling Webco (1) to terminate its obligation to file annual and periodic reports and make other filings under the federal securities laws and (2) to terminate the registration of the Common Stock under the 1934 Act. As a result, we would be able to realize the cost savings that would be achieved by eliminating most of the expenses related to our disclosure, reporting and compliance requirements under the 1934 Act and our listing requirements on the American Stock Exchange for our Common Stock. As a public reporting company, we incur significant expenses, most of which would be eliminated or reduced significantly as a result of the Transaction, including the following:

fees and expenses of counsel to review and assist in the preparation of securities reports and news releases, as well as advising us on securities law and American Stock Exchange compliance matters;

American Stock Exchange listing fees for the Common Stock;

insurance premiums for directors and officers liability insurance in an amount sufficient to attract and retain qualified directors and executive officers;

fees and expenses of our transfer agent and others for printing, postage, stock transfer and other administrative expenses to service public stockholders, most of whom are holders of relatively small numbers of shares of our Common Stock;

fees and expenses of investor relations advisors and consultants hired from time to time;

independent accountants fees for auditing our financial statements and reviewing our quarterly financial statements and earnings releases; and directors fees for their services and expenses related thereto;

The Transaction would also have the effect of:

eliminating the cost of maintaining small stockholder accounts;

permitting small stockholders to receive cash for their shares without having to pay brokerage commissions or other fees; and

reducing the substantial time that management and other employees spend preparing and reviewing periodic reports required of publicly-traded companies and managing stockholder relations and communications; thus enabling them to devote more of their time and energies to the Company's strategy and operations.

The information below in this paragraph as to the effect of the Transaction is based on estimates of record ownership of shares of Common Stock, the number of shares outstanding and other information as of June 28, 2004 and assumes that the Minimum Number is 2,000. Webco estimates that approximately 279 record holders of Common Stock, or approximately 81% of the total number of record holders, owned less than the Minimum Number of shares of Common Stock (not including beneficial owners whose shares may be registered in street name) and record holders owning less than the Minimum Number of shares owned, in the aggregate, approximately 43,000 shares, or less than 1%, of the outstanding shares of Common Stock. Webco has no direct knowledge of the number of shares of Common Stock owned beneficially (but not of record) by its stockholders who own fewer than 2,000 shares of the Common Stock and who hold the shares in street name. However, based upon information obtained from Webco's transfer agent and ADP Investor Communication Services, management estimates that, as of June 28, 2004, there were an additional 955 beneficial holders of fewer than 2,000 shares, who in the aggregate collectively own approximately 377,000 shares, or approximately 6% of the Common Stock. In summary, as of June 28, 2004, there were approximately 420,000 shares of Common Stock, representing approximately 6% of the outstanding shares, held by approximately 1,234 record and beneficial stockholders that held fewer than 2,000 shares.

As a public company, the following items, among others, must be prepared and filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission:

quarterly reports on Form 10-Q;

annual reports on Form 10-K;

proxy statements and annual stockholder reports as required by Regulation 14A under the 1934 Act;

17

current reports on Form 8-K; and ownership change reports as required by regulations under Sections 13 and 16 of the 1934 Act.

With a large number of small stockholders, the costs associated with these reports and other filing obligations result in significant overhead expenses. The cost of administering each stockholder's account and the amount of time spent by Webco's management in responding to stockholder inquiries is the same regardless of the number of shares held in the account. Accordingly, the burden to Webco of maintaining many small accounts is disproportionately high when compared with the total number of shares involved.

Unlike many larger public companies, Webco does not have employees assigned to manage investor relations. Instead, our executive officers respond directly to stockholder requests, and time spent fulfilling these duties limits the time that such officers are able to allocate to other aspects of managing Webco. Therefore, our management believes that it would be beneficial to Webco and its stockholders as a whole to eliminate the administrative burden and cost associated with the estimated 1,234 record and beneficial owners of less than the Minimum Number of shares of Common Stock.

Webco incurs direct and indirect costs associated with compliance with the Securities and Exchange Commission's filing and reporting requirements imposed on public companies. We also incur substantial indirect costs as a result of, among other things, management's time expended in preparing and reviewing such filings. Since we have relatively few executive personnel, these indirect costs can be substantial. Based on our experience in prior years, the direct external annual costs resulting from Webco's being a public company, and which can be avoided by being a private company, are estimated as follows:

Independent audit cost premium	$ 100,000
Investor relations	70,000
Board fees and expenses	65,000
Legal	30,000
Directors' and officers' liability insurance	30,000
Training, education and other	35,000
	<hr/>
Total	$330,000

Estimates of the annual savings expected to be realized if the Transaction is implemented are based upon (1) the actual historical costs to Webco of the services and disbursements in each of the above categories that were reflected in its recent historical financial statements and (2) the allocation to each category of management's estimates of the portion of the expenses and disbursements in such category believed to be solely or primarily attributable to Webco's public reporting company status. In some instances, Webco's management's estimates were based on information provided by others or upon verifiable assumptions. For example, discussions with other privately held companies and our own previous experience as a private company lead us to believe that there will be a reduction in auditing fees if we cease to be public, because of a reduction in risk and the absence of quarterly reviews. In addition, there will be limited need for legal counsel for securities matters, reduced cost associated with outside directors and the related expenses, limited need for printing services if we no longer file reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and reduced directors' and officers' liability insurance costs if we no longer face the legal risks associated with being a public company. Other estimates were more subjective (e.g., the savings in transfer agent's fees that could be expected because of the reduction in the number of accounts to be handled by the transfer agent, the lower printing and mailing costs attributable to such reduction and the less complicated disclosure required by Webco's private status, the need for fewer directors' meetings (and the consequent reduction in associated expenses), and the reduction in direct miscellaneous clerical and other expenses (e.g., the word processing, edgarizing, telephone and fax charges associated with securities filings, and the elimination of the charges imposed by brokers and banks to forward materials to beneficial holders).

Table of Contents

The actual savings to be realized may be higher or lower than estimated above. Webco expects that if we become private before our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended July 31, 2004 is due, then we will not be required to file such Report and, as a result, a portion of the estimated savings could be realized in 2004 due to reductions in audit and legal fees associated with the preparation and review of that Report. In addition, we expect the various costs associated with remaining a public company will continue to increase as a result of Sarbanes-Oxley and related regulations. We estimate that, in addition to the $330,000 in savings referred to above, the incremental out-of-pocket costs that will be avoided are as follows:

Description of Expense	Fiscal 2005	Annually
		Thereafter
Additional cost for audit, internal control certification and testing and information technology control certification and testing	$ 180,000	$ 115,000
Additional information technology personnel	160,000	160,000
Additional accounting personnel	115,000	115,000
Consulting and expenses	100,000	35,000
Software and hardware	50,000	25,000
Travel costs	50,000	50,000
Additional overtime and part-time	30,000	25,000
Legal	25,000	20,000
Other	25,000	25,000
Total	$ 735,000	$ 570,000

None of these cost estimates includes the cost or time of any personnel or management currently employed by Webco. Based on our size and resources, the Board does not believe the costs associated with remaining a public company are justified.

Webco believes Sarbanes-Oxley and related regulations will have the effect of increasing the internal burdens and potential liabilities of being a public reporting company, as well as increasing compliance costs, legal fees, audit fees, director and officer insurance premiums and compensation for outside directors. The legal costs alone of a claim can be cost prohibitive to a small public company even if no liability is ultimately found and even if it is found to be a frivolous lawsuit.

Currently, Webco has no in-house legal counsel and has generally relied upon outside legal counsel for advice on legal matters, including securities laws. We expect the total legal costs for securities reporting and compliance for fiscal 2005 to represent between a 75% and 100% increase over fiscal 2004 costs of approximately $30,000.

Webco's independent auditors have indicated an expectation for a fee increase over the amount paid in 2003 for audit fees, quarterly review fees and reviewing securities reporting documents. Our independent auditors have not given a specific estimate of fees required to perform a compliance review of the effectiveness of internal controls and procedures for financial reporting purposes as required by Section 404 of Sarbanes-Oxley, however these fees are expected to be a significant percentage of their audit fee. We would also need to hire a third party to review these internal controls and procedures during 2004 to resolve any issues before the independent auditors' required compliance review report is issued in 2005. We estimate that this would cost an additional $280,000. We would also need to hire additional personnel to meet the requirements of Sarbanes-Oxley at an estimated incremental cost of $275,000.

In February 2004, Webco purchased a one-year directors and officers liability insurance policy for approximately $55,000. Indications are that future premiums could increase by 50% to 100% based on the current legal environment and the need to increase coverage levels. Webco's outside directors have requested that we investigate increased levels of directors and officers liability insurance coverage.

In 2003, outside director compensation was increased due to increasing liability and responsibilities imposed by new regulations. We believe that if we stay public, directors' fees would need to be increased further. The level of compensation necessary to retain and attract qualified independent directors has not been quantified, but those costs are expected to increase. In addition, we believe that the litigation environment surrounding directors of public companies will make it increasingly difficult for smaller public companies to retain and attract qualified, independent directors.

No longer being a reporting company will also free up management's time currently spent on Webco's securities reporting and compliance obligations to focus on core business operations. We have traditionally maintained a lean management team, and currently, this management team spends a considerable amount of its time dealing with the securities reporting and compliance obligations, particularly given the new internal and disclosure controls implemented by Webco. Furthermore, additional review time is spent by management with respect to their individual certifications related to each statement contained in periodic reporting documents filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Transaction will permit Webco's management team to focus its attention on long-term value, rather than the short-term earnings focus generally imposed on public reporting companies. Due to the highly cyclical and highly competitive nature of our business, operating results vary significantly from year-to-year and quarter-to-quarter. As a public company, our management may be required to make public disclosures, even though such disclosures may put us at a competitive disadvantage. As a private company, the pressure imposed by the investing community to generate short-term earnings and to disclose strategic initiatives will no longer exist, and operating decisions can be made with more of a long-term perspective.

Webco's public company status has not provided the originally anticipated benefit of better access to the capital markets or growth through merger and acquisition activity. We continue to find that financing expansion and growth through traditional, asset-based financing is in our best interest and is consistent with our organic growth strategy. Further, dilution and pricing would likely make it impossible for us to undertake a public follow-on offering that would be acceptable to us or our stockholders. We do not see any viable merger or acquisition opportunities in our industry, and therefore we are not able to use our Common Stock to effect acquisitions. If an acquisition target were to be identified, we believe that the dilution to and valuation of our stock would not make it an acceptable acquisition currency. Even as a publicly-traded stock, there is a very limited trading market for Webco's shares, especially for sales of larger blocks of our shares, and we believe that stockholders derive little benefit from our status as a publicly-traded corporation.

In addition, structuring the Transaction to cash out smaller stockholders without their incurring typical transaction costs, such as brokerage commissions, provides those smaller stockholders the best opportunity to realize the value attributable to their shares. While the $4.75 per pre-reverse split share being offered is less than the book value per share of Common Stock, we believe that the market price of our Common Stock is unlikely to equal or exceed the book value, because book value does not reflect (1) the significant expenses that would be incurred to market and sell our assets, (2) the significant length of time that would likely be needed to consummate an orderly liquidation of the assets, (3) the risks associated with declining asset values due to increases in interest rates, depressed market conditions or other factors during the period the assets are held for sale, or (4) the excess capacity in our industry and resulting excess availability of new and used equipment on the market that continues to depress valuations of our assets.

