Item 5.02 Departure of Directors or Certain Officers; Election of Directors; Appointment of Certain Officers;
Compensatory Arrangements of Certain Officers

(b) On February 16, 2017, Cree, Inc., a North Carolina corporation (“Cree” or the “Company”), issued a press release announcing that it would be terminating its definitive agreement to sell its Wolfspeed Power and RF division, which includes the silicon carbide substrate business for power, RF and gemstone applications, to Infineon Technologies AG (“Infineon”). As a result of the Infineon transaction termination, Cree will be reintegrating the Wolfspeed business into Cree, and will be eliminating the Wolfspeed executive-level positions created in connection with the originally planned initial public offering of Wolfspeed. Accordingly, Cree announced that Franco Plastina, Cree’s Executive Vice President – Power and RF, and Chief Executive Officer of the Wolfspeed business unit, has stepped down from those positions and will be leaving Cree at the end of the current fiscal quarter. As a Section 16 Officer of Cree, Mr. Plastina is covered by Cree’s Severance Plan for Section 16 Officers (the “Severance Plan”), and his severance will be handled under the Severance Plan.
