(2) Earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization

Since June 30, 2003, the Company has added, on an annualized basis, over 7.0 million gallons of net new business, which would, if sustained, result in an expected 54.0 million gallons delivered for the year ending June 30, 2004 or a 15% increase over the 47.5 million gallons delivered in the fiscal year 2003. For the six months ended December 31, 2003, the net margin per gallon was 9.1 cents per gallon compared to 11.5 cents per gallon in fiscal 2003, although net margin improved to 9.9 cents in the second quarter from 8.7 cents in the current year's first quarter.

The Company attributes the lower net margin per gallon in the same six-month period this year versus last year to two factors: (1) a lower average service charge per gallon resulting from the aggressive price-cutting by the Company's former largest competitor which discontinued operations in July 2003; and (2) higher direct operating costs (e.g. personnel training and equipment relocation) incurred during the first six months of this year due to the expansion of the Company's business in existing and new markets. Management believes that the residual effect of this discounting should abate and the pricing for mobile fueling services will stabilize at more sustainable levels. Other mobile fueling providers are expected to compete based on service capability and reliability rather than the self-destructive predatory pricing strategy experienced in the past.

While the Company incurred a loss in the second quarter of the 2004 fiscal year, its operating loss and net loss both decreased from the same period in the prior year by over $600,000 and nearly $500,000, respectively. Additionally, the Company reduced by $249,000 the operating loss it incurred in the second quarter of this year as compared to the first quarter when excluding the $757,000 gain on the extinguishment of debt. The $249,000 reduction of the operating loss in the current quarter was principally due to the addition of new business volumes and improved net margins.

The Company's financial condition is stable and, after its recent refinancing transaction, has improved in several ways. The August 2003 refinancing, which provided $5.8 million in net proceeds and lowered debt service requirements over the next two years, better matches the Company's anticipated cash flow and debt obligations, while providing support for the planned growth of its business. EBITDA has improved, increasing by over $550,000 in the second quarter of this year versus a year ago. Availability under the Company's $10 million bank line of credit has also increased.

Increasing EBITDA is reflective of the improvement in cash flow being generated from the Company's business operations before debt service and depreciation, and is a key indicator used by management and the financial community to gauge the Company's financial performance utilizing its capital resources. Since the Company has 30 trucks available for immediate service to support its expansion program in presently served and new markets, management believes that it is in a position to add significant new business volumes, generating continued strong growth in EBITDA with limited capital expenditures.

The Company plans to meet its income objectives by delivering increased volumes of fuel and generating higher margins in both existing and new markets through improved operating efficiencies. Labor costs are a primary consideration by existing and prospective customers in the use of mobile fueling services and the Company anticipates the expansion of the demand for its services as these labor costs continue to escalate. On January 4, 2004, new federal safety rules took effect reducing the number of hours truck drivers can be on duty, including any time spent fueling their trucks or equipment. The Company believes that the changes mandated under the new rules will increase the attractiveness of using mobile fueling services. Fleet operators may decide to use their drivers' time more effectively by delivering their product or services rather than spending time fueling vehicles.

Richard E. Gathright, Chairman, CEO and President of the Company commented,

"The Company's progress continues with increased volumes, improved margins and strong gains in EBITDA. Demand for mobile fueling services is growing as fleet operators focus on higher labor costs and the value we add by keeping their drivers behind the wheel. This increased demand should add momentum to the recent trend of firmer prices and stabilizing market conditions."