Although our Common Stock is listed on the American Stock Exchange, it is relatively illiquid and average daily trading volume during the last 12 months (prior to the initial announcement of the consideration of a proposed Transaction on June 1, 2004) has been approximately 6,745 shares. One of the significant potential disadvantages of the reverse split is reduced liquidity for the remaining stockholders. While no assurances can be given that buyers or sellers will be available at any given time that a Webco stockholder wishes to sell all or part of his or her

Common Stock after the Transaction, Webco is taking the following steps in an effort to enhance the possible liquidity of the Common Stock after the Transaction:

implementing the forward split immediately following the reverse split for whichever of the five alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations is selected by the board such that the net effect for remaining stockholders is a one-for-10 reverse split in an effort to keep the market price of the Common Stock in a reasonable trading range; and contacting the Pink Sheets and several of the companies listed on the Pink Sheets in order to determine what practices we can undertake to enhance the liquidity of the Common Stock without sacrificing the benefits of the Transaction, such as making limited financial information available to stockholders and maintaining outside directors on our board.

Management of Webco believes, and the Board concurs, that the long-term viability and ultimately the success of the Company is best served by taking Webco private. The going private proposal is being made at this time because the sooner the proposal can be implemented, the sooner we will cease to incur the expenses and burdens of being a public company (which are expected to increase in the near future) and the sooner stockholders who are to receive cash in the transaction will receive and be able to reinvest or otherwise make use of such cash payments. We have determined that there are limited advantages, and yet there are significant and increasing disadvantages for the company remaining public. Management believes, and the Board has agreed, that the Transaction is the most feasible way to become a private company.

Alternatives Considered

Prior to deciding to pursue this Transaction, Webco and its financial advisor, Benedetto, Gartland and Company, Inc. considered a number of alternatives, including the following:

Maintaining the Status Quo. Webco considered whether maintaining the status quo would be a viable strategy. The costs associated with maintaining public company status (expected to be $900,000 per year beyond fiscal 2005) and the substantial increase in risks associated with being public made it clear that maintaining the status quo was not viable. We considered our size and resources, the relatively small and diminishing benefit that we believe Webco and our stockholders have received as a result of Webco's being a publicly-held company and the increasing risks to Webco and our officers and directors in the current regulatory environment. For these reasons, we rejected this alternative.

Increasing Public Float. From time to time, Webco has considered issuing additional shares of Common Stock to increase the public float. However, given the decline in the Common Stock price and the virtual closure in public equity markets during the past two years for issuers of our size, we were unwilling, even if possible, to dilute the existing stockholders at these price levels. For similar reasons, we did not pursue the private equity markets. Because the stock price of the Common Stock was already less than $5.00, we were unwilling to consider a forward split to increase the number of outstanding shares without an offering because of the further reduction in stock price that would likely result and its effect on Webco's ability to meet American Stock Exchange listing standards, among other things. As a result, we rejected this alternative.

Selling Webco. Webco determined that the sale of the company was not a viable strategy, given the controlling stockholders' opposition to any such sale transaction. The cyclical and highly competitive nature of the steel tubing business, the weak financial condition of most of our competitors who we regard as potential likely acquirers and the high risk of failure of any merger with other steel tubing companies due to their unions, their legacy costs (retiree pension and medical costs), their financial condition, and their cultural issues, led us to believe that the controlling stockholders would oppose any such sale transaction and therefore, obtaining stockholder approval of the sale would have been unlikely.

Liquidating Webco. For purposes of a thorough strategic analysis, we and Benedetto Gartland reviewed orderly liquidation value appraisals of our fixed assets that had been conducted in connection with renegotiation of our senior credit facility. This review led us to believe that liquidation would be financially unattractive. In addition, obtaining stockholder approval of any liquidation would have been highly unlikely given the controlling stockholders' opposition to such a liquidation. As a result, this alternative was rejected.

All-Cash Transaction. We believe that the very low appraised value of Webco's assets would prevent us from being able to obtain adequate financing to do an all-cash transaction such as a management buy out. Even if such financing were available, we believe that it would lead to excessive leverage. Webco asked Benedetto Gartland to consider the feasibility of bringing in an outside financial partner to provide the additional cash needed to offer cash to all of the non-management stockholders. Benedetto Gartland expressed the view that very few private equity investors would be interested in a minority position in Webco, and most would be looking for a return in excess of that which could be sustained by Webco. In addition, Benedetto Gartland expressed its view that a financial partner would want an exit strategy, requiring sale, recapitalization or public offering of Webco, which are inconsistent with the reasons we are undertaking the Transaction and would likely be opposed by the controlling stockholders. As a result, this alternative was rejected.

Going Private Transactions. Webco considered various forms of going private transactions in addition to the reverse split that would make us eligible to terminate the registration of our Common Stock under the 1934 Act and our listing on the American Stock Exchange. For example, we considered an issuer tender offer to repurchase some of our shares of outstanding Common Stock. Webco also considered an odd-lot tender offer, whereby an offer to purchase share positions of fewer than 100 shares would be undertaken in an attempt to reduce the number of stockholders of record to fewer than 300. Because the tender of shares would be at the option of the stockholders, there would have been no assurance that an adequate number of record stockholder positions could have been eliminated. Because of the cost of the tender offer process combined with the uncertainty of achieving the transaction objectives, management did not recommend to the Board that a tender offer be pursued.

Webco also considered, in conjunction with a reverse split, an exchange offer whereby stockholders after the reverse split would be given an opportunity to exchange their shares of Common Stock for a new issue of Webco notes. Due to costs and timing concerns and concerns about the complexity of such an exchange offer as well as concerns regarding the excessive leverage involved in the issuance of notes, management did not recommend to the Board that such an exchange offer be pursued.

In Summary. Webco and Benedetto Gartland presented these alternatives to the Board. Based on that presentation and the factors described in "Special Factors Purpose of and Reasons for the Transaction" beginning on page 16, the Board determined that changing Webco's status from that of a public, reporting company to that of a private, non-reporting company is the appropriate strategy for Webco. Further, the Board concluded that the Transaction is the most expeditious and economical alternative to accomplish that objective.

Webco has not sought, and has not received, any proposals from any persons for the merger or consolidation of Webco, or for the sale or other transfer of all or substantially all of Webco's assets, or for the sale or other transfer of securities of Webco that would enable the holder thereof to exercise control of Webco. The Board did not seek any such proposals because such transactions are inconsistent with the narrower purpose of the proposed Transaction and because the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares have stated that they would not likely vote in favor of such a proposal.

Background of the Transaction

In February 1994, Webco completed its initial public offering of 2, 875,000 shares of Common Stock at a price of $14.00 per share. Original stockholders retained 3,464,000 shares, selling 200,000 shares included in the initial public offering. Initially, the Common Stock traded on NASDAQ and subsequently was listed on the American Stock Exchange on March 17, 1995. Since the initial public offering, the Common Stock closing price has ranged from a high of $17.25 (March 1994) to a low of $0.62 (December 2000). From January 1, 2003 through May 28, 2004 (the date prior to the public announcement of the consideration of a proposed Transaction) the closing price of the Common Stock has ranged from a high of $5.24 (April 13, 2004) to a low of $2.61 (August 18, 2003). Since 1997, the Common Stock has also had a low trading volume and has not had analyst coverage.

In March 1999, Webco's Board authorized a share repurchase plan under Rule 10b-18 under the 1934 Act to purchase up to $0.5 million worth of the Common Stock. The stock repurchase plan was adopted to provide some liquidity support for the Common Stock at a price that the Board then believed was attractive. During the first half of 1999, Webco purchased an aggregate of 95,045 shares at an aggregate cost of approximately $448,000, or at an average cost of $4.71 per share. Webco believed that any increase in trading volume or market price was insignificant during the time of the repurchases, and upon further evaluation of the impact of such purchases, including cash flow requirements to support the business and the continuing decline of the stock price and earnings, Webco suspended further buying activity.

Webco's 1994 Stock Incentive Plan for Employees and Non-Employee Directors was initiated at the time of the initial public offering. Originally 550,000 shares were authorized, which was increased to 850,000 in 1998 and to 1,050,000 in 2001. Only 8,000 options have been exercised in the history of the plan, which occurred in 2002. As of June 30, 2004, options to purchase 763,000 shares of Common Stock were outstanding, of which approximately 370,000 shares have an exercise price less than $4.75 per share.

Throughout Webco's history as a public company, management has investigated numerous opportunities to merge with or acquire other companies within the industry. While exploratory discussions were held with various parties, those discussions never progressed beyond the exploratory level, except that in 1998, Webco issued 830,000 shares of Common Stock to acquire Phillips & Johnston, Inc., which was owned by Christopher L. Kowalski and Robert N. Pressly. Mr. Kowalski is President and Chief Executive Officer of Phillips & Johnston, Inc. (currently a wholly owned subsidiary of Webco) and serves on the Webco and Phillips & Johnston, Inc. Boards of Directors. Mr. Pressly has retired from Phillips & Johnston, Inc. but continues to serve on its Board of Directors.

Due to the nature of Webco's business, operating results have varied significantly from year-to-year and quarter-to-quarter depending on, among other things, general economic and business conditions, market conditions, competition from imports, monetary policy, labor availability, natural gas prices, raw material markets, banking environment, condition of competitors, equipment outages, effects of major capital expansions, changes in manufacturing technology, loss of significant customers, significant customer claims and stockholder lawsuits. This volatility in our operating results has also contributed to the wide range of our stock price. The market price of our Common Stock has consistently been significantly lower than our book value. In addition to liquidity for our Common Stock, one of the benefits we had hoped to gain as a result of the initial public offering of our Common Stock was better access to the debt and equity capital markets as a means to finance growth. Webco has continued to use asset-based lenders for financing, since access to public debt or equity capital markets has never proved viable.

In September 2002, we engaged an investor research firm to assist us in educating potential institutional stockholders and research analysts about us and our business. In the course of this engagement, the investor research firm contacted approximately 75 potential institutional investors and research analysts whose strategy and other investing characteristics, in the view of this investor research firm, rendered them suitable candidates to be potential investors in, or analysts for, our Common Stock. The process resulted in significant feedback to us on our business, both positive and negative. Positive feedback included the low valuation of the stock, growth in revenues, continued profitability, good management and position in industry with market niches. Negative comments were consistent with historical feedback that we have received, including inconsistency in earnings, Webco being closely held, our stock being too thinly traded and having too low a stock price and too small a market capitalization. The engagement resulted in several of the institutions making an investment in the Common Stock and a number of potential investors continuing to monitor our progress. Feedback from other potential institutional investors indicated no interest in the Common Stock for reasons that are included in the negative feedback described above. There was no indication of interest from any potential research analyst in providing research coverage on Webco. Contact was initiated by the investor research firm to the final group of institutional investors in early October 2003 and the project was discontinued in early February 2004.

