Reasons

As set forth in the Directors Circular and Supplemental Management Information Circular, attached as Exhibit (a)(2)(F) hereto, and consistent with the views of the Board of Directors and the special committee of the Board of Directors (the Special Committee), Mr. McEwen is advising the shareholders of the Company to reject the Glamis Offer and not tender their Shares pursuant to the Glamis Offer for the following reasons:

Financial Considerations

Mr. McEwen agrees with the views expressed by the Board of Directors, the Special Committee and Morgan Stanley Canada Limited, financial advisor to the Special Committee, that the Glamis Offer is inadequate from a financial point of view. Based on Glamis closing share price on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) on January 19, 2005, using a 0.89 exchange ratio, the effective premium to the Company s shareholders has eroded to 4.9% relative to the closing share price of the Shares on the NYSE on December 15, 2004, the day prior to Glamis announcement of its intention to make an offer for the Company. This current implied premium of 4.9% compares to a 22.6% premium referred to by Glamis in its press release dated December 16, 2004 announcing its intention to make the Glamis Offer. Effective premiums in other unsolicited offers in the gold industry suggest a higher effective premium would be more appropriate than that currently implied by the Glamis Offer. As the Glamis Offer consists of all stock, any decline in Glamis market capitalization, or, if the Glamis Offer was successful, a decline in the combined company s valuation multiples, could result in a reduction in the value of the Glamis Offer to shareholders of the Company.

The Wheaton Transaction is highly accretive to shareholders of the Company on an earnings per share, cash flow per share and net asset value basis, while the Glamis Offer would be dilutive to shareholders of the Company on each of these valuation metrics. Specifically, the Glamis Offer would result in significant annual depreciation and depletion expenses that would substantially depress Glamis earnings for the foreseeable future. The Wheaton Transaction would immediately provide shareholders of the Company with enhanced earnings and cash flow and a strong financial position.

The Company will also have a much stronger financial position following completion of the Wheaton Transaction as compared to the Glamis Offer, positioning the Company for future growth. Wheaton has a significantly stronger balance sheet than Glamis (over $400 million of cash and listed securities compared to only $22 million for Glamis as at September 30, 2004). Following the Wheaton Transaction, the Company will have almost $1 billion in cash, listed securities and bullion and will be debt free. Together with Wheaton s undrawn $300 million line of credit, the Company will be provided with a strong platform for future growth.

The Wheaton Transaction will create a world-class gold company that will be significantly larger than existing intermediate gold companies and provide investors with an alternative to the existing senior gold producers. If historic trading volumes are maintained, the Company is expected to have greater trading volume following the Wheaton Transaction as compared to a combination with Glamis.

Business Risk Considerations

Following the Wheaton Transaction, the Company will be the world’s lowest cost million-ounce gold producer with projected 2005 production costs under $60 per ounce (net of by-product copper credits), which is approximately half those that would result from a Glamis transaction. Following the Wheaton Transaction, the Company will also have significantly greater gold production than under a Glamis transaction, diminishing the reliance on future exploration and development projects, while the value for shareholders of the Company under the Glamis Offer depends on Glamis’ ability to implement future development and operating plans at its development properties and achieve future operating results.

Management Considerations

Following the Wheaton Transaction, the Company will have an outstanding and proven management team. Mr. McEwen will continue as Chairman of the Board of Directors, and during his tenure as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer the Company’s share price has appreciated by approximately 850%. Mr. Telfer will become the new Chief Executive Officer of the Company, and during his tenure as Chief Executive Officer of Wheaton Wheaton’s share price has appreciated by over 530%. The combined management team of the Company and Wheaton will have extensive underground mining experience and be positioned to achieve operating synergies. In contrast, Glamis does not currently have any underground mine operations.

Intent to Tender

Mr. McEwen does not intend to tender pursuant to the Glamis Offer any of the Shares held by him of record or beneficially.

Item 5. PERSON/ ASSETS, RETAINED, EMPLOYED, COMPENSATED OR USED.

Except for the retention of TFNN to publicize the Website and reiterate Mr. McEwen’s position with respect to the Wheaton Transaction and the Glamis Offer, to date, Mr. McEwen has not directly or indirectly employed, retained or compensated any person or class of persons to make solicitations or recommendations in connection with the transaction.

Item 6. INTEREST IN SECURITIES OF THE SUBJECT COMPANY.

Mr. McEwen has not, and to his knowledge, none of his affiliates have engaged in any transactions in the Shares during the last 60 days.

Item 7. PURPOSES OF THE TRANSACTION AND PLANS OR PROPOSALS.

Not applicable.
