Item 8.01 Other Events.

In August 2010, a subsidiary of Noble Corporation plc initiated arbitration proceedings against the Libyan operating subsidiaries (the Defendants) of both BP plc (BP) and Exxon Mobil Corporation (Exxon) under a drilling contract for the Noble Homer Ferrington for operations in that country. BP attempted to terminate an assignment of the drilling contract from the Exxon subsidiary to the BP subsidiary. BP's actions took place in the months following the Macondo event involving BP in the Gulf of Mexico, when BP had halted deepwater drilling. BP attempted to claim that the rig was not in the required condition, and Exxon informed us that we needed to look to the BP subsidiary for payment of the dayrate during the assignment period. The arbitration panel issued an award in our favor, and on July 10, 2015, the period under which the Defendants could seek clarification or correction of the award under the applicable arbitration rules expired. The award, which has not been paid to us, is for $136 million plus interest and fees. The BP subsidiary was held primarily responsible for a significant majority of the award. We will vigorously pursue enforcement of the award, and we do not know if either of the Defendants will attempt to challenge the arbitration award. We cannot make any assurance as to the amount of the award that will actually be collected or when it will be collected. Consequently, we have not recognized any of the award to date.