In early November 2003, Webco received an unsolicited invitation to participate in a conference call sponsored by an investment bank discussing going private transactions. Webco management participated in the conference call on November 20, 2003. After considering the concepts discussed on the call, the results and feedback from the investor research firm, and our growing knowledge of the costs and risks associated with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and related regulations, including internal control certifications, we decided to investigate further the strategic alternatives available to us. In December 2003, management met with Webco's legal counsel, Proskauer Rose LLP, to discuss the process required to formally explore strategic alternatives.

At a meeting of Webco's Board of Directors on February 26, 2004, the Board authorized management to research the strategic alternatives available to Webco, including the possibility of a going private transaction. The Board also authorized the retention of a financial advisor to assist with this research and to prepare a report for the Board. The Board's interest in evaluating strategic alternatives was prompted by our inability to generate significant investor or analyst interest in our Common Stock, together with a consultation with, and a presentation by, our accountants outlining the substantial new internal and external accounting requirements and procedures imposed by recent legislation and regulations that would be expected to have a direct impact on the 2005 audit. We had also received numerous communications from its corporate legal counsel and independent auditors about the increased burdens, time and expense that new legislation and related regulations are expected to impose on public companies, including Webco.

During March and April 2004, Webco management, including Ms. Weber and Messrs. Weber, Howard and Boyer and J. A. Dilley, Corporate Controller, further researched and investigated the alternatives available. On April 21, 2004, Benedetto, Gartland & Company, Inc. was retained as a financial advisor to assist management in that investigation. (A partner of Proskauer Rose, Webco's legal counsel, is a director of Benedetto Gartland and he and his family own less than five percent of the equity of Benedetto Gartland.) On a number of occasions during April 2004, members of management conferred with representatives of Benedetto Gartland and Proskauer Rose with respect to the feasibility of various transactions, including a proposed reverse stock split. Based in part on discussions with its financial and legal advisors, management came to believe that the reverse stock split alternative was the best strategy, given our size and resources and the concentrated ownership of our Common Stock.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors on April 30, 2004, representatives of Benedetto Gartland made a presentation to the Board. They stated that they had been retained primarily to assess Webco's future as a public company and to identify and analyze alternative going private transactions that Webco might pursue. Benedetto Gartland's report identified a number of possible going private transactions and their underlying rationale. Benedetto Gartland outlined the results of their research in assessing Webco's business and its industry, the market for the Common Stock and an estimate of the range of prices at which a going private transaction could be completed, using a number of the valuation methodologies. The presentation of Benedetto Gartland as to the valuation of Webco was not discussed by the Board at this meeting and the discussion of the Board focused on the advisability of engaging in any going private transaction. The report of Benedetto Gartland will be made available for inspection and copying at Webco's principal executive offices during its regular business hours by an interested stockholder of Webco or any representative of the stockholder designated by the stockholder in writing. A representative of Proskauer Rose also made a presentation on the process, procedures and responsibilities of the Board in a going private discussion. The Board determined that further research was required before the Board could decide whether to proceed with a going private transaction. The Board instructed management, along with Benedetto Gartland and Proskauer Rose, to do further research and to make a further presentation of the business case for such a transaction including an analysis of similar transactions by comparable companies to Webco. This presentation was to be made during the regular quarterly board meeting scheduled for May 28, 2004.

On May 3 through 5, 2004, the Board held further telephonic meetings to outline the issues that should be addressed at the Board meeting to be held on May 28. The independent directors hired their own legal counsel to assist them. Over the course of the next few weeks, there were numerous informal telephonic discussions between the Board members and management as Webco and its advisors continued their research.

On May 28, 2004, at the regular quarterly board meeting, Webco management presented the results of its research along with a formal proposal. This proposal contemplated a reverse stock split, a cash payment to the holders of less than one share of Common Stock (post-split) of $4.00 per pre-split share and discussed the source of funds for the buyout. The $4.00 per share price was based on the financial evaluation of Webco prepared by Benedetto Gartland which gave a value range of $3.00 to $4.00 per share. Management expressed its view that the required funds could be provided from available cash and an expanded credit facility. After extensive discussions, the Board concluded that it was in the best interests of Webco to continue to consider a reverse stock split transaction for the purpose of going private, but, given the then-current price of the Common Stock, it was likely that the price to be paid to holders of one share of Common Stock (post-split) would be between $4.00 and $5.00 per pre-split share. Due to the potential conflicts involved in such a transaction and for the protection of the minority stockholders, the Board concluded that a special committee should be established, consisting of independent directors, to approve or disapprove any such transaction, including the negotiation of the amount of the cash payment to holders of less than one share of Common Stock after the reverse split.

Accordingly, the Special Committee was established on May 28, 2004, and Kenneth E. Case, Jack D. McCarthy and Bradley S. Vetal, Webco's three outside directors, were appointed members of the Special Committee, after confirming that none of them had any significant past or current relationship with Webco's management. The Special Committee elected Mr. McCarthy as its Chairman. The Board of Directors delegated to the Special Committee the exclusive power and authority to (1) review, evaluate and negotiate the terms and provisions, and determine the advisability of the Transaction with respect to the interests of minority stockholders, (2) determine, in its sole discretion, whether the Transaction was fair to, and in the best interests of, the stockholders, (3) approve or disapprove (in its sole discretion) the reverse stock split and the form, terms and provisions thereof, subject to the approval of the full Board of Directors, (4) make a recommendation to the full Board of Directors to approve or disapprove the reverse stock split and (5) if the Special Committee and the full Board of Directors approved the reverse stock split, to take any other action necessary or advisable to consummate the transaction. The Special Committee retained Conner & Winters, P.C. to advise the Special Committee as to legal matters and began evaluating financial advisors.

On June 1, 2004, Webco issued a press release and subsequently filed a Current Report on Form 8-K advising that Webco was considering a reverse stock split and deregistration of the Common Stock under the 1934 Act, and that a Special Committee had been formed for the purposes of evaluating whether to go forward with such a transaction and to negotiate the terms thereof.

After considering four investment bankers, on June 1, 2004, the Special Committee selected Hoak Breedlove Wesneski & Co. as its financial advisor to assist with the transaction and to prepare an opinion as to the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the Transaction to the stockholders who would receive cash in the Transaction.

During the next few weeks, the Special Committee had a number of discussions with Hoak Breedlove concerning the reverse stock split and the cash price payable to stockholders in lieu of fractional shares. In addition, management provided information to, and had a number of discussions with, Hoak Breedlove regarding certain historical business results and financial information, including forecasts necessary for the advisor's analysis.

During the next few weeks, management continued researching how to structure the transaction to increase the possibility of liquidity after a reverse split, including conversations with companies already trading on the Pink Sheets.

On June 17, 2004, the Special Committee met with Hoak Breedlove to discuss its preliminary report, methodology and preliminary opinion as to fairness, from a financial point of view, of the Transaction to the stockholders who would receive cash in the Transaction. As a result of these discussions, Mr. McCarthy, on behalf of the Special Committee, contacted management of Webco to discuss Webco's $4.00 per share offer for fractional shares. Mr. McCarthy indicated that Webco's price proposal was at the low end of the Special Committee's financial advisor's range, and, accordingly, the $4.00 price was not acceptable to the Special Committee. After detailed discussions of the Hoak Breedlove valuation, Webco management raised the offer to $4.50 per share, which was $0.50 per share above the valuation range presented by Benedetto Gartland. Mr. McCarthy expressed the belief of the Special Committee that the current market dynamics and earnings level of Webco, including expected fourth quarter results, while not necessarily sustainable, dictated that the cash price for the fractional shares be at a level that was near the top of the range of value determined by Hoak Breedlove. After a review of current comparable company valuations and further consultation with Benedetto Gartland, Webco increased its offer to $4.75 per share. After consultation with the other members of the Special Committee, Mr. McCarthy accepted that proposal on behalf of the Special Committee. Webco and the Special Committee also determined that the specific reverse stock split ratio should be selected by the Board from a set of five pre-selected ratios immediately after the stockholders' meeting to approve the transaction, based on the dual criteria of reducing the number of stockholders of record to fewer than 300 and staying within Webco's financial capabilities. They also discussed the need for a forward stock split to occur immediately following the reverse stock split in order to result in a projected per-share price immediately following the reverse and forward split transactions of between $25 and $50 (based on the then market price of the Common Stock). Management had been researching the best forward stock split alternatives from a future liquidity perspective, so it was agreed that management would present these findings and recommendations at a special Board meeting on June 24, 2004.

On June 24, 2004, the Special Committee and the Board met with Hoak Breedlove. At the meeting, Hoak Breedlove gave its oral opinion relating to the Transaction and responded to questions from directors. Members of management also presented their research and findings as to the appropriate forward split ratio. The Special Committee unanimously approved the Transaction and recommended that the Board vote in favor of the Transaction. After discussion, the full Board unanimously approved the Transaction. (See Summary Term Sheet for Reverse/Forward Stock Split Transaction Summary of the Transaction beginning on page 1.)

On June 25, 2004, Webco issued a press release and filed a Current Report on Form 8-K advising that Webco's Board had voted in favor of the Transaction and that a cash payment of $4.75 per pre-split share had been agreed upon for all shares cashed out in the Transaction.

On July 11, 2004, the Special Committee met to discuss updated internal financial projections prepared by Webco's management for fiscal 2004 and 2005. The Special Committee asked Hoak Breedlove to review the updated projections and, in light of that review, to determine whether Hoak Breedlove's view had changed as to the range of value of the Common Stock or as to the fairness of the consideration to be paid in respect of fractional shares. On July 21, Hoak Breedlove presented to the Special Committee its updated valuation range for fractional shares, which increased from a range of $3.63 to $4.86 per pre-split share to $3.93 to $5.09 per pre-split share. Hoak Breedlove confirmed to the Special Committee that its opinion that the payment of $4.75 per pre-split share is fair from a financial point of view to the stockholders receiving such payments (subject to the assumptions made, matters considered and limitations on Hoak Breedlove's opinion, as described therein). Based on the foregoing and the fact that the Special Committee had already considered that Webco's fiscal fourth quarter 2004 results would likely show a significant improvement over the fiscal third quarter and the fiscal fourth quarter 2003 results when it originally agreed to the payment of $4.75 per pre-split share, the Special Committee believed that the agreed-upon Transaction providing for the payment of $4.75 per pre-split share was still fair and decided not to re-open negotiations with Webco management.

On July 23, 2004, Hoak Breedlove presented its final report relating to the Transaction, reiterated its fairness opinion referred to above and responded to questions from directors. The Special Committee presented its recommendation that the payment of $4.75 per pre-split share was still fair and should not be changed. After discussion, the Board unanimously agreed.

