As the new CEO and President of Chico's FAS, I felt it was important to share my views on the Company and why we believe shareholders should support the new strategic plan already well underway.

The Chico's FAS Board strongly recommends that shareholders vote "FOR" on the WHITE proxy card at the important July 21st annual meeting.

I joined Chico's FAS last December with more than 25 years of experience leading premier retail businesses, including Walmart and Michael's Stores.

I immediately took a deep dive into the business with a review that touched every part of the organization, which ultimately just reinforced my confidence in the Company, in our brands and in our platform for growth.

I also identified operating improvement opportunities. To address these, we announced four focus areas in February and positive changes are already well underway.

We are implementing important initiatives in supply chain, marketing, non-merchandise procurement that we expect will fundamentally improve our operating model, our speed to market, and help to drive traffic on our websites and in our stores.

We expect to achieve cost savings between $65 and $85 million annually in total from all of these initiatives.

Our desire to embrace change is also reflected in our governance and strengthened management team.

We have made new hires in real estate, planning and allocation, legal, and human resources.

We have also recommended that our shareholders approve a proposal to declassify our Board of Directors.

Taken together, these changes to our leadership, strategy, operations, finance and governance are significant indicators that your company is on the right track, and is entering a new era of profitable growth and value creation for our shareholders.

Your Board has nominated four individuals who it believes are best qualified to ensure that we continue to successfully execute on our new plan:

Bonnie Brooks brings global considerable apparel and merchandising experience, and several major turnarounds; Jan Fields, one of our newest independent directors who joined us in 2013, has already made amazing contributions to our leadership, governance, and offers unique marketing, consumer brand and supply chain insights;

Bill Simon has an impressive track record of driving cost efficient operations with other leading retailers;

- And I, as the Company's new CEO, have a passion for success and shareholder value creation that I hope you already see in the actions that we've taken.

Clearly, positive change is underway at Chico's FAS.

We believe that replacing any of your Board's superior nominees with any one of Barington's less qualified candidates would jeopardize our progress.

I truly believe that with the right team, Chico's FAS has an exciting future and significant growth ahead.

Your vote is important. We ask that you support the progress we are making by voting "FOR" on the WHITE proxy card today. Thank you.
