10 years with Sprint, holding leadership positions in the company's long-distance and PCS operations, and one year with Global One, a joint venture of Sprint, Deutsche Telekom and France Telecom, where he served as president and CEO.

"Gary is a proven leader and will do an excellent job heading Sprint," said Esrey. "He has a broad background of telecommunications experience that includes leading wireline, wireless and international operations. I am confident he will build on Sprint's strong foundation and further advance Sprint's position in the marketplace. We welcome him home."

"It is a pleasure to be a part of this great company again," Forsee said. "Sprint has an impressive heritage of innovation and customer service. When you combine that with the company's strong financial position and enviable set of assets, you quickly realize the incredible potential Sprint possesses."

"Replacing Bill Esrey as CEO will be a huge task," added Forsee. "He transformed Sprint from being primarily a rural local telephone company to becoming a leader in local, long-distance and wireless communications - a truly remarkable record of achievement. We want to build on what Bill, along with Ron LeMay and many others have created, and take Sprint to new heights. I firmly believe we can and will make it happen because that's what Sprint has always been about - achieving what others thought couldn't be done. I am eager to be part of that spirit and attitude again."

Judge William Webster, who served as the arbitrator in a suit brought by BellSouth and Cingular against Forsee, today issued conditions that Forsee is to follow to protect BellSouth's and Cingular's confidential information. Sprint's board said the conditions contained in the ruling are acceptable.

Background on Forsee

Before accepting his new position at Sprint, Forsee was vice chairman of BellSouth Corporation where he had responsibility for BellSouth's domestic operations. Upon joining BellSouth in September 1999, he managed staff functions throughout the corporation and subsequently served as president of BellSouth International.

After serving as interim chief executive officer of Sprint's wireless venture, now the company's PCS Division, and leading the company's bidding activity during the PCS auctions, he became the Long Distance Division's president and chief operating officer in March 1995. In February 1998, Forsee assumed the position of president and chief executive officer of Global One. Forsee resigned from Global One in July 1999.

Prior to joining Sprint in 1989, Forsee was with AT&T and Southwestern Bell for almost 18 years. The position he held prior to moving to Sprint was vice president of government sales and programs in AT&T's Federal Systems division.