Recommendation of the Board; Fairness of the Transaction

The Board unanimously determined that the Transaction is fair to, and in the best interests of Webco and its stockholders. The Board also believes, based on discussions with Webco's legal counsel, that the process for approving the Transaction was procedurally fair. The Board recommends that stockholders vote FOR approval and adoption of the proposed amendment to Webco's Certificate of Incorporation to effect the Transaction. In considering the recommendation of the Board of Directors with respect to the Transaction, stockholders should be aware that Webco's executive officers and directors have interests in the Transaction that are in addition to, or different from, our stockholders generally and that these interests may create potential conflicts of interest. See Interests of Webco's Directors and Executive Officers in the Transaction beginning on page 30.

The Board has retained for itself the absolute authority to reject (and not implement) any or all of the alternative reverse/forward stock split combinations (even after stockholder approval of the amendment). If for any reason the Transaction is not approved, or, if approved, not implemented, the Common Stock will not be deregistered under the 1934 Act or delisted from the American Stock Exchange unless and until such time as Webco otherwise is eligible and our Board decides to do so.

As discussed above, the Board considered several alternatives to the Transaction, but ultimately approved the reverse split/forward split structure. See Alternatives Considered beginning on page 21.

During the two months preceding the approval of the Transaction and in connection with determining whether it was in the best interests of and fair to Webco and its stockholders to undertake a transaction to reduce the number of stockholders of record to fewer than 300 in order to terminate the registration of its Common Stock under the 1934 Act, the Board considered a number of factors and various information presented by management, Benedetto Gartland, Proskauer Rose and Hoak Breedlove. The Board did not assign any specific weights to the factors below, and individual directors may have given differing weights to different factors. Factors considered included:

Current and Historical Market Prices of the Common Stock. The Common Stock is quoted on the American Stock Exchange, but is thinly traded. During the 12 months prior to the public announcement of the proposed Transaction, the average trading volume was approximately 6,745 shares per day, with less than 1,000 shares trading on 27% of those days. During the 36 months prior to the public announcement of the proposed Transaction, the average trading volume was approximately 4,593 shares per day, with less than 1,000 shares trading on 51% of those days.

The Board reviewed high and low sales prices for the Common Stock from January 1, 2003, to May 28, 2004, which ranged from $2.61 to $5.24 per share. The Board also reviewed the average sales prices for the three months, six months, 12 months and 24 months prior to May 28, 2004, which were approximately $4.50, $4.04, $3.65 and $3.54 per share, respectively. See Financial Information Market Prices of the Common Stock on page 48 for more information about the Common Stock prices. The last sale price of the Common Stock on May 28, 2004, the day before Webco announced its consideration of a going-private transaction, was $4.86. We believe that our recent stock price has been positively impacted by cyclical factors relating to the basic steel industry. We are experiencing shortages and very high margins (resulting from selling against lower average cost inventories), which we believe are not sustainable. Notwithstanding the recent strength of Webco's business and its improved margins, we believe that the tubing industry continues to face overcapacity and a very competitive environment, which are likely to have a negative effect on our margins when the availability of steel increases. Accordingly, the Board believes the longer-term market price analysis should be weighted more heavily than short-term prices, and therefore supports its determination that the transaction is fair to stockholders.

Net Book Value. As of April 30, 2004, the book value per share of Common Stock was $7.67. Because of the capital intensive nature of Webco's business, the Special Committee and the Board decided that liquidation value as a measure of our valuation was of limited relevance, because book value does not reflect (1) the significant expenses that would be incurred to market and sell Webco's assets, (2) the significant length of time that would likely be needed to consummate an orderly liquidation of the assets, (3) the risks associated with declining asset values due to increases in interest rates, depressed market conditions or other factors during the period the assets are held for sale or (4) the excess capacity in our industry and resulting excess availability of new and used equipment on the market that continues to depress valuations of our assets.

Going Concern Value. In determining the cash amount to be paid to cashed-out stockholders in the Transaction, the Board considered the value of the Common Stock on the basis of a going concern as presented in Hoak Breedlove's report, without giving effect to any anticipated effects of the Transaction. Also, the Board did not consider the amount per share that might be realized in a sale of all or substantially all of the stock or assets of Webco, believing that consideration of such an amount was inappropriate in the context of a Transaction that would not result in a change of control of Webco and having no reason to believe that the sum of the values of the parts would exceed the value of the whole. In considering the going concern value of Webco, the Board adopted the analyses and conclusions of Hoak Breedlove, which indicated a share price range of $3.93 to $5.09 and which are described below under Opinion and Report of the Financial Advisor beginning on page 31. Accordingly, the Board believes the going concern analysis supports its determination that the Transaction is fair to stockholders.

Earnings. The Board reviewed historical earnings of Webco for the previous three fiscal years and for the first three quarters of fiscal 2004 and the relevance of historical earnings to future prospects, and factored this review into the going concern analysis. For the three years ended July 31, 2001, 2002 and 2003, Webco reported income

(loss) from continuing operations of $(1,494,000), $2,996,000 and $1,918,000, respectively. For the three and nine month periods ended April 30, 2004, Webco reported net income of

Table of Contents

$2,386,000 and $3,149,000, respectively. Historical earnings volatility is caused by a number of factors, including excess capacity in the tubing industry, volatility in the cost and availability of steel, effects of imports and tariffs on the steel industry, general market conditions and the dollar exchange rate, among others. Current earnings levels are exceptional based upon the lack of availability of steel and selling from lower cost inventory, which have temporarily mitigated the normal condition of overcapacity within the tubing industry. Short-term earnings can deviate significantly, negatively or positively, from average results, and periods of higher earnings are typically followed by periods of below-average results. Over time, because of the excess capacity in the tubing industry, the Board believes earnings will trend toward historical averages. After considering all of these factors, the Board concluded that the longer-term earnings analysis supports its determination that the Transaction is fair to stockholders.

Opinion of the Financial Advisor. The Board considered the opinion of Hoak Breedlove, rendered to the Board on July 23, 2004, to the effect that, as of the date of such opinion and based upon and subject to the matters stated therein, the cash price to be paid for certain fractional shares in the Transaction is fair, from a financial point of view, to Webco's stockholders who will receive cash. For more information about the opinion, see Opinion and Report of the Financial Advisor beginning on page 31 and a copy of the opinion of Hoak Breedlove attached as Appendix A to this proxy statement. The Transaction price falls near the top end of the range of prices referenced in Hoak Breedlove's analysis. Accordingly, the Board believes the opinion of the financial advisor supports its determination that the Transaction is fair to stockholders.

Opportunity to Liquidate Shares of Common Stock. The Board considered the opportunity the Transaction presents for stockholders owning fewer shares than the Minimum Number to liquidate their holdings without incurring brokerage costs, particularly given the relatively illiquid market for shares of Common Stock, at a price that represents a premium over most historical and recent trading prices. The Board believes this opportunity is a benefit to stockholders, and, accordingly, that availability of this opportunity supports its determination that the Transaction is fair to stockholders.

At the Board's meeting on July 23, 2004, Hoak Breedlove presented a report supporting its fairness opinion. The Board had an opportunity to ask questions and discuss each of Hoak Breedlove's analyses individually. After careful consideration of these factors, the Board concluded that $4.75 per share was not only a fair price to stockholders being cashed out, but also to stockholders remaining after the Transaction after taking into account the pro forma analysis which examines the effect of the Transaction on Webco itself.

The Board also considered the fact that, in addition to the deregistration of the Common Stock under the 1934 Act as a result of the Transaction, the Common Stock would cease to be listed on the American Stock Exchange. However, the Board determined that the current limited market for shares of Common Stock provides relatively little benefit to Webco's stockholders. The Board also considered the forward split and other efforts of Webco management to enhance the possibility of stockholder liquidity after the Transaction, including potential quotation on the Pink Sheets. (See Purpose of and Reasons for the Transaction beginning on page 16 and Background of the Transaction beginning on page 22.)

The Board did not seek, and is not aware of, any proposals in the last two years from any unaffiliated persons for the merger or consolidation of Webco, or for the sale or other transfer of all or substantially all of Webco's assets, or for the sale or other transfer of securities of Webco that would enable the holder to exercise control of Webco. The Board does not presently intend to seek any such proposal.

As part of its evaluation, the Board focused on, among other things, the fairness of the Transaction to holders of fewer shares than the Minimum Number who will receive a price per share in cash of $4.75 in lieu of fractional shares as a result of the reverse split and to stockholders who will receive such price in lieu of fractional shares as a result of the forward split.

The Board also believes that the Transaction is procedurally fair to stockholders because, among other things:

Table of Contents

The Special Committee was formed, consisting of all the outside directors, and has reviewed and determined the fairness of the Transaction.

The Special Committee retained its own counsel and investment advisor to represent it and assist the Special Committee with its deliberations and negotiations.

The reverse split is being effected in accordance with all applicable requirements of Oklahoma law and Webco's organizational documents.

The proposed amendment implementing the Transaction is being submitted to a vote of Webco's stockholders and is subject to the approval of holders of a majority of Webco's outstanding shares of Common Stock, recognizing that stockholders to be cashed out in the Transaction hold a nominal percentage of the vote and that Webco's directors and executive officers (owning an aggregate of 51% of the outstanding Common Stock) intend to vote their shares of Common Stock for the Transaction.

Between the date of this proxy statement and the effective date of the reverse split, all of Webco's stockholders will have an opportunity to adjust the number of shares of Common Stock they will own as of the effective date. In this way, holders who would otherwise be cashed out can become continuing holders and holders of more shares than the Minimum Number (2,000 shares at a maximum) or they can divide or otherwise adjust their holdings into amounts of fewer shares than the Minimum Number (200 shares at a minimum). For more information about the reverse split, see "Special Factors" Background of the Transaction beginning on page 22.

Although the continuing stockholders will have less information about Webco available to them and it is possible that the liquidity of the Common Stock will be reduced, continuing stockholders will experience less than a 1% increase in net book value per share (on a pre-Transaction per-share basis) and an approximately 6% increase in beneficial ownership.

The Board also took into consideration the following additional factors:

Although holders of shares that are cashed out in lieu of issuance of fractional shares will receive cash consideration for their shares, the remaining stockholders will bear the burden of the expenses of the Transaction, possible reduced liquidity and greater uncertainty regarding the price they may receive for their shares if they attempt to sell them.

Although stockholders who are not cashed out in the Transaction will indirectly bear the Transaction costs associated with taking Webco private, the Board believes that such expenses will be offset by the anticipated savings of approximately $900,000 on an annual basis once Webco is private.

As of the effective date of the Transaction, record and beneficial stockholders who own fewer shares than the Minimum Number are expected to account for 6% of Webco's outstanding shares of Common Stock.

The Transaction is not structured so that approval of at least a majority of unaffiliated stockholders is required. The Board determined that any such voting requirement would usurp the power of the holders of the majority of Webco's outstanding shares of Common Stock to consider and approve the proposed amendment as provided under Oklahoma law and Webco's Certificate of Incorporation. The Board was also unable to determine that such a voting requirement was imposed by other companies conducting similar transactions.

Webco has not made any special provision in connection with the Transaction to grant stockholders access to our corporate files or to obtain counsel or appraisal services at our expense. The Board did not consider these steps necessary to ensure the fairness of the Transaction. The Board determined that such steps would be costly, time consuming and would not provide any meaningful additional benefits. With respect to stockholders' access to our corporate files, the Board determined that this proxy statement, together with our other filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, provide adequate information for stockholders to make an informed decision with respect to the Transaction. The Board also considered the fact that under Oklahoma corporate law, and subject to certain conditions set forth under Oklahoma law, stockholders have the right to review Webco's relevant books and records of account.

The Board noted the fact that the financial advisor engaged by the Special Committee considered and rendered its opinion as to the fairness of the consideration payable in the Transaction, from a financial point of view, to our stockholders who will receive cash.

After consideration of the factors described above, the Board believes that the Transaction is fair, notwithstanding the absence of such an unaffiliated stockholder approval requirement or special provisions for access to corporate files.

Interests of Webco's Directors and Executive Officers in the Transaction

In considering the recommendation of the Board of Directors with respect to the Transaction, stockholders should be aware that Webco's executive officers and directors have interests in the Transaction that are in addition to, or different from, the stockholders generally. These interests may create potential conflicts of interest and include the following:

Each executive officer and each member of the Board of Directors holds shares or vested options in excess of 2,000 shares and will, therefore, retain shares of Common Stock or options to purchase Common Stock after the Transaction.

As a result of the Transaction, the stockholders who own of record on , 2004, more shares than the Minimum Number, including Webco's executive officers and directors, will increase their percentage ownership interest in Webco as a result of the Transaction. For example, assuming the Transaction is implemented, the Minimum Number is 2,000 shares, and based on information and estimates of record ownership and shares outstanding and other ownership information and assumptions as of June 28, 2004, the ownership percentage of Webco's executive officers and directors will increase from 54% to 57% (including exercisable options) and the ownership percentage of Mr. Weber, Ms. Weber and their family will increase from 48% to 50% (including exercisable options) as a result of the reduction of an estimated 420,000 shares in the number of shares of Common Stock outstanding.

After the deregistration of the Common Stock under the 1934 Act becomes effective, Webco intends to lend $1,500,000 to F. William Weber, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer, $180,000 to Dana S. Weber, Vice Chairman, President and Chief Operating Officer, $300,000 to David E. Boyer, Senior Vice President of Tubular Operations and Corporate Secretary, and $120,000 to other employees. Webco's loans to these officers and employees will be used by them to repay currently outstanding loans with various financial institutions that are secured by shares of our Common Stock owned by such persons. These financial institutions have advised these persons that, following deregistration of our Common Stock, these shares will no longer be allowed as collateral. The Board and these officers have agreed that these loans will not be forgiven, that they will be personal obligations of these individuals and that they will be collateralized by Common Stock owned by them.

Kenneth E. Case, Jack McCarthy and Bradley S. Vetal, members of the Special Committee, will each receive compensation for serving on the Special Committee. In the case of Mr. McCarthy, Chairman of the Special Committee, such compensation will aggregate approximately $32,000 and, in the case of Messrs. Case and Vetal, will aggregate approximately $10,500 each.

According to a Schedule 13G dated February 16, 2004, Strong Capital Management, a principal stockholder of Webco, owned 1,976,998 shares, or 11.7%, of the outstanding common stock of Matrix Services Company.

Bradley S. Vetal is Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Matrix Services Company.

The legal exposure for board members of public companies has increased significantly, especially in the aftermath of recent legislation and related regulations. While there are still significant controls, regulations and liabilities for directors and executive officers of private companies, the legal exposure for Webco's directors and executive officers will be greatly reduced after the Transaction.

Opinion and Report of the Financial Advisor

In connection with the proposed Transaction, the Special Committee engaged Hoak Breedlove to render an opinion as to the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the cash payment in the amount of $4.75 per pre-reverse split share to be paid to stockholders receiving cash in lieu of fractional shares following the reverse split and the subsequent forward split. On June 24, 2004, at a meeting of the Special Committee and of the Board, Hoak Breedlove delivered its oral opinion that, as of such date, based upon and subject to the assumptions made, matters considered, and limitations on its review discussed at the meeting and to be set forth in its written opinion, the payment is fair from a financial point of view to those stockholders. At a Board meeting held July 23, 2004, Hoak Breedlove reconfirmed its oral opinion. Subsequently, Hoak Breedlove delivered its written fairness opinion.

The opinion of Hoak Breedlove is included with this proxy statement as Appendix A. The report of Hoak Breedlove will be made available for inspection and copying at Webco's principal executive offices during its regular business hours by any interested stockholder of Webco or any representative of the stockholder designated by the stockholder in writing. Upon written request, Webco will furnish a copy of the report to any interested stockholder of Webco, or any representative designated by the stockholder in writing, at the expense of the requesting stockholder. The report has also been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission as an exhibit to Webco's Transaction Statement on Schedule 13E-3. Hoak Breedlove consented to the filing of its report with the Schedule 13E-3 and to the inclusion of its opinion in this proxy statement.

THE FULL TEXT OF THE WRITTEN OPINION OF HOAK BREEDLOVE, DATED AS OF JULY 23, 2004, IS ATTACHED AS APPENDIX A AND IS INCORPORATED BY REFERENCE. STOCKHOLDERS ARE URGED TO READ THE HOAK BREEDLOVE OPINION CAREFULLY AND IN ITS ENTIRETY FOR A DESCRIPTION OF THE ASSUMPTIONS MADE, MATTERS CONSIDERED, PROCEDURES FOLLOWED AND LIMITATIONS ON THE REVIEW UNDERTAKEN BY HOAK BREEDLOVE IN RENDERING ITS OPINION. THE SUMMARY OF THE HOAK BREEDLOVE OPINION SET FORTH IN THIS PROXY STATEMENT IS QUALIFIED IN ITS ENTIRETY BY REFERENCE TO THE FULL TEXT OF SUCH OPINION.

No limitations were imposed by Webco on the scope of Hoak Breedlove's investigation or the procedures to be followed by Hoak Breedlove in rendering its opinion. The Hoak Breedlove opinion was for the use and benefit of the Special Committee and the Board in connection with their consideration of the Transaction and was not intended to be and does not constitute a recommendation to any stockholder of Webco as to how such stockholder should vote with respect to the Transaction. Hoak Breedlove's opinion does not address Webco's underlying decision to effect the Transaction. Hoak Breedlove does not perform tax, accounting, legal or appraisal services, or render such advice. In undertaking its analysis and arriving at its opinion, Hoak Breedlove took into account its assessment of general economic, market and financial conditions as well as its experience in connection with similar transactions and securities valuations generally, and, among other things: (1) reviewed documents related to the Transaction; (2) reviewed publicly available financial information and other data with respect to Webco, including its Annual Reports on Form 10-K for the fiscal years ended July 31, 2002 and 2003 (as amended), certain Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q (as amended, if applicable), certain Current Reports on Forms 8-K relating to material events, and certain other relevant financial and operating data relating to Webco made available to Hoak Breedlove; (3) reviewed and analyzed Webco's projected unlevered free cash flows and prepared discounted cash flows; (4) reviewed and analyzed certain financial characteristics of companies that were deemed to be comparable to Webco; (5) reviewed and analyzed certain financial characteristics of transactions that involved the acquisition of companies that were deemed to have characteristics comparable to those of Webco; (6) reviewed and discussed with representatives of management of Webco certain financial and operating information furnished by them, including financial analyses, and related assumptions with respect to the business, operations and prospects of Webco; (7) considered the historical financial results and present financial condition of Webco; (8) reviewed certain publicly available information concerning the trading of, and the trading market for, the Common Stock; (9) inquired about and discussed the Transaction and other matters related thereto with Webco's management, the Special Committee and the Special Committee's legal counsel; and (10) performed such other analyses and examinations as were deemed appropriate.

In undertaking the analysis and arriving at its opinion, Hoak Breedlove relied upon and assumed the accuracy and completeness of all of the financial and other information that was used, without assuming any responsibility for any independent verification of any such information, and further relied upon the assurances of management that it is not aware of any facts or circumstances that would make any such information inaccurate or misleading. With respect to the financial projections utilized, Hoak Breedlove assumed that such projections have been reasonably prepared on a basis reflecting the best currently available estimates and judgments, and that such projections provide a reasonable basis upon which it could form an opinion. In arriving at its opinion, Hoak Breedlove did not make or obtain any evaluations or appraisals of the assets and liabilities (contingent or otherwise) of Webco. Hoak Breedlove assumed that the Transaction will be consummated in a manner that complies in all respects with the applicable provisions of the Securities Act of 1933, the 1934 Act and all other applicable federal and state statutes, rules and regulations. In addition, based upon discussions with Webco, Hoak Breedlove assumed that the receipt of fractional share consideration will be a taxable event to Webco's stockholders who receive such consideration. Hoak Breedlove assumed that the Transaction will be consummated substantially in accordance with the terms set forth in this proxy statement, without any further amendments thereto, and without waiver by Webco of any of the conditions to any obligations or, in the alternative, that any such amendments, revisions or waivers thereto will not be detrimental to Webco or its stockholders. The Hoak Breedlove opinion is based upon market, economic and other conditions as they existed on, and could be evaluated as of, July 23, 2004. Accordingly, although subsequent developments may affect its opinion, Hoak Breedlove has not assumed any obligation to update, review or reaffirm its opinion.

The estimates contained in Hoak Breedlove's analyses and the ranges of valuations resulting from any particular analysis are not necessarily indicative of actual values or future results, which may be significantly more or less favorable than those suggested by such analyses. In addition, analyses relating to the value of businesses or securities do not necessarily purport to be appraisals or to reflect the prices at which businesses or securities actually may be sold. Accordingly, Hoak Breedlove's analyses and estimates are inherently subject to substantial uncertainty.

Each of the analyses conducted by Hoak Breedlove was carried out in order to provide a different perspective on the Transaction and to enhance the total mix of information available. Hoak Breedlove did not form a conclusion as to whether any individual analysis, considered in isolation, supported or failed to support an opinion as to the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the consideration to be paid for fractional shares. Hoak Breedlove did not place any particular reliance or weight on any individual analysis, but instead concluded that its analyses, taken as a whole, supported its determination. Accordingly, Hoak Breedlove believes that its analyses must be considered as a whole and that selecting portions of its analyses or the factors it considered, without considering all analyses and factors collectively, could create an incomplete and misleading view of the process underlying the analyses performed by Hoak Breedlove in connection with the preparation of its opinion.

The financial reviews and analyses include information presented in tabular format. In order to fully understand Hoak Breedlove's financial review and analyses, the tables must be read together with the text presented. The tables alone are not a complete description of the financial review and analyses and considering the tables alone could create a misleading or incomplete view of Hoak Breedlove's financial review and analyses.

The summary of Hoak Breedlove's analysis described below is not a complete description of the analysis underlying Hoak Breedlove's opinion. The preparation of a fairness opinion is a complex process involving various determinations as to the most appropriate and relevant methods of financial analysis and the application of those methods to the particular circumstances and, therefore, a fairness opinion is not readily susceptible to partial analysis or summary description. In arriving at its opinion, Hoak Breedlove made qualitative judgments as to the relevance of each analysis and factor that it considered. Accordingly, Hoak Breedlove believes that its analysis must be considered as a whole and that selecting portions of its analysis and factors, or focusing on information presented in tabular format, without considering all of the analysis and factors contained in the narrative description that follows, could result in an incomplete and misleading view of the processes underlying its analysis and opinion.

Hoak Breedlove elected to determine the fairness of the consideration to be paid for fractional shares by performing: Comparable Company Analysis, Comparable Transaction Analysis, and Discounted Cash Flow Analysis. Hoak Breedlove considered other valuation methodologies such as liquidation/book value analysis, premiums paid analysis, and leveraged buyout analysis. Hoak Breedlove determined that these alternative valuation methodologies had little or no analytical value in the context of the proposed Transaction because, among other things, Webco would remain a going concern, no assets of Webco would be disposed of or used for an alternative purpose, the proposed Transaction would not effect a change of control of Webco, and Hoak Breedlove was not asked to consider alternative investments or investment return expectations for stockholders.

Comparable Company Analysis

The comparable company analysis compares the trading multiples of Webco with those of other publicly traded companies that are similar with respect to business model, operating sector, size and target customer base. Hoak Breedlove identified 12 companies that it deemed comparable to Webco with respect to their industry sector and operating model. All of the comparable companies are participants in the steel and tubular steel markets.

The comparable companies utilized were: Friedman Industries Inc., IPSCO Inc., Lone Star Technologies Inc., Maverick Tube Corp., Niagara Corp., Northwest Pipe Co., NS Group Inc., Oregon Steel Mills Inc., Sinalloy Corp., Tenaris SA, Timken Co., Wolverine Tube Inc. Based on size, Webco is in the lower range of the comparable companies. As of July 19, 2004, the total enterprise value (TEV) (market value of equity, plus preferred stock, minority interest, and net debt) for the comparable companies ranged from approximately $47 million to approximately $4.9 billion and last twelve months (LTM) revenue ranged from approximately $112 million to approximately $4.0 billion. In comparison, the Company had a TEV and LTM revenue as of April 30, 2004 of approximately $73 million and approximately $195 million, respectively.

Based on publicly available information, Hoak Breedlove reviewed financial information for each of the comparable companies that included among other things: market value, TEV, revenue, earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA), earnings before interest and taxes (EBIT), earnings per share (EPS), total assets, common equity, net tangible common equity, and selected financial ratios. Hoak Breedlove compared the financial operating data and ratios to Webco. For comparison purposes, operating profits including EBITDA for the comparable companies and Webco were normalized to exclude unusual and extraordinary expenses and income. Using estimates provided by the Company, Hoak Breedlove calculated three-year (actual fiscal 2002 and 2003 and estimated fiscal 2004) average EBITDA, EBIT and net income.

Hoak Breedlove expects Webco's valuation multiples to be below the comparable companies due to the smaller size of Webco, its capitalization, low trading volume and relative lack of liquidity, and the high degree of Webco's ownership by stockholders of the Weber family.

Hoak Breedlove calculated a TEV range between approximately $77 million and approximately $86 million for Webco and a range of indicated stock share prices as follows:

	Webco	Selected Multiple		Indicated Common Stock Price
		Low	High	Low	High

As noted above, none of the comparable companies is identical or directly comparable to Webco. Accordingly, Hoak Breedlove considered the multiples for such companies, taken as a whole, to be more relevant than the multiples of any single company. Further, an analysis of publicly traded comparable companies is not mathematical; rather it involves complex consideration and judgments concerning differences in financial and operating characteristics of the comparable companies and other factors that could affect the public trading of the comparable companies.

Table of Contents*Comparable Transaction Analysis*

Hoak Breedlove utilized the comparable transaction analysis, a market valuation approach that is based on an examination of transactions involving companies that are in related industries to Webco, for the purpose of compiling guidelines and statistics based on the pricing in such transactions.

Information is typically not disclosed for transactions involving a private seller, even when the buyer is a public company, unless the acquisition is deemed to be material for the acquirer. As a result, the comparable transaction analysis is limited to transactions involving the acquisition of a public company, or substantially all of its assets, or the acquisition of a large private company, or substantially all of its assets, by a public company.

Hoak Breedlove identified five transactions completed since January 2000 involving target companies in related industries to Webco and for which detailed financial information was available. Target companies were involved in manufacturing and selling metal tubular products and were classified under SIC codes 3317, 3324, and 3312 with sales between $10 million and $500 million.

Acquiror	Acquiree
Maverick Tube Corp.	LTV Steel Tubular Business
Lone Star Technologies, Inc.	Wheeling Machine Products, Inc.
Maverick Tube Corp.	Prudential Steel, Ltd.
Lone Star Technologies, Inc.	Bellville Tube Corporation
Lone Star Technologies, Inc.	Fintube Technologies, Inc.

Based on the information disclosed with respect to the targets in each of the comparable transactions, Hoak Breedlove calculated and compared total price paid as a multiple of EBITDA and EBIT.

As with the comparable company analysis, Webco's smaller size, suggests that Webco would be valued below the average of the comparable transaction multiples. Based on the selected multiple ranges, Hoak Breedlove calculated a TEV range between approximately $74 million and approximately $86 million for Webco or a price per share of between $3.98 and $5.70.

	Webco	Selected Multiple		Indicated Common Stock Price
		Low	High	Low	High

3-Year Average EBIT	$ 8.7	8.0x	9.0x	$ 3.39	$ 4.62
Indicated Reference Range				$ 3.98	$ 5.70

None of the comparable transactions is identical to the Transaction. Accordingly, an analysis of comparable business combinations is not mathematical; rather it involves complex considerations and judgments concerning differences in financial and operating characteristics of the target companies in the comparable transactions and other factors that could affect the acquisition values.

Discounted Cash Flow Analysis

Hoak Breedlove performed discounted cash flow analyses, aggregating the present value of projected unlevered free cash flows over a forecast period, with the present value of the terminal value at the end of such period. Free cash flow represents the amount of cash generated and available for principal, interest and dividend payments after providing for ongoing business operations. The forecast period of the four fiscal years ending July 31, 2008, and such projections were derived from financial information and operating data provided by Webco. Using data furnished by management, and making certain assumptions regarding business growth rates, the need for additional capital expenditures, and projecting the weighted average cost of capital to Webco at 14.5%, Hoak Breedlove calculated a terminal value of Webco's business utilizing two methods: (i) an exit multiple of 5.5 times EBITDA and (ii) capitalizing fiscal year ending July 31, 2008 operating income assuming a 3% perpetual growth rate. Based on those assumptions, Hoak Breedlove calculated a TEV range between approximately $70 million and approximately $73 million for Webco or a price per share of between $3.41 and $3.86 per pre-reverse split share.

In connection with the Transaction, Webco's management provided Hoak Breedlove with information about Webco that is not publicly available, including financial projections. Excerpts from those projections are included in the financial information set forth below, which includes the material financial information provided to Hoak Breedlove. Webco does not, as a matter of course, except as it periodically provides current earnings guidance to its stockholders, publicly disclose forward-looking information as to future revenues, earnings or other financial information. Projections of this type are based on estimates and assumptions that are inherently subject to significant economic, industry and competitive uncertainties and contingencies, all of which are difficult to predict and many of which are beyond Webco's control. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the projected results would be realized or that actual results would not be significantly higher or lower than projected. In addition, these projections were prepared solely for internal use and not for publication or with a view of complying with the published guidelines of the Securities and Exchange Commission regarding projections or with guidelines established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants for prospective financial statements. The financial information below, which was derived from the projections provided to Hoak Breedlove, are included in this proxy statement only because they were furnished by Webco's management to Hoak Breedlove in connection with the Transaction. Therefore, the projections should be used by the reader solely for deciding how much weight to give to the analysis and opinion of Hoak Breedlove and for no other purpose.

The financial projections necessarily make many assumptions that are inherently subject to significant uncertainties and contingencies and many of which are beyond Webco's control. Factors such as industry performance and general business, economic, regulatory, market and financial conditions, all of which are difficult to predict, may cause our forecasts or the underlying assumptions to be inaccurate. Accordingly, it is expected that there will be differences between actual and forecasted results, and actual results may be materially different from those contained in our forecasts.

Significant assumptions made by Webco in connection with this forecast include the following:

a decline, commencing in the third quarter of fiscal 2005, in the cost of steel raw materials, which increased from 100 to 130 percent from July 31, 2003 to July 31, 2004, to a level equal to 40 percent greater than the prevailing price level at July 31, 2003.

As the cost of steel raw materials declines, a decrease in product sales prices resulting from the general over capacity in the steel tube industry;

A return of gross margin percentages to historical levels of between nine to 11 percent after the effects of averaging down raw material costs in inventory through fiscal year 2005 have abated;

A two to three percent annual increase in general and administrative costs, excluding costs related to compliance with Sarbanes-Oxley, which would increase by $735,000 in fiscal 2005 and $570,000 in subsequent years (which are expected to be avoided if the Transaction is completed);

An increase in interest expense resulting from a two and one-half percent increase in the rate of interest on debt ratably over the next five fiscal quarters;

Capital spending of between $4.0 and $4.5 million in each fiscal year, with incremental depreciation calculated accordingly; and

An effective tax rate of 41 percent, which is consistent with Webco's current tax rate.

With the exception of the review of this prospective financial information by Hoak Breedlove in connection with its fairness opinion, neither Hoak Breedlove, nor any other financial advisors compiled, examined or performed any procedures with respect to this prospective financial information, nor have they expressed any opinion or any form of assurance on this information or its achievability, and assume no responsibility for, and disclaim any association with, the projected financial information.

The prospective financial information included in this proxy statement has been prepared by, and is the responsibility of, Webco's management. PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP has neither examined nor compiled this prospective financial information and, accordingly, PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP does not express an opinion or any other form of assurance with respect thereto. The PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP report incorporated by reference in this proxy statement relates to Webco's historical financial information. It does not extend to the prospective financial information and should not be read to do so.

Conclusion

The following table summarizes the results of the three valuation methodologies Hoak Breedlove used in arriving at its opinion:

The average TEV of the ranges from these methodologies is approximately $73 million to $82 million, for an implied price range of $3.93 per share to $5.09 per share, based on a share count of approximately 7.1 million shares outstanding. Based upon and subject to the foregoing, it is the opinion of Hoak Breedlove that, as of the date of its opinion, the $4.75 per pre-reverse split share to be paid in respect of fractional shares of Common Stock to the holders of less than one share immediately following the reverse split and in respect of fractional shares to all holders thereof following the forward split is fair, from a financial point of view, to those stockholders.

Hoak Breedlove performed a variety of financial and comparative analyses for the purpose of rendering its opinion. While the foregoing summary describes all material analyses and factors reviewed by Hoak Breedlove with the Board, it does not purport to be a complete description of the presentations by Hoak Breedlove to the Board or the analyses performed by Hoak Breedlove in arriving at its opinion. The preparation of a fairness opinion is a complex process and is not necessarily susceptible to partial analysis or summary description. Hoak Breedlove believes that its analyses must be considered as a whole and that selecting portions of its analyses and of the factors considered by it, without considering all analyses and factors, could create a misleading view of the processes underlying the opinion. In addition, Hoak Breedlove may have given various analyses more or less weight than other analyses, and may have deemed various assumptions more or less probable than other assumptions, so that the range of valuations resulting from any particular analysis described above should not be taken to be Hoak Breedlove's view of the actual value of Webco. In performing its analyses, Hoak Breedlove made numerous assumptions with respect to industry performance, general business and economic conditions and other matters, many of which are beyond the control of Webco. The analyses performed by Hoak Breedlove are not necessarily indicative of actual values or actual future results, which may be significantly more or less favorable than suggested by such analyses. In addition, analyses relating to the value of businesses or assets do not purport to be appraisals or necessarily to reflect the prices at which businesses or assets may actually be sold. The analyses performed were prepared solely as part of Hoak Breedlove's analysis of the fairness of the Transaction, from a financial point of view, and were provided to the Board and the Special Committee solely in connection with the delivery of the fairness opinion.

Hoak Breedlove is an investment banking firm that, as part of its investment banking business, is regularly engaged in the evaluation of businesses and their securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, corporate restructurings, private placements, and for other purposes. In connection with advisory services related to the issuance of the fairness opinion, Hoak Breedlove has received a fee of $112,500. Webco has also agreed to reimburse Hoak Breedlove for its reasonable expenses incurred in connection with its engagement and to indemnify Hoak Breedlove and its affiliates against certain liabilities that may arise out of the rendering of the opinion.

Source of Funds; Financing of the Transaction

Based on estimates of record ownership of shares of Common Stock, the number of shares outstanding and other information as of June 28, 2004 and assuming that the Minimum Number is 2,000 and, as a result of the foregoing, that 420,000 fractional shares and options to purchase 222,000 shares are cashed out, we estimate that the total funds required to consummate the Transaction will be approximately $5,230,000, of which $1,995,000 will be used to pay the consideration to stockholders entitled to receive cash for their shares, $60,000 will be used to cash out options, $2,100,000 will be used to make loans to certain of our executive officers and employees to replace existing loans that they have with third party lenders and $1,075,000 will be used to pay the costs of the Transaction, as follows:

Legal fees and expenses	$ 460,000
Financial consulting	140,000
Postage and printing	100,000
Miscellaneous	100,000
Special committee fees and expenses:
Legal fees and expenses	50,000
Financial advisor and fairness opinion fees and expenses	125,000
Special Committee fees and expenses	55,000
Transfer agent	20,000
Board fees and expenses	15,000
Filing fees	10,000
	<hr/>
	<hr/>

We intend to fund these costs using available cash and amounts available under our loan agreement, which is being renegotiated. We are currently conducting negotiations with potential lending sources and believe that we will be successful in obtaining financing necessary to fund the Transaction. It is our current plan in any such refinancing to increase our revolving credit facility from $38 million to $50 million, to increase our term loan from $10.1 million (as of April 30, 2004) to $18.0 million and to extend the maturity date of the loan to October 31, 2009. We expect that the term loan and revolving credit facility will have terms similar to those under our current agreement. We expect that the term loan and revolving credit facility will be secured by substantially all of our assets. There can be no assurance that Webco will be successful in consummating any such financing on these terms or at all.

Effect of the Transaction on Webco

The information below in this section as to the effect of the Transaction is based on estimates of record ownership of Common Stock, the number of shares of outstanding Common Stock and other information as of June 28, 2004, and assumes that the Minimum Number is 2,000 and, as a result of the foregoing, that 420,000 fractional shares and options to purchase 222,000 shares are cashed out.

Webco's Certificate of Incorporation currently authorizes the issuance of 12,000,000 shares of Common Stock. As of the record date, the number of outstanding shares of Common Stock was 7,081,723. The number of outstanding shares of Common Stock will be reduced from 7,081,723 to approximately 666,000, $1,995,000 would have been paid for approximately 420,000 pre-reverse split shares, the number of holders of record of Common Stock will be reduced from approximately 343 to approximately 64, and the number of beneficial holders of Common Stock will be reduced from approximately 1,481 to approximately 247.

Table of Contents

The Common Stock is currently registered under Section 12(g) of the 1934 Act and, as a result, Webco is subject to the periodic reporting and other requirements of the 1934 Act. As a result of the Transaction, it is expected that we will have fewer than 300 holders of record of its Common Stock, and will be eligible to terminate our obligation to continue filing periodic reports under the 1934 Act. As soon as possible after the Transaction, we intend to file for deregistration of the Common Stock under the 1934 Act and thus become a private company. We anticipate that going private will result in substantial annual savings. See Purpose of and Reasons for the Transaction beginning on page 16. In connection with the proposed Transaction, Webco has filed a Transaction Statement on Schedule 13E-3 with the Securities and Exchange Commission, which incorporates by reference some of the information contained in this proxy statement.

We estimate that payments of cash in lieu of the issuance of fractional shares to these persons and to holders of fractional shares after the forward split will total approximately $1,995,000 (based on 420,000 shares multiplied by $4.75 per share).

Because (1) the price to be paid to holders of fewer shares of Common Stock than the Minimum Number will be $4.75 per share, (2) the number of shares of Common Stock expected to be cashed out as a result of the reverse split and forward split estimated to be approximately 420,000, (3) the amount to be paid to cash out options eliminated as a result of the reverse split is estimated to be $60,000, (4) the total cost to Webco (including expenses) of effecting the Transaction is expected to be approximately $1,075,000, and (5) at April 30, 2004, Webco's stockholders' equity was approximately $54,299,000, or $7.67 per share, Webco expects that, giving pro forma effect to the Transaction, the book value per share of Common Stock as of April 30, 2004, would have increased from approximately $7.67 per share on a historical basis to $76.87 per share on a pro forma basis.

The number of authorized shares of Common Stock will be adjusted one-for-10 based on the net Reverse-Split/Forward-Split combination upon consummation of the Transaction. After the consummation of the Transaction, Webco will have 1,200,000 authorized shares of Common Stock, of which approximately 666,000 will be issued and outstanding. We have no current plans, arrangements or understandings to issue any common stock except as options may be exercised pursuant to our stock option plan.

The Transaction is not expected to have any material tax consequences for Webco, except that a substantial portion of the Transaction may not be deductible for federal and state income tax purposes.

Conduct of Webco's Business after the Transaction

Webco expects to conduct its business and operations after the effective date of the Transaction in substantially the same manner as they are currently being conducted and, except as described in this proxy statement with respect to: (1) the expected resignation of one director, (2) the expected changes in our credit facility and the related use of funds to finance the Transaction and related costs, and (3) Webco's plans to deregister its Common Stock under the 1934 Act and delist it from the American Stock Exchange, the Transaction is not anticipated to have a material effect upon the conduct of Webco's business.

Neither Webco nor its management has any current plans or proposals to effect any extraordinary corporate transaction, such as a merger, reorganization or liquidation; a sale or transfer of any material amount of its assets; a change in its Board or management (except as described in this proxy statement); a material change in its indebtedness or capitalization (except as described in this proxy statement); or any other material change in its corporate structure or business. However, we may engage in such a transaction in the future to the extent that management and the Board determines it to be in the interest of Webco and our stockholders.

Material Federal Income Tax Consequences

We have summarized below the material federal income tax consequences to Webco and generally to its stockholders resulting from the Transaction. This summary is based on current U.S. federal income tax law, which is subject to change, possibly retroactively. This summary does not discuss all aspects of federal income taxation that may be important to you in light of your individual circumstances. You should consult your tax advisor as to the particular federal, state, local, foreign and other tax consequences, in light of your specific circumstances.

Table of Contents

We believe that the Transaction will be treated as a recapitalization for federal income tax purposes and will result in no material federal income tax consequences to Webco.

Federal Income Tax Consequences to Stockholders who are Not Cashed Out by the Transaction

If you (1) continue to hold Common Stock immediately after the Transaction and (2) receive no cash as a result of the Transaction, you will not recognize any gain or loss in the Transaction and you will have the same adjusted tax basis and holding period in your Common Stock as you had in such stock immediately prior to the Transaction.

Federal Income Tax Consequences to Cashed-Out Stockholders

If you receive cash as a result of the Transaction, your tax consequences will depend on whether, in addition to receiving cash, you or a person or entity related to you continues to hold Common Stock immediately after the Transaction, as explained below.

Stockholders who Exchange all of their Common Stock for Cash as a Result of the Transaction.

If you:

receive cash in exchange for a fractional share as a result of the Transaction, and do not continue to hold any Common Stock immediately after the Transaction, and are not related under the relevant tax attribution rules to any person or entity that holds Common Stock immediately after the Transaction, you will recognize capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of cash you receive for your cashed-out stock and your aggregate adjusted tax basis in that stock.

If:

you do not actually own shares of Common Stock immediately after the Transaction, or the only shares of Common Stock attributed to you are from a family member, and you properly waive family attribution on your federal income tax return for the year of the Transaction, you will recognize capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of cash you receive for your cashed-out stock and your aggregate adjusted tax basis in that stock.

Stockholders who both Receive Cash and Continue to Hold Common Stock Immediately after the Transaction.

If you both receive cash as a result of the Transaction and continue to hold Common Stock immediately after the Transaction, you generally will recognize gain, but not loss, in an amount equal to the lesser of:

the excess of the sum of the aggregate fair market value of the shares of Common Stock held by you immediately after the Transaction plus the amount of cash received over your adjusted tax basis in the shares, and the amount of cash received in the Transaction.

Table of Contents

In determining whether you continue to hold Common Stock immediately after the Transaction, you will be treated as owning shares actually or constructively owned by certain individuals and entities related to you (except to the extent a waiver of family attribution is applicable).

Your aggregate adjusted tax basis in your shares of Common Stock held immediately after the Transaction will be equal to your aggregate adjusted tax basis in your shares of Common Stock held immediately prior to the Transaction, increased by the amount of any gain recognized in the Transaction, and decreased by the amount of cash received in the Transaction.

Any gain recognized in the Transaction will be treated, for federal income tax purposes, as capital gain, provided that your receipt of cash either (1) is not essentially equivalent to a dividend with respect to you or (2) is a substantially disproportionate redemption of stock with respect to you. In applying these tests, you may possibly be able to take into account sales of shares of Common Stock that occur substantially contemporaneously with the Transaction. If your gain is not treated as capital gain under either of these tests, the gain will be treated as ordinary dividend income to you to the extent of your ratable share of Webco's undistributed earnings and profits, then as a tax-free return of capital to the extent of your aggregate adjusted tax basis in your Common Stock, and any remaining gain will be treated as capital gain.

If you, or a person or entity whose ownership of Common Stock shares would be attributed to you, will continue to hold Common Stock immediately after the Transaction, you are particularly urged to consult your tax advisor as to the particular federal, state, local, foreign and other tax consequences of the Transaction, in light of your specific circumstances.

Capital Gain and Loss

For individuals, net capital gain (defined generally as your total capital gains in excess of capital losses for the year) recognized upon the sale of capital assets that have been held for more than 12 months generally will be subject to tax at a rate not to exceed 15%. Net capital gain recognized from the sale of capital assets that have been held for 12 months or less will continue to be subject to tax at ordinary income tax rates. Capital gains recognized by a corporate taxpayer will be subject to tax at the ordinary income tax rates applicable to corporations. There are limitations on the deductibility of capital losses.

Special Rate for Certain Dividends

In general, dividends are taxed at ordinary income tax rates. However, you may qualify for a 15% rate of tax on any cash received in the Transaction that is treated as a dividend as described above, if (1) you are an individual or other non-corporate stockholder and (2) you satisfy certain holding period requirements with respect to your Common Stock. You are urged to consult with your tax advisor regarding your applicability for, and the appropriate federal, state, local, foreign or other tax treatment of, any such dividend income.

Backup Withholding

Stockholders will be required to provide their social security or other taxpayer identification numbers (or, in some instances, additional information) in connection with the Transaction to avoid backup withholding requirements that might otherwise apply. The letter of transmittal will require each stockholder to deliver such information when the Common Stock certificates are surrendered following the effective time of the Transaction. Failure to provide such information may result in backup withholding.

THE PRECEDING DISCUSSION OF MATERIAL UNITED STATES FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES IS FOR GENERAL INFORMATION ONLY AND IS NOT TAX ADVICE. ACCORDINGLY, EACH STOCKHOLDER SHOULD CONSULT ITS OWN TAX ADVISER AS TO THE PARTICULAR TAX CONSEQUENCES TO IT AND EFFECT OF ANY STATE, LOCAL OR FOREIGN TAX LAWS, AND OF ANY PROPOSED CHANGES IN APPLICABLE LAWS.

Dissenters' Rights; Escheat Laws

Under the Oklahoma General Corporation Act and Webco's Certificate of Incorporation and Bylaws, stockholders do not have the right to dissent with respect to the reverse split or forward split and to receive the fair value of their shares in cash.

The unclaimed property and escheat laws of each state provide that under circumstances defined in that state's statutes, holders of unclaimed or abandoned property must surrender that property to the state. Persons whose shares are eliminated and whose addresses are unknown to Webco, or who do not return their Common Stock certificate(s) and request payment therefor, generally will have a period of years (depending on applicable state law) from the effective date of the Transaction in which to claim the cash payment payable to them. Following the expiration of that period, the escheat laws of states of residence of stockholders, as shown by the records of Webco, generally provide for such state to obtain either (i) custodial possession of property that has been unclaimed until the owner reclaims it or (ii) escheat of such property to the state. If Webco does not have an address for the holder of record of the shares, then unclaimed cash-out payments, without interest, would be turned over to Webco's state of incorporation, the state of Oklahoma, in accordance with its escheat laws.

Recommendation of the Board

The Board recommends that the stockholders vote FOR the proposal to approve the Reverse/Forward Split Amendment. Unless a contrary choice is specified, proxies solicited by the Board will be voted FOR approval of the Reverse/Forward Split Amendment. See "Interests of Webco's Directors and Executive Officers in the Transaction" beginning on page 30.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Selected Historical Financial Information

The following summary of historical consolidated financial data was derived from Webco's audited consolidated financial statements as of and for each of the fiscal years ended July 31, 2003, 2002, 2001, 2000 and 1999, and from unaudited interim consolidated financial statements as of and for the nine months ended April 30, 2004 and 2003. The statement of operations data for the nine months ended April 30, 2004, are not necessarily indicative of results to be expected for the full fiscal year. Recent Developments

The following information about the financial condition and results of operations of Webco has not been audited and is preliminary in nature. Accordingly, the information is subject to being changed upon completion of internal and external review, adjustment and audit procedures.

For the fiscal 2004 third quarter ended April 30, 2004, Webco reported net income of $2,386,000, or $0.33 per diluted share. For the same quarter in fiscal 2003, earnings were $67,000, or $0.01 per diluted share. Net sales for the third quarter of fiscal 2004 were $55.9 million, a 25.0 percent increase over the $44.7 million for the same quarter last year.

Net income for the first nine months of fiscal 2004 was $3,149,000, or $0.44 per diluted share, compared to $1,901,000, or $0.27 per diluted share, for the same period in fiscal 2003. Net sales for the first nine months of the current year amounted to $151.1 million, a 14.3 percent increase over the $132.2 million in the same nine-month period of last year.

Webco's business during the third quarter was largely impacted by two separate business conditions. First, selling prices for finished products were based on the higher costs of coiled steel and were matched against Webco's lower average-cost inventories. Gross profit was 17.6 percent of net sales for the quarter compared to 9.5 percent in the first six months of fiscal 2004. Second, the lack of availability of steel limited the ability of customers to purchase products from Webco's competitors. Tubing industry excess capacity was largely mitigated by the lack of availability of carbon steel coils in the domestic marketplace.

The current market environment for Webco's products has been very conducive to positive operating results. Webco does not believe these results are sustainable and margins are expected to return to historical levels as the average cost of inventories increases to current price levels. The level of operating profitability achieved during the third quarter enabled Webco to afford the higher working capital requirements caused by increasing steel costs, despite borrowing limitations in Webco's revolving line of credit. At such time as steel prices begin to decline, Webco believes it may have the opposite challenge of matching decreasing sales prices with higher average-cost inventories.

Pro Forma Consolidated Financial Statements (Unaudited)

The following unaudited pro forma consolidated balance sheet as of April 30, 2004 and the unaudited pro forma consolidated statement of operations for the nine months ended April 30, 2004 and for the year ended July 31, 2003 show the pro forma effect of the Transaction and related events as required by Rule 11-02 of Regulation S-X. The historical figures for the period ended July 31, 2003 were derived from Webco's audited consolidated financial statements that were included in Webco's Annual Report on Form 10-K, as amended on Form 10-K/A, for the year ended July 31, 2003. The historical figures as of and for the period ended April 30, 2004 were derived from the Company's unaudited consolidated financial statements that were included in Webco's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q, as amended on Form 10-Q/A, for the nine months ended April 30, 2004.

The pro forma information below in this section giving effect to the Transaction is based on estimates of record ownership of shares of Common Stock, the number of shares outstanding and other information as of June 28, 2004 and assumes that the Minimum Number is 2,000, and, as a result of the foregoing, that 420,000 fractional shares and options to purchase 222,000 shares are cancelled or cashed out at a price of $4.75 per pre-Transaction share (net of the exercise price in the case of the options). In addition, Webco will make loans to certain executive officers and employees in the amount of $2.1 million. Pro forma adjustments to the pro forma balance sheet are computed as if the Transaction had occurred at April 30, 2004, while the pro forma income statements are computed as if the Transaction had occurred at the beginning of the period.

The pro forma information is not necessarily indicative of what our financial position or results of operations actually would have been if the Transaction had occurred on August 1, 2003, or August 1, 2002 or of our financial position or results of operations in the future. Webco's public reporting costs for the periods presented include only the historic public costs and do not include the additional expenses that will be required to comply with current and future federal securities laws.

The unaudited pro forma financial statements should be read in conjunction with the historical financial statements and accompanying footnotes included in our Annual Report on Form 10-K, as amended, and our Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended April 30, 2004, as amended, which are incorporated by reference in this proxy statement.

Dividends

Webco has not declared any dividends on the Common Stock during the past five years, and the Board of Directors does not currently intend to pay any cash dividends on the Common Stock in the foreseeable future. Payment of cash dividends by Webco is at the discretion of its Board of Directors and is dependent on its earnings, financial condition, capital requirements and other relevant factors. Webco's current credit facility also contains limitations on Webco's ability to pay dividends. Webco expects that the new credit facility that it is currently negotiating will also contain restrictions on Webco's ability to pay dividends.

Board of Directors
Special Committee
Webco Industries, Inc.
9101 West 21st Street
Sand Springs, OK 74063

Dear Board and Committee Members:

Webco Industries, Inc. (the Company) proposes to effect a reverse stock split (the Reverse Split) in which the holders of less than one share following the Reverse Split will receive cash in lieu of their fractional shares to be followed immediately by a forward split in which all holders of fractional shares after the forward split will receive cash in lieu thereof (the Transaction). You have requested our opinion as to the fairness from a financial point of view to those stockholders of the $4.75 per pre-Reverse Split share they will receive in lieu of their fractional shares.

In connection with this opinion, we have reviewed, among other things, minutes of the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Company authorizing the appointment of a Special Committee to consider the Transaction; Annual Reports on Form 10-K and 10-K/A of the Company for its fiscal years ended July 31, 2002 and 2003; certain Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q of the Company; certain current reports on Form 8-K relating to material events; certain other communications from the Company to its stockholders; and certain information, including financial forecasts, relating to the business, earnings, cash flow, assets and prospects of the Company, furnished to us by the Company. We also have held discussions with members of senior management of the Company concerning the business and prospects of the Company. In addition, we have reviewed certain financial and stock market data of the Company; we have compared those data with similar data of certain publicly held companies that we deemed to be relevant. We have also reviewed certain mergers and acquisitions of companies that we deemed to be comparable to the Company. We also reviewed such other financial studies and analyses and performed such other investigations, and took into account such other matters, as we deemed necessary, including our assessment of general economic, market and monetary conditions. Our opinion is based on economic, monetary and market conditions existing on the date hereof.

In preparing this opinion, we have relied on the accuracy and completeness of all information supplied or otherwise made available to us by the Company, and we have not assumed any responsibility to independently verify such information. With respect to the financial statements reviewed by us, we have assumed that they were prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, consistently applied (GAAP), and fairly present the Company's financial condition and results of operations as of their respective dates in accordance with GAAP. With respect to the financial forecasts reviewed by us, we have assumed that they were reasonably prepared and reflect the best currently available estimates and good faith judgments of the management of the Company as to future performance of the Company.

We have also relied upon assurances of the management of the Company that they are unaware of any facts that would make the information or financial forecasts provided to us incomplete or misleading. We have not made any independent evaluation or appraisal of the assets or liabilities (contingent or otherwise) of the Company, nor have we obtained or been furnished with any such evaluations or appraisals. We have also assumed, with your consent, that any material liabilities (contingent or otherwise, known or unknown) of the Company are as set forth in the consolidated financial statements of the Company. We were not requested to, and did not, consider the relative merits of the Transaction as compared to alternative business strategies or transactions.

This opinion has been prepared for the information of the Board of Directors of the Company (including its Special Committee). This opinion does not address the Company's underlying decision to effect the Transaction and does not constitute a recommendation as to how any stockholder of the Company should vote with respect to the Transaction. This opinion may not be reproduced, summarized, described, referred to, provided to any person, or otherwise made public or used for any other purpose without the prior written consent of Hoak Breedlove Wesneski & Co., except that this opinion may be reprinted in full in the Company's proxy statement with respect to the Transaction.

On the basis of, and subject to the foregoing, it is our opinion that as of the date hereof the $4.75 per pre-Reverse Split share to be paid in the Transaction for fractional shares is fair from a financial point of view to the holders thereof.

Very truly yours,

HOAK BREEDLOVE WESNESKI & CO.
